Occupancy. — State v. Fisher, 1 Penn. (Del.) 303.

Absence of Occupant Animo Revertendi. — Schwabacher v. People, 165 Ill. 618.

Meaning of "Within the Curtilage." — A building, to be within the curtilage, need not be inclosed with the dwelling. It is sufficient that it be near enough to the dwelling house to be conveniently accessible, and that it be actually used for domestic purposes. State v. Buggs, 66 Kan. 668.

54. 2. Statutes. — Smith v. State, 140 Ala. 146; State v. Davis, 138 Mo. 107; Cronin v. State, (Tenn. 1904) 82 S. W. Rep. 477.

Railroad Cars. — By statute in Missouri a railroad car may be the subject of burglary. State v. Davis, 138 Mo. 107.

A flat car loaded with wheat and covered over with tarpaulin, fastened down on all sides, is not a "railroad car," within the Washington statute. State v. Petit, 32 Wash. 129.

Building Must Be Actually Used. — Under Gen. Stat. Kan. (1901), § 2059, the building must contain goods, wares, etc., in order to be the subject of burglary. That it is usually used for keeping such goods is not enough. State v. Poole, 65 Kan. 713.

3. Degrees of Crime. — It is a greater offense under the Kansas statutes burglariously to break and enter a dwelling house than it is to break and enter any other building. State v. Moon, 62 Kan. 801.

In North Carolina, under Acts 1889, c. 434, if a sleeping apartment is not in a dwelling house it must be actually entered by breaking in order to support a conviction of burglary in the first degree. State v. Foster, 129 N. Car. 704.

In Texas there is a difference between burglary of a house and burglary of a private residence. See Williams v. State, 42 Tex. Crim. 602; Adams v. State, (Tex. Crim. 1901) 62 S. W. Rep. 1058; Holland v. State, (Tex. Crim. 1903) 74 S. W. Rep. 763; Jones v. State, (Tex. Crim. 1904) 80 S. W. Rep. 530.

4. Chicken House. — Under Act Mo. May 31, 1899, a chicken house is a building in which burglary can be committed; and there is no distinction whether the chickens are kept for sale or for private use. State v. Helms, 179 Mo. 280.

So a chicken house is within the term "other building," as used in Gen. Stat. Kan. (1901), § 2059. State v. Poole, 65 Kan. 713.

Hotel. — A hotel is an "other building" within the Illinois statute. Bruen v. People, 206 Ill. 417.

A Planing Mill Is a "Building" within Code Iowa, § 4791. State v. Haney, 110 Iowa 26.

A Camp House is an "other house" within the Tennessee statute. Cronin v. State, (Tenn. 1904) 82 S. W. Rep. 477.

55. 1. Tent. — Where a wagon sheet was stretched over poles stuck in the ground and fastened to stakes, one end of the tent boarded up, and some boxes and an old door placed at the other end, it was held that the structure was a "house." Favro v. State, 39 Tex. Crim. 452, 73 Am. St. Rep. 950.

Corncrib. — A corncrib used only for storing feed, etc., is a house under the Texas statutes. Barber v. State, (Tex. Crim. 1902) 69 S. W. Rep. 515.

Header Box. — A portable box, fourteen feet long and six feet wide, with cover, used for carrying grain, is not a "house." Williamson v. State, 30 Tex. Crim. 60.

56. 1. Term Outhouse Construed. — Under 2 Pall. Annot. Codes and Stat. Wash. (1897), § 7104, an outhouse must be both adjoining to the dwelling house and occupied therewith. State v. Randall, 36 Wash. 438.

3. Storeroom. — Compare State v. Johnson, 64 Ohio St. 270.

A Drug Store has been held to be a storehouse. McNutt v. State, (Neb. 1903) 94 N. W. Rep. 143.

A Room in a Storehouse is a storehouse within Stat. Ky. (1894), § 1164. Johnson v. Com., (Ky. 1900) 57 S. W. Rep. 255.

A Mill-house is neither an office, shop, storehouse, warehouse, nor banking house, within the Virginia statute. Cool v. Com., 94 Va. 799.

A Small Room in the Cellar of a Dwelling, in which a few bottles of wine are kept for family use, is not a storehouse within Stat. Ky. (1894), § 1164. Mason v. Com., 101 Ky. 397.

4. An Opera House, in which are kept the stage properties between performances, is a "warehouse" within Stat. Ky. (1894), § 1164. Hunter v. Com., (Ky. 1899) 48 S. W. Rep. 1077.

A Building Which Is Part Warehouse and Part Lodging House is a "warehouse" within the Washington statute. State v. Dolson, 22 Wash. 259.

57. 3. Dwelling House. — A log house, with but one window, and that one boarded up, used by wood-choppers occasionally, and occupied temporarily at the time of the burglary, is a "dwelling house" within Mo. Rev. Stat. 1889, § 3521. State v. Weber, 156 Mo. 257.

The basement of a dwelling house, having no internal connection therewith, is nevertheless part of the dwelling house. Hahn v. State, 60 Neb. 487.

If the barn be within the same inclosure as the dwelling house, one who breaks and enters there in the night-time is guilty of burglary of the dwelling, even though breaking and entering a barn by night constitutes a distinct statutory offense. People v. Griffith, 133 Mich. 607.

Yard. — For a discussion of the word "yard," see State v. Bugg, 66 Kan. 668.

62. See note 1.

The Iowa cases were reviewed, and the subject considered at great length, in State v. Brady, (Iowa 1902) 91 N. W. Rep. 801, the court laying down the following rules: That the fact of possession of goods recently stolen in connection with burglary does not in itself create a presumption or amount to prima facie proof that the possessor is guilty of the burglary. Second. That where, independent of the mere possession by the accused of the recently stolen goods, the evidence tends to show that a burglary was committed by some one, and that the theft of the goods was accomplished at the same time and by means of such burglary, the proof of possession of the fruits of the crime will be sufficient to sustain a conviction of the felonious breaking and entering. See also State v. Brundige, 118 Iowa 92.

Unexplained Recent Possession Should Be Considered by Jury.—Considine v. U. S., (C. C. A.) 112 Fed. Rep. 342; Taylor v. Territory, (Ariz. 1901) 64 Pac. Rep. 423; *People v. Finding the defendant in close juxtaposition to the goods has been held to be enough. Perry v. State, (Tex. Crim. 1904) 78 S. W. Rep. 513.

Possession Must Be Actual.—Simmons v. State, (Tex. Crim. 1903) 74 S. W. Rep. 762.

Failure to Trace Stolen Goods to Accused.—If it appears reasonably certain that the defendant placed the goods where they were found, it is not necessary to prove further the possession. McDaniel v. State, (Tex. Crim. 1896) 37 S. W. Rep. 324.

Evidence of Possession of Stolen Goods Admissible.—Goods found in possession of one jointly indicted with the defendants are properly received in evidence, if identified as taken at the same time as the goods sold by the defendants, and if all were seen together before and after the burglary. State v. Wrand, 108 Iowa 73.

But the goods must be identified. Brantley v. State, 115 Ga. 229.

Evidence Explanatory of Possession of Property Admissible.—King v. State, 99 Ga. 686, 59 Am. St. Rep. 251.

Explanation of Possession.—If the jurors have a reasonable doubt of the defendant's guilt, caused by his explanation of possession, they should acquit him. Hale v. State, 122 Ala. 85; People v. Lang, 142 Cal. 482; Alvia v. State, 42 Tex. Crim. 424; Lovelace v. State, (Tex. Crim. 1903) 76 S. W. Rep. 756; McCoy v. State, (Tex. Crim. 1904) 81 S. W. Rep. 46.

A charge that if the jurors believed that the defendant borrowed the property found in his possession, they should not consider such possession as an inculpatory circumstance, is sufficiently favorable to the defendant. Riding v. State, 40 Tex. Crim. 452.

The defendant need not necessarily show an honest and fair possession. State v. Brady, 121 Iowa 561.

Evidence of Possession of Burglar's Tools.—Burglar's tools found on a farm after a burglary are admissible in evidence where it appears that the defendant was the only person living on the farm. People v. Gregory, 130 Mich. 522.

It is immaterial as bearing on the admissibility that the tools are not of a kind exclusively used for criminal purposes. State v. Wayne, 62 Kan. 636.

It is also immaterial that the possession of burglar's tools is in itself a separate crime. Williams v. People, 196 Ill. 173.

On an indictment for burglariously entering a hotel, proof that keys of other hotels were found in the possession of the defendant, one of them fitting the door of a room entered by him, is admissible. Bruen v. People, 206 Ill. 417.

Breaking and Entry Must Be Proved.—Lester v. State, 106 Ga. 371; Strickland v. State, (Tex. Crim. 1904) 78 S. W. Rep. 689.

Possession of One Defendant.—Evidence is admissible against one defendant to identify property taken from a burglarized house and found in the possession of another defendant. Terry v. State, 39 Tex. Crim. 628. See also People v. Wilson, 133 Mich. 517.

Intent — Question of Fact for Jury. — Ragland v. State, 71 Ark. 65; State v. Worthen, 111 Iowa 267.

Presumption of Intent from Breaking and Entering — Usually Theft. — State v. Worthen, 111 Iowa 267.

Intent Must Be Proved. — If the indictment alleges an intent to steal a specific article, such intent must be proved before a conviction may be had. Rush v. State, 114 Ga. 113.

On an indictment for burglary with intent to murder, it is error to admit statements of the prosecutrix that she was afraid the defendant would kill her, there being no evidence of any threats or acts on the part of the defendant. Trevenio v. State, (Tex. Crim. 1897) 42 S. W. Rep. 594.

Evidence Held Insufficient to Prove Intent. — In Price v. State, (Tex. Crim. 1904) 83 S. W. Rep. 185, evidence that the defendant tore a board off of the house of the prosecutrix, but went away when commanded, was held not to be enough to support an indictment for an attempt to commit burglary with intent to rape. See also Taylor v. State, (Miss. 1904) 37 So. Rep. 498; Mason v. State, (Tex. Crim. 1904) 83 S. W. Rep. 689.

Burning Building to Conceal Burglary. — It is competent for the state to show that subsequent to the alleged burglary the defendant set fire to the building burglarized in order to conceal the traces of guilt. Roberson v. State, 40 Fla. 509.

Attempt to Escape from Jail May Be Shown. — State v. Wrand, 108 Iowa 73.

4. Proof that Building Was Closed. — Adkinson v. State, (Fla. 1904) 37 So. Rep. 522.

Evidence Held Sufficient to Prove Breaking and Entry. — Proof that the door of an apartment was closed at noon, that the defendant was discovered inside between one and two o'clock, and that the door was always kept closed, was held to be sufficient to show that the defendant opened the door. People v. Gartland, 30 N. Y. App. Div. 534.

Proof of Breaking Essential. — Mere proof that property is stolen from a house, into which apparently no entry could have been made save by unlocking a door, is not enough to show a breaking. Lester v. State, 106 Ga. 371.

68. 1. Evidence of Conspiracy. — State v. Donovan, 125 Iowa 239.

2. Evidence Sufficient to Sustain Conviction — California. — People v. Lang, 142 Cal. 482; People v. Sears, 119 Cal. 267; People v. Brady, 133 Cal. xx, 65 Pac. Rep. 823; People v. Joy, 135 Cal. xix, 66 Pac. Rep. 964.

Wisconsin. — Grimshaw v. State, 98 Wis. 612; Hunt v. State, 103 Wis. 559.

What Constitutes "Taking Away." — Under the Kentucky statute forbidding entering and "taking away" property, a conviction is proper if the defendant is discovered in a house with a basket packed with articles taken from a trunk. Asportation from the house is not essential. Loving v. Com., 107 Ky. 575.

68. 3. Evidence Not Sufficient to Convict. — State v. Riggs, 74 Minn. 460; James v. State, 77 Miss. 370, 78 Am. St. Rep. 527; Richardson v. State, (Miss. 1903) 33 So. Rep. 441; *State v. W. Rep. 419; Bundick v. State, 97 Va. 783.

69. 2. State v. Garbe, 34 Wash. 395.

3. For Acts Held to Constitute an Attempt to commit burglary, see State v. Carr, 146 Mo. 1.

Statutory Definition. — Pen. Code Tex., art. 850, defines an attempt to commit burglary as "an endeavor to accomplish the crime of burglary carried beyond mere preparation, but falling short of the ultimate design in any particular of it." Fonville v. State, (Tex. Crim. 1901) 62 S. W. Rep. 573.

Acts Amounting to Burglary Will Warrant Conviction for Attempt. — State v. Mahoney, 122 Iowa 168.

Breaking Transom, with Intent Feloniously to Enter, Is Attempt. — Com. v. Flaherty, 25 Pa. Super. Ct. 490.

Going to Building with Suitable Tools Is Sufficient Overt Act. — People v. Sullivan, 173 N. Y. 122, 93 Am. St. Rep. 582.

Sufficiency of Evidence. — Possession of a broken knife fitting exactly a piece of knife blade found in the door jamb of the house attempted to be entered, coupled with suspicious conduct and false statements, is sufficient to justify a conviction of attempt to commit burglary. White v. People, 179 Ill. 356.

Acts Not Amounting to an Attempt. — Where the defendant agreed to burglarize a house, met an accomplice pursuant to such agreement, armed, and bought chloroform at a drug store, but was then arrested, it was held that there was no attempt to commit burglary. People v. Youngs, 122 Mich. 292. See also Moore v. State, (Tex. Crim. 1896) 37 S. W. Rep. 747.

4. Proof of General Intent Sufficient. — People v. Jones, 124 Mich. 177; State v. Hahn, 11 Ohio Dec. 311, 8 Ohio N. P. 101.

Evidence of Intent. — Where a policeman saw the defendant, who had just completed a term for burglary, examining the houses on a street, and where the defendant, on seeing the policeman, jumped on a truck and attempted to conceal a "jimmy," it was held that this was sufficient evidence of his intent to use the jimmy in the commission of a crime. People v. Thompson, 33 N. Y. App. Div. 177.

Evidence of Previous Behavior. — On an indictment for having a burglar's tool with intent to use it in committing burglary, evidence is inadmissible to prove that some months previous the defendant was seen loitering around a dwelling house at night under suspicious circumstances. Leonard v. State, 60 N. J. L. 8.

Intent to Use Tools Outside of State Sufficient. — People v. Reilly, 49 N. Y. App. Div. 218, affirmed 164 N. Y. 600.

State May Show Purpose for Which Tools Are Adapted. — People v. Jones, 124 Mich. 177.

70. 3. Burn, Burning — Arson. — In an indictment for arson the terms "set fire to" and burn are synonymous, and either term means that the house or some part thereof must be consumed by fire. The charring of wood by fire is the burning of it within the meaning of the statutes defining arson. Benbow v. State, 128 Ala. 1.

72. 1. White v. Rio Grande Western R. Co., 25 Utah 346.

2. The word business in a will stating that the testator in his lifetime had given his son the business of an express company must be regarded as meaning the establishment of the enterprise, its good-will, its connection with transportation lines so established, which were valuable adjuncts and almost a necessity for the culmination of final success to the son. Solley v. Westcott, (Supm. Ct. Tr. T.) 43 Misc. (N. Y.) 195.

In the Sense of Employment, Occupation. — Brush Electric Light, etc., Co. v. Wells, 110 Ga. 198; Foster v. Monroe, (Supm. Ct. Spec. T.) 40 Misc. (N. Y.) 449.

Calling and Business. — See Waggener v. Haskell, 89 Tex. 435.

79. BUT. — See note 1.

81. [BUTTER. — See note 2a.]

BUY. — See note 3.

Sunday. — Taking a Note in settlement of an account for merchandise is business. Howe v. Ballard, 113 Wis. 375.

County and Township Business — Special Legislation. — Jackson County v. State, 147 Ind. 476.

Change of Venue. — In construing a state constitution providing that "all civil and criminal business arising in any county must be tried in such county unless a change of venue be taken in such cases as may be provided by law," the court said: "The word business was used as a general term to include causes of action and all other business which might arise in any county, and the manifest intention was that all suits, civil and criminal, should be brought, and the cases tried, in the county in which the causes of action arose, unless a change of venue should be taken in such cases as might be provided by law." Konold v. Rio Grande Western R. Co., 16 Utah 151; Bach v. Brown, 17 Utah 435.

Business Hours. — Cox v. Island Min. Co., 65 N. Y. App. Div. 508, citing 5 AM. AND ENG. ENCYC. OF LAW (2d ed.) 77, 78.

Business Agents. — The word "agents," as used in an act providing a tax "upon all agents of packing houses doing business in this state," means managing or superintending agents, and includes every agent who is the alter ego of the principal by whom he is employed. Stewart v. Kehr, 115 Ga. 184.

"The Word Business Is Not Synonymous with the Word Action, and is not an element either of a cause or right of action." White v. Rio Grande Western R. Co., 25 Utah 349. Compare Bach v. Brown, 17 Utah 435; Konold v. Rio Grande Western R. Co., 16 Utah 151.

"Business and Property." — Amounts unpaid on stock at the time of the liquidation of a corporation do not constitute a part of its "business and property" which may be transferred to a new company under section 161 of the English Companies Act of 1862. Bank of China, etc., v. Morse, 168 N. Y. 458.

Business and Trade. — The meaning of the word business, while very broad and comprehensive in its general sense, must be limited when used in connection with the word "trade." Bohnsack v. McDonald, (Supm. Ct. Spec. T.) 26 Misc. (N. Y.) 496.

Single Act — Wood Business. — In construing a contract not to engage in the wood business, the court said: "The word business is not used in the contract to denote an isolated act or two of disposing of wood for the special convenience and interest of the defendant, but an aggregation of acts that may fairly constitute the carrying on of the 'wood business' as defined in the contract." Parkhurst v. Brock, 72 Vt. 355.

Foreign Corporation. — Delaware, etc., Canal Co. v. Mahlenbrock, 63 N. J. L. 281, citing 5 AM. AND ENG. ENCYC. OF LAW (2d ed.) 71; Ammons v. Brunswick-Balke-Collender Co., (Indian Ter. 1904) 82 S. W. Rep. 937.

Doing Business Within a State— Foreign Corporations. — Cesar v. Capell, 83 Fed. Rep. 427; Stewart v. Kehr, 115 Ga. 184; National Mut. Bldg., etc., Assoc. v. Brahan, 80 Miss. 407; Florida Cent., etc., R. Co. v. Columbia, 54 S. Car. 266; George R. Barse Live Stock Co. v. Range Valley Cattle Co., 16 Utah 59.

Established Business. — Under a Massachusetts statute giving compensation to the owner of an established business injured by the taking of property for a metropolitan reservoir it was held that a physician's practice is such a business. Earle v. Com., 180 Mass. 579.

But under the same statute a widow whose children and other relatives boarded with her was held not to be an individual owning an established business. Gavin v. Com., 182 Mass. 190.

79. 1. In the Sense of "On the Contrary." — Potter v. Lainhart, 44 Fla. 647.

"But" in the Sense of "Except" — Constitutional Provision. — Rock Springs First Nat. Bank v. Foster, 9 Wyo. 157; Western Union Tel. Co. v. Harris, (Tenn. Ch. 1899) 52 S. W. Rep. 748; Dowdell v. McBride, 92 Tex. 239.

"But" May Mean "Yet," "Still," "Moreover" in construing a statute. Adams v. Yazoo, etc., R. Co., 75 Miss. 284.

"Or" Substituted for "But" in construing a will. Cox's Estate, 180 Pa. St. 144.

81. 2a. Adulteration — Oleomargarine Statute. — In People v. Rotter, 131 Mich. 252, the court said: "Butter is a well-known commodity. From time immemorial it has had but one origin, viz., from the churning of milk or cream. Whatever may be said of the possibility of making a product from other compounds than milk or cream that shall closely resemble or be chemically identical with butter, the world has but one understanding of what is meant by the word butter, and we must assume that such is the sense in which our legislature used the term." And see the title ADULTERATION.

3. Strawberry Valley Cattle Co. v. Chipman, 13 Utah 454, quoting Webster's definition set out in the original text.

"Buying and Selling or Pledging are acts of a different nature. An authority to do the one by no means implies the authority to do the other." Per Brantley, C. J., in Trent v. Sherlock, 26 Mont. 88.

Buyer's Risk. — Where it was stipulated in a contract of sale that fruit was to be shipped "F. O. B. California, buyer's risk, California weights," it was held that the term "buyer's risk" did not impose on the purchasers the assumption of the risk of any damage from improper packing or shipping in a defective car, if the seller was himself the owner and shipper. Rose v. Weinberger, 108 Ga. 533; Rose v. Weinberger, 112 Ga. 631.

Buying and Providing are not synonymous terms, under an English statute authorizing the providing of burial grounds. Ward v. Portsmouth, (1898) 2 Ch. 200.

82. BY. — See note 1.

82. 1. "By" Not Exclusive — In the Sense of "On" or "At." — Walters v. Stockberger, 20 Ind. App. 277; Blalock v. Clark, 133 N. Car. 306; Wachsmuth v. Routledge, 36 Oregon 307.

"When used to designate a terminal point of time the word by means 'not later than;' hence, a condition affixed to a subscription to the capital stock of a corporation that a certain amount should be subscribed for 'by July 1st,' was fulfilled by the total subscriptions reaching such amount on the night of July 1st." Elizabeth City Cotton Mills v. Dunstan, 121 N. Car. 12.

Boundaries — Middle of Highway. — Graham v. Stern, 51 N. Y. App. Div. 408.

"By" Is Equivalent to "Through the Means, Act, or Instrumentality of," as used in a statute providing that no conveyance by an insolvent corporation or officer thereof shall be valid, etc. O'Brien v. East River Bridge Co., 36 N. Y. App. Div. 17, affirmed 161 N. Y. 539.

The Words "By or in Behalf of" a person aggrieved, in N. Y. Code Civ. Pro., § 2127, providing for an application for certiorari, are sufficiently broad to permit verification by a duly authorized attorney. Matter of Belmont, (Supm. Ct. Spec. T.) 40 Misc. (N. Y.) 133.

Call an Election — Synonymous with Order. —

110. CAN.—See note 1.

In Rizer v. People, 18 Colo. App. 40, the court said: "The judgment below awards a peremptory writ commanding the respondents to call a special election. Exception is taken to the phraseology. The word used in the statute is 'order.' The meaning of the language of the judgment cannot be very well misunderstood. It uses call as synonymous with 'order.'

Nevertheless it is not strictly accurate, and, although we think the judgment good as it stands, to obviate possible technical objection it should be amended so as to conform to the statutory phraseology."

3. Unlawful Disposition of Waste Water.—Where it was provided by statute that the "waste water" of a canal should be discharged into another canal, it was held that "waste water" meant all water not legitimately needed for the purposes of navigation, and that the company owning the first canal had no right to sell water to manufacturers or otherwise so to dispose of it as to prevent it from passing into the other canal. Rochdale Canal Co. v. Manchester Ship Canal Co., 85 L. T. N. S. 585.

Where Public Street Taken. — Where the state abandoned a canal, for which a public street had been taken, it was held that the original easement thereupon reverted in the public. Huntington v. Townsend, 29 Ind. App. 269.

128. 2. Matter of Alger, (Surrogate Ct.) 38 Misc. (N. Y.) 143.

What Constitutes Canceling — Necessity of Cross Lines — Canceled. — See Matter of Alger, (Surrogate Ct.) 38 Misc. (N. Y.) 143; Matter of Akers, 74 N. Y. App. Div. 461.

Whether Writing the Word "Canceled" upon an Instrument Itself Amounts to a Cancellation, see Matter of Akers, 74 N. Y. App. Div. 461.

130. 1. The English Municipal Corporation Act 1882, § 77, provides that "candidate means a person elected, or having been nominated, or having declared himself a candidate for election." Harford v. Linskey, (1899) 1 Q. B. 852.

131. 6. A Canvasser Is Not a Traveling Salesman within an act prohibiting the levying of a license tax. In this case the court said: "Canvass is defined in the Standard Dictionary of the English language to mean: 'To go about (a region or district) to solicit votes, orders, subscriptions, or the like; traverse (a district or region) for inquiry, or in the effort to obtain something; * * * as, to canvass a territory for a subscription-book,' etc." Price Co. v. Atlanta, 105 Ga. 358.

A commercial drummer, or canvasser, who goes out on the road soliciting orders for his house, whether it be located in or out of the state, and who takes with him samples of the goods or wares his house deals in, is not a "traveling vender" within the meaning of section 13 of Act No. 150 of 1890. Pegues v. Ray, 50 La. Ann. 574.

Includes Tally Sheet. — A canvass under the provisions of the New York Election Law includes not only the counting of the votes by the inspectors, but the record of the count by the poll clerks upon the tally sheet. This tally sheet, therefore, is made a substantial part of the canvass. Matter of Stewart, 24 N. Y. App. Div. 209.

132. 1. Capable of Taking Effect. — Where under a special power of appointment a testator appoints to the uses or trusts of an antecedent instrument, or such of them as are "capable of taking effect," the phrase "capable of taking effect" may be construed as meaning what the law allows to take effect, and need not be confined to a reference to the uses or trusts which, by reason of the deaths of parties and other intervening circumstances, are still in fact existing, or capable of coming into existence; and if therefore some of the uses or trusts fail by reason of the cestuis que trust not being objects of the power, or by reason of the rule against perpetuities being infringed, those uses or trusts may be treated as excluded from the appointment. In re Finch, (1903) 2 Ch. 486.

133. 1. Capacity to Sue Distinguished from Cause of Action. — "There is a difference between capacity to sue, which is the right to come into court, and a cause of action, which is the right to relief in court. Incapacity to sue exists when there is some legal disability, such as infancy or lunacy, or a want of title in the plaintiff to the character in which he sues. The plaintiff was duly appointed receiver, and has a legal capacity to sue as such, and hence could bring the defendants into court by the service of a summons upon them, even if he had no cause of action against them. On the other hand, an infant has no capacity to sue, and hence could not lawfully cause the defendants to be brought into court, even if he had a good cause of action against them. Incapacity to sue is not the same as insufficiency of facts to sue upon." Ward v. Petrie, 157 N. Y. 311. See also Hanna v. People's Nat. Bank, 76 N. Y. App. Div. 224.

2. Shoulder Wrap. — An indictment for larceny describing the property stolen as "one cape, of the value, etc.," is sufficient. The court said: "In the general popular and usual acceptation the word cape means either a garment or part of a garment used for covering the shoulders of the wearer, or a neck or narrow strip or point of land extending some distance into a body of water. The rule is, 'the indictment must state with reasonable certainty what was stolen.' (2 Bishop on Crim. Pro., § 969.) A natural formation of the earth — as a cape of land — cannot be the subject of larceny, hence it would be wholly unreasonable to say it was uncertain in which sense, in ordinary acceptation, the word cape was used. The word cape is sometimes employed as descriptive of a kind of wine made at the Cape of Good Hope, but in such instance it is not used as a noun. It is, therefore, clear it was not in that sense that it was used in the indictment. It is urged that the word cape means the coping of a wall, and also ears of corn broken off in threshing; but we find from standard dictionaries and cyclo-

Tender a Car. — In Winkler v. Philadelphia, etc., R. Co., 4 Penn. (Del.) 80, the court said: "The tender of a locomotive engine engaged in interstate commerce is a car within the scope of the Act of Congress, which uses the general terms 'locomotive,' car, or 'train.' A tender is defined to be a car by Webster. The tender is not a locomotive engine, or component part thereof, but is the small car carrying water and fuel for the engine, and to which the first passenger or freight car of the train is usually coupled."

Gogerty*, 80 Ill. App. 635.

2a. In Thomson-Houston Electric Co. v. Lorain Steel Co., (C. C. A.) 117 Fed. Rep. 251, the court said: "Carbon is a broad word. It may be used to include a diamond or soot, but, according to all the canons of patent construction, it must be taken here as meaning the carbon known at the time to electricians under that name, — the ordinary carbon of the art, such as was employed for the pencils of arc lamps, for battery plates, for rheostats or artificial resistances, and other similar electrical purposes. It was made up of some variety of coke either from petroleum or bituminous coal, the structure of the material being agglomerate; that is, it is practically numerous particles cemented together, leaving pores between the particles, but not large openings."

A conversion is not worked by delay in delivery by a station agent who had reasonable doubt whether a charge for detention of the goods was lawful, Hett v. Boston, etc., R. Co., 69 N. H. 139; nor by a deviation resulting in failure of the consignee to receive prompt notice of arrival, Southern Pac. R. Co. v. Booth, (Tex. Civ. App. 1897) 39 S. W. Rep. 585.

233. 1. Receiving Goods from One Not the Owner. — Robert C. White Live Stock Commission Co. v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., 87 Mo. App. 330.

2. Shewalter v. Missouri Pac. R. Co., 84 Mo. App. 589.

3. Interference Not Amounting to Conversion. — Where the consignee refuses to receive goods on account of damage, it is not conversion for the carrier to have the boxes containing the goods broken open to discover the damage. Silverman v. St. Louis, etc., R. Co., 51 La. Ann. 1785.

Where grain is carried past the shelling point and sold unshelled, the remedy is not by action of conversion, but for the difference in the market value shelled and unshelled, less the expense of shelling. Redmon v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., 90 Mo. App. 68.

But Taking Goods Out of Bond Without Authority, whereby they are made of less value at the point of destination, makes the carrier liable in actual damages. Smith v. New Orleans, etc., R. Co., 106 La. 11, 87 Am. St. Rep. 285.

5. Wrongful Disposition or Wilful Withholding Necessary. — Buston v. Pennsylvania R. Co., 116 Fed. Rep. 235, affirmed (C. C. A.) 119 Fed. Rep. 808; Shewalter v. Missouri Pac. R. Co., 84 Mo. App. 589; Hett v. Boston, etc., R. Co., 69 N. H. 139; Manda v. Wells, (Supm. Ct. App. T.) 21 Misc. (N. Y.) 308; Rubin v. Wells Fargo Express Co., (Supm. Ct. App. T.) 85 N. Y. Supp. 1108; Fishman v. Y. 591, affirming 77 N. Y. App. Div. 469.

Goods Stopped In Transitu. — Such a stipulation does not govern the liability of the carrier for failure to return goods stopped in transitu. Rosenthal v. Weir, 54 N. Y. App. Div. 275, affirmed 170 N. Y. 148.

316. 1. Notice that the Carrier Will Not Be Responsible for Loss of Market is valid, and relieves the carrier from liability in the absence of negligence. Duckham v. Great Western R. Co., 80 L. T. N. S. 774.

4. Special Contract — Wilful Wrongdoing. — Knox v. Great Northern R. Co., (1896) 2 Ir. R. 632.

An Exemption in General Terms will not relieve the carrier from liability for negligence. Price v. Union Lighterage Co., (1903) 1 K. B. 750.

Unreasonable Delay, Though Entirely Unexplained, may not amount to wilful misconduct. The burden is on the consignor to prove that the carrier intentionally delayed the goods. Graham v. Belfast, etc., R. Co., (1901) 2 Ir. R. 13.

Deviation and Delay Are Covered by a stipulation for nonliability except for wilful misconduct, where they were due to mistake on the part of the carrier, and the carrier, after discovering the mistake, did his best to minimize the damage. Foster v. Great Western R. Co., (1904) 2 K. B. 306. Compare Mallet v. Great Eastern R. Co., (1899) 1 Q. B. 309.

b. LOSSES NOT THE RESULT OF NEGLIGENCE — Losses by Fire. —

See note 5.

316. 6. Scope of Act. — The Railway and Canal Traffic Act "extends only to negligence, or default in the nature of negligence, or within the scope of the servant's employment." If there is no negligence on the part of the carrier or its servants, that act should not be considered in determining whether a notice by the carrier that it will not be responsible for any loss of market is reasonable, but the question should be decided according to the principles of the common law. Duckham v. Great Western R. Co., 80 L. T. N. S. 774.

317. 1. Perishable Goods — Loss of Market. — Mallet v. Great Eastern R. Co., (1899) 1 Q. B. 309, 68 L. J. Q. B. 256, 80 L. T. N. S. 53.

318. 1. Total Exemption from Liability for Negligence. — Under the provisions of the Dominion Railway Act, 51 Vict., c. 29, § 246, where the damage to goods is caused by the negligence of a railway company, the company is precluded from setting up a condition indorsed on the bill of lading totally exempting it from the liability for damages so caused. St. Mary's Creamery Co. v. Grand Trunk R. Co., 8 Ont. L. Rep. 1, affirming 5 Ont. L. Rep. 742, following Grand Trunk R. Co. v. Vogel, 11 Can. Sup. Ct. 612, and distinguishing Robertson v. Grand Trunk R. Co., 24 Can. Sup. Ct. 611.

Wilful Torts of Carrier. — Conditions in a shipping receipt relieving the carrier from liability for loss or damage arising out of the safe-keeping and carriage of the goods, even though caused by the negligence, carelessness, or want of skill of the carrier's officers, servants, or workmen, without the actual fault or privity of the carrier, and restricting claims to the cash value of the goods at the port of shipment, do not apply to a case where the goods shipped were wrongfully sold or converted by the carrier. Wilson v. Canadian Development Co., 33 Can. Sup. Ct. 432, reversing 9 British Columbia 82.

Goods Destroyed in United States While in Transit to Canada. — The Dominion Railway Act, 51 Vict., c. 29, is not applicable to a railway situated in a foreign country, though operated by a company incorporated by or under the authority of the Parliament of Canada. Hence, where goods which were shipped from Scotland to be delivered at a port in the United States to such a railway company, and to be forwarded by that company to a point in Canada, were destroyed by fire at a point in the United States on the line of that company, by reason of negligence from which the company was protected from liability by the terms of the contract of carriage, it was held that the company was not liable for the loss, as the provisions of section 246 of the above mentioned statute, disabling a railway company from relieving itself from liability for its own negligence or that of its servants, were not applicable. Macdonald v. Grand Trunk R. Co., 31 Ont. 663.

Liability for Negligence Notwithstanding Reduced Rate. — A carrier cannot relieve itself from liability by stipulating that by reason of the reduced charge made for the carriage of goods it will not be liable for injury thereto, even if caused by the fault or negligence of its employees. Cobban v. Canadian Pac. R. Co., 23 Ont. App. 115; Drainville v. Canadian Pac. R. Co., 22 Quebec Super. Ct. 480. But when such a stipulation has been made, the owner of the goods damaged must prove that the injury was caused by such fault or negligence. Drainville v. Canadian Pac. R. Co., 22 Quebec Super. Ct. 480.

Limitation of Liability as Warehouseman. — A stipulation in the bill of lading that the owners shall incur all risk of loss of the goods in the hands of the carrier at the end of the transit as a warehouseman is reasonable and binding, as the warehousing of the goods is for the convenience of consignors. Lake Erie, etc., R. Co. v. Sales, 26 Can. Sup. Ct. 663.

319. 3. Evansville, etc., R. Co. v. Kevekordes, (Ind. App. 1904) 69 N. E. Rep. 1022.

Council*, 84 Ill. App. 491; Chicago, etc., R. Co. v. Miller, 79 Ill. App. 473. See also, reviewing the Illinois law, Powers Mercantile Co. v. Wells, 93 Minn. 143; Brockway v. American Express Co., 168 Mass. 257, construing a contract made in Illinois. Compare Cleveland, etc., R. Co. v. Newlin, 74 Ill. 4. Does Not Apply Where Claim Is for Fall in Market Price During Delay. — Kramer v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., 101 Iowa 178.

5. When Stipulation Inapplicable. — Gwyn Harper Mfg. Co. v. Carolina Cent. R. Co., 128 N. Car. 280, 83 Am. St. Rep. 675. Contra, The St. Hubert, (C. C. A.) 107 Fed. Rep. 727; The Westminster, 102 Fed. Rep. 366.

Delay in Delivery. — Such a stipulation applies to injury to the goods only, and not to damage to the owner because of a fall in the market price during delay in delivery at the point of destination. D. Klass Commission Co. v. Wabash R. Co., 80 Mo. App. 164.

325. 1. Where There Is Complete Failure to Deliver. — Cleveland, etc., R. Co. v. Potts, 33 Ind. App. 564; Chicago, etc., R. Co. v. Fifth Nat. Bank, 26 Ind. App. 600; Ward v. Missouri Pac. R. The carrier is liable for negligence in the absence of a statute permitting the limitation. Southern Pac. R. Co. v. Anderson, 26 Tex. Civ. App. 518.

Washington.— The carrier and the shipper may stipulate in advance the value of the goods, and limit the carrier's liability thereto. Hill v. Northern Pac. R. Co., 33 Wash. 697.

Wisconsin.— Ullman v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., 112 Wis. 150, 88 Am. St. Rep. 949.

333. 2. Criterion of Validity of Stipulations.— The rule laid down in the text is supported by the following cases:

Georgia.— Central of Georgia R. Co. v. Murphy, 113 Ga. 514.

Indiana.— Evansville, etc., R. Co. v. Kevekordes, (Ind. App. 1904) 69 N. E. Rep. 1022; Adams Express Co. v. Carnahan, 29 Ind. App. 607, 94 Am. St. Rep. 279, rehearing denied 29 Ind. App. 612.

See also Jennings v. Smith, (C. C. A.) 106 Fed. Rep. 139.

In Massachusetts the only qualification is that the stipulation be brought home to the shipper's knowledge so that his assent may be assumed. Graves v. Adams Express Co., 176 Mass. 280.

334. 2. Nelson v. Great Northern R. Co., 28 Mont. 297.

A Consideration is necessary, however. St. Louis, etc., R. Co. v. Coolidge, (Ark. 1904) 83 S. W. Rep. 333.

4. Invalid in Texas.— Southern Pac. R. Co. v. D'Arcais, 27 Tex. Civ. App. 57; International, etc., R. Co. v. Parish, 18 Tex. Civ. App. 130.

In Mississippi the same rule as in Texas appears to be applied. Illinois Cent. R. Co. v. Bogard, 78 Miss. 111.

Canada — When Goods Are Converted by Carrier.— A condition in a shipping receipt restricting claims to the cash value of the goods at the port of shipment does not apply to a case where the goods were wrongfully sold or converted by the carrier. *Wilson v. New York, etc., Steamship Co., 63 N. Y. App. Div. 211; Security Trust Co. v. Wells, etc., Express, 81 N. Y. App. Div. 426, affirmed 178 N. Y. 620; Parker v. Atlantic Coast Line R. Co., 133 N. Car. 335.

Loss of Cotton While at Compress. — See Amory Mfg. Co. v. Gulf, etc., R. Co., 89 Tex. 419.

Rule Does Not Refer to Time When Liability Ceases. — The rule of strict construction does not refer to the question of the time when the liability ceases by delivery. Paddock v. Toledo, etc., R. Co., 11 Ohio Cir. Dec. 789 21 Ohio Cir. Ct. 626.

338. 2. Must Be Clear and Explicit. — Adams Express Co. v. Carnahan, 29 Ind. App. 607, 94 Am. St. Rep. 279, rehearing denied 29 Ind. App. 612.

Clause Capable of Two Constructions. — When a clause in a contract of carriage is capable of two constructions, one of which will make it applicable where there is no negligence on the part of the carrier or his servants, and the other of which will make it applicable where there is such negligence, it requires special words to make the clause cover nonliability in the case of negligence. Thus, a contract exempting the carrier from liability "for any loss or damage to goods which can be covered by insurance" does not relieve him from liability for loss or damage caused by the negligence of his servants. Price v. Union Lighterage Co., (1904) 1 K. B. 412, affirming (1903) 1 K. B. 750.

3. Rule of Ejusdem Generis Applied. — The G. R. Booth, (C. C. A.) 91 Fed. Rep. 164; Fairbank

v. Cincinnati, etc., R. Co., (C. C. A.) 81 Fed. Rep. 289.

339. 1. Contract to Be So Construed as Not to Invalidate it. — Washburn Crosby Co. v. Johnston, (C. C. A.) 125 Fed. Rep. 273. See also The St. Hubert, (C. C. A.) 107 Fed. Rep. 727.

3. The Canadian Railway Act of 1888, 51 Vict., c. 29, § 246, precludes a railway company from setting up a stipulation for total exemption from liability where the damage is caused by its negligence. Hence, where the consignors, by their shipping bill, agreed to insure the goods to be shipped, the railway company to be subrogated to the consignors' rights in case of loss, and a condition of the bill of lading given by the railway company required the consignors to effect insurance on the goods shipped, and the goods were damaged by the railway's negligence, it was held that the contract was one for total exemption from liability, and that the railroad could not escape liability by setting up the consignors' breach of the condition as to insurance. St. Mary's Creamery Co. v. Grand Trunk R. Co., 8 Ont. L. Rep. 1, affirming 5 Ont. L. Rep. 742, following Grand Trunk R. Co. v. Vogel, 11 Can. Sup. Ct. 612, and distinguishing Robertson v. Grand Trunk R. Co., 24 Can. Sup. Ct. 611.

4. The Kansas Statute, providing that contracts limiting the carrier's liability should not be valid unless permitted by a board, became inoperative by implication on the abolition of the board. Missouri Pac. R. Co. v. Park, 66 Kan. 248. See in regard to this statute St. Louis, etc., R. Co. v. Sherlock, 59 Kan. 23; St. Louis, etc., R. Co. v. Tribbey, 6 Kan. App. 467.

Kentucky Constitution. — See Brown v. Illinois Cent. R. Co., 100 Ky. 525; Adams Express Co. v. Walker, (Ky. 1904) 83 S. W. Rep. 106.

The Kentucky Constitution, § 196, does not apply to a carrier incorporated in Kentucky which makes a contract in another state to ship goods that will not pass through the state of Kentucky. Tecumseh Mills v. Louisville, etc., R. Co., 108 Ky. 572. Nor does it apply on a contract made in another state to carry to a point within Kentucky where the loss occurred within the other state. Cleveland, etc., R. Co. v. Druen, (Ky. 1904) 80 S. W. Rep. 778. So it does not prevent the carrier from stipulating where the goods shall be delivered. The City of Clarksville, 94 Fed. Rep. 201.

Missouri. — See Western Sash, etc., Co. v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., 177 Mo. 641.

Rev. Stat. Mo. (1899), § 5222, prevents a railroad company issuing bills of lading for through shipments from limiting its liability for negligence to its own line. Marshall, etc., Grain Co. v. Kansas City, etc., R. Co., 176 Mo. 480, 98 Am. St. Rep. 508.

Nebraska Constitution. — See Pennsylvania R. Co. v. Kennard Glass, etc., Co., 59 Neb. 435; Union Pac. R. Co. v. Metcalf, 50 Neb. 452; Chicago, etc., R. Co. v. Gardiner, 51 Neb. 70.

An agreement that the owner shall accompany live stock and be responsible for its care is not a limitation forbidden by the constitution. Chicago, etc., R. Co. v. Schuldt, 66 Neb. 43. Nor does the prohibition apply to a contract limiting the carrier's liability to losses occurring on its own line. Miller Grain, etc., Co. v. Union Pac. R. Co., 138 Mo. 658 (construing the Nebraska constitution).

South Carolina. — See Mathis v. Southern R. Co., 65 S. Car. 271.

Texas. — See Pacific Express Co. v. Hertzberg, 17 Tex. Civ. App. 100; International, etc., R. Co. v. Parish, 18 Tex. Civ. App. 130.

340. 1. Interstate Shipments — Texas. — Rev. Stat. Tex. (1895), art. 278, does not apply to interstate shipments. Galveston, etc., R. Co. v. Fales, (Tex. Civ. App. 1903) 77 S. W. Rep. 234; Texas, etc., R. Co. v. Richmond, 94 Tex. 571, reversing (Tex. Civ. App. 1901) 61 S. W. Rep. 410; Pittman v. Pacific Express Co., 24 Tex. Civ. App. 595; Texas, etc., R. Co. v. In Chicago, etc., R. Co. v. Powers, (Neb. 1905) 103 N. W. Rep. 678, the court said: "We think the rule well established that when a shipper surrenders the entire custody of his goods to a common carrier for immediate transportation, and the carrier so accepts them, the liability of the carrier as a practical insurer of the safe delivery of the goods at once attaches. But we think it equally well settled that such liability does not attach until the goods are unconditionally surrendered by the shipper and accepted by the carrier. And where a railroad company constructs yards by the side of its tracks to facilitate the loading and unloading of stock, it is not responsible as a common carrier for stock placed in such yards for the convenience of the owner, who intends to ship on a subsequent day, and reserves the privilege of taking the stock from the pens for the purpose of feeding and caring for them before the shipment is made. In such a case the liability of the company is no greater than that of an ordinary depositary or bailee."

Presumption, When Does Not Arise. — Where

there is evidence that a person was riding on a train as a trespasser, the presumption that he was a passenger can have no application. Southerland v. Texas, etc., R. Co., (Tex. Civ. App. 1897) 40 S. W. Rep. 193.

And no such presumption arises when the entry is upon a baggage or mail car, or upon any other portion of the train not assigned to passengers. McGraw v. Southern R. Co., 135 N. Car. 264.

The presumption is that one riding on a hand car is not legally a passenger, and it rests upon him, under all the circumstances of the case, to rebut the presumption. Willis v. Atlantic, etc., R. Co., 120 N. Car. 508.

A person riding on a freight train, on which passengers are not permitted to be carried, is presumed not to be a passenger. Dysart v. Missouri, etc., R. Co., (C. C. A.) 122 Fed. Rep. 228; Purple v. Union Pac. R. Co., (C. C. A.) 114 Fed. Rep. 123.

Railroad companies have the right to run trains which do not carry passengers, or to run trains for a particular person, or for a particular class of persons, and if one boards such a train with notice of its character he is not presumptively a passenger. Whether he should be treated as a passenger or not depends upon the circumstances of each particular case. Fitzgibbon v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., 108 Iowa 614.

In the absence of an established custom, or some sort of notice that amounts to an invitation, when a person gets aboard a train composed of cars obviously designed for and loaded with stone and other goods, in the absence of the conductor and other employees of the company, he will be presumed to be a trespasser, and the burden rests upon him to prove that he rightfully took passage. Menaugh v. Co., 168 Mass. 433; Rawlings v. Wabash R. Co., 97 Mo. App. 515, wherein it appeared that the plaintiff did not have a ticket.

Delaying on Platform of Car Before Entering. — One who goes upon the platform of one of the cars of a passenger train with a bona fide intention of paying his fare and becoming a passenger, does not forfeit his right to be protected as such because he tarries for a short time upon the platform where passengers are forbidden to ride before entering the car. St. Louis, etc., R. Co. v. Kilpatrick, 67 Ark. 47.

In the Act of Entering the Vehicle. — When a street car has stopped in response to a signal of an intending passenger, he becomes a passenger the moment he places his foot on the car. West Chicago St. R. Co. v. James, 69 Ill. App. 609; Duchemin v. Boston El. R. Co., 186 Mass. 353, 104 Am. St. Rep. 580; Gordon v. West End St. R. Co., 175 Mass. 181; *Miller v. St. Paul City R. But physical contact with the car is not always necessary to constitute one a passenger on a street car. Haselton v. Portsmouth, etc., R. Co., 71 N. H. 589.

When a person has signaled a car and the car has stopped for him he has virtually become a passenger. Carney v. Cincinnati St. R. Co., 8 Ohio Dec. 587.

If a street car stops at a usual place for receiving passengers, and a person in the exercise of due care gets upon the steps or platform of the car for the purpose of taking passage while it is so waiting, he is to be regarded as a passenger. Gaffney v. St. Paul City R. Co., 81 Minn. 459; Norfolk, etc., R. Co. v. Morris, 101 Va. 422.

When a person goes to a flag station, and by giving proper signals signifies his intention to become a passenger, and the train is stopped for the purpose of taking him on, he is, when attempting to enter the train, a passenger and entitled to all the rights of a passenger, although he has not purchased a ticket. Western, etc., R. Co. v. Voils, 98 Ga. 446.

Street Car Stopping to Set Down Passenger.—Although a street car is not stopped at the signal of a bystander, but for the purpose of setting down passengers, the bystander may ordinarily make himself a passenger by evincing a desire to get on the car. Maxey v. Metropolitan St. R. Co., 95 Mo. App. 303.

Street Car Stopping to Throw Switch.—A person who, without the knowledge of the carrier's servants, attempts to get on a street car which has stopped to throw a switch, is not a passenger unless it is customary to take on passengers where the car stops. McCarty v. St. Louis, etc., R. Co., 105 Mo. App. 596.

Decreasing Speed of Street Car in obedience to a signal from a bystander amounts to an invitation to him to get aboard, and when he starts to do so he becomes a passenger. Citizens St. R. Co. v. Merl, 26 Ind. App. 284; Eikenberry v. St. Louis Transit Co., 103 Mo. App. 442; O'Mara v. St. Louis Transit Co., 102 Mo. App. 202; Schmidt v. North Jersey St. R. Co., (N. J. 1904) 58 Atl. Rep. 72.

Time and Place of Entry.—One who, without the knowledge of the carrier, boards a car, knowing that it is not ready for the receiving of passengers and that it is not expected or intended that it should be entered at that time or place, is not a passenger. Farley v. Cincinnati, etc., R. Co., (C. C. A.) 108 Fed. Rep. 14.

But a drover in charge of stock has been held to be a passenger while passing along a track to reach the caboose in which he is to ride. Lake Shore, etc., R. Co. v. Hotchkiss, 24 Ohio Cir. Ct. 431.

Approaching Train by Unusual Way.—It has been said that a person approaching a train by any but the usual way is not a passenger. Chicago, etc., R. Co. v. Weeks, 99 Ill. App. 518, judgment affirmed 198 Ill. 551.

Boarding Car Standing at a Distance from the Station Platform.—See Jones v. New York Cent., etc., R. Co., 156 N. Y. 187, reversing 46 N. Y. App. Div. 470.

Boarding Part of Train Not Provided for Carrying Passengers.—As a general rule, in order to constitute one a passenger he must take passage on some part of the train which is provided for carrying passengers. Missouri, etc., R. Co. v. Williams, 91 Tex. 255, reversing (Tex. Civ. App. 1897) 40 S. W. Rep. 350.

When a person who held a free pass over the defendant's road boarded a train as it was moving out from the station by climbing on the platform next to the tender in front of the baggage car, the door of which was locked, it was held that he was not a passenger, even though the engineer and conductor knew that some one had boarded the moving train between the tender and baggage car, but did not know who he was or for what purpose he was there. Illinois Cent. R. Co. v. O'Keefe, 168 Ill. 115, 61 Am. St. Rep. 68, reversing 63 Ill. App. 102.

Getting on Platform of "Blind" Baggage Car.—It has been held that a person who gets on the platform of a "blind" baggage car, and who, when found there by the conductor, though having a ticket, does not inform the conductor of the fact, cannot be deemed a passenger. McGraw v. Southern R. Co., 135 N. Car. 264.

Taking Position on Steps of Street Car.—A boy eight years old got on a street car and sat down on the rear platform with his feet on the step of the car. He testified that he had intended to pay his fare, and there was evidence that the motorman knew of his presence on the car. It was held that the question whether he was a passenger was for the jury. Jackson v. St. Paul City R. Co., 74 Minn. 48.

Getting on Footboard Without Entering Street Car.—Dallas Rapid Transit R. Co. v. Payne, (Tex. 1904) 82 S. W. Rep. 649, reversing (Tex. Civ. App. 1904) 78 S. W. Rep. 1085.

Boarding Street Car by Front Platform Contrary to Regulations.—Hart v. Metropolitan St. R. Co., (Supm. Ct. App. T.) 34 Misc. (N. Y.) 521.

Boarding Street Car by Barred Front Platform does not constitute one a passenger. Barlow v. Jersey City, etc., R. Co., 67 N. J. L. 364.

Attempting to Board Street Car After Signal to Start.—It has been held that a person who attempts to get on a street car after the signal to start has been given is not a passenger. Foster v. Seattle Electric Co., 35 Wash. 177.

493. 1. Good Faith on Part of Person Entering.—Uhell v. Citizens St. R. Co., 152 Ind. 507, 71 Am. St. Rep. 336; Odell v. New York Cent., etc., R. Co., 18 N. Y. App. Div. 12, affirmed without opinion 162 N. Y. 625; Dallas Rapid Transit R. Co. v. Payne, (Tex. 1904) 82 S. W. Rep. 649, reversing (Tex. Civ. App. 1904) 78 S. W. Rep. 1085. See Clark v. Great Northern R. Co., 31 Wash. 658.

Boarding Train Which Does Not Stop at Passenger's Station.—Baldwin v. Grand Trunk R. Co., 128 Mich. 417, 8 Detroit Leg. N. 706, wherein it was held that a person who boards a train which sometimes stops at the station to which he wishes to go becomes a passenger until he is notified that the train does not stop there.

494. 1. Person on Wrong Train.—Baltimore, etc., R. Co. v. Norris, 17 Ind. App. 189, 60 Am. St. Rep. 166; St. Louis Southwestern R. Co. v. Pruitt, (Tex. Civ. App. 1904) 79 S. W. Rep. 598, 97 Tex. 487.

Person on Right Train but in Wrong Car.—Gulf, etc., R. Co. v. Shelton, 30 Tex. Civ. App. 72, rehearing denied (Tex. Civ. App. 1902) 70 S. W. Rep. 359.

Taking Passage on an Engine.—Being on an engine by the invitation of the engineer, and with the knowledge and silent acquiescence of the conductor, does not necessarily constitute one a passenger. Radley v. Columbia Southern R. Co., 44 Oregon 332.

But as to a through train, carrying only through passengers, the passenger who leaves the train without the knowledge, consent, or invitation of the company, at an intermediate station at which the train stops only for some purpose in connection with its management and operation, as for the purpose of taking water or coal, and not to receive or discharge passengers, must be deemed to have abandoned his relation as a passenger, and to take upon himself for the time being all risks incident to his movements. Lemery v. Great Northern R. Co., 83 Minn. 47.

Alighting Because of Wreck on Track Ahead. — When a journey is interrupted by a wreck on the track ahead, the passengers who alight from the train for the purpose of going around the wreck to continue the journey on another train remain passengers while making the transfer and waiting for the train. Conroy v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., 96 Wis. 243.

Drover Alighting at Intermediate Stations or at Stopping Places to Care for Stock. — One who rides on a freight train in charge of stock is entitled to alight at proper stopping places to look after the stock. International, etc., R. Co. v. Downing, 16 Tex. Civ. App. 643.

502. 1. Leaving Carrier's Premises at Intermediate Station and Going to a Hotel has the effect of suspending the relation of carrier and passenger for the time being. King v. Central of Georgia R. Co., 107 Ga. 754.

2. At Transfer Stations. — Baldwin v. Fair Haven, etc., R. Co., 68 Conn. 567; Chicago, etc., R. Co. v. Winters, 175 Ill. 293; Keator v. Scranton Traction Co., 191 Pa. St. 102, 71 Am. St. Rep. 758, holding a person to be a passenger while changing from one street car to another.

507. 1. Nontransferable Ticket. — See Mirrieles v. Wabash R. Co., 163 Mo. 470.

A Person Wrongfully Riding on a Nontransferable Ticket in Good Faith may be a passenger. Odell v. New York Cent., etc., R. Co., 18 N. Y. App. Div. 12, affirmed without opinion 162 N. Y. 625.

4. Free Passengers. — McNeill v. Durham, etc., R. Co., 135 N. Car. 682, quoting 5 AM. AND ENG. ENCYC. OF LAW (2d ed.) 507; Simmons v. Oregon R., etc., Co., 41 Oregon 151; Denison, etc., R. Co. v. Johnson, (Tex. Civ. App. 1904) 81 S. W. Rep. 780.

Person Riding Free with Consent of Conductor in Violation of Rule. — It has been held that a person who is riding free on a passenger train, with the consent of the conductor, is a passenger, although the conductor violates a rule of the company in not demanding the fare. Louisville, etc., R. Co. v. Scott, 108 Ky. 392.

But a person who rides free, with the consent of the conductor, knowing that the conductor has no authority to grant free transportation, is not a passenger. McNeill v. Durham, etc., R. Co., 135 N. Car. 682; Purple v. Union Pac. R. Co., (C. C. A.) 114 Fed. Rep. 123.

Riding Free with Consent of Motorman. — A boy ten years of age riding upon a street car, without paying fare, by invitation of the motorman in charge of the car, and who has authority to receive and let off passengers, is entitled to the rights of a passenger. On the other hand, it has been held that an express messenger who is carried in a special car to do his employer's business is not a passenger. Blank v. Illinois Cent. R. Co., 182 Ill. 332, affirming 80 Ill. App. 475.

It has been said that an express messenger, while on a train in the performance of his duties as an express messenger, does not sustain the relation to the railroad company of a passenger, and therefore he is not entitled to that high degree of care which a common carrier owes to those who have paid for their transportation as passengers. Chicago, etc., R. Co. v. O'Brien, (C. C. A.) 132 Fed. Rep. 593.

Limiting Liability for Negligence. — An express messenger, who has contracted to assume the risk of injuries through negligence in the operation of the railroad, and who is carried free under the contract between the express company and the carrier, has been held to sustain the relation of an employee to the carrier. Chicago, etc., R. Co. v. O'Brien, (C. C. A.) 132 Fed. Rep. 593; Long v. Lehigh Valley R. Co., (C. C. A.) 130 Fed. Rep. 870.

ington, 84 Miss. 1; Ellis v. Houston East, etc., R. Co., 30 Tex. Civ. App. 172.

A Person on a Freight Train in Violation of the Rules is not a passenger simply because the rule has not been fully and perfectly enforced, if it has not been so generally disregarded as to justify the belief that it has been abrogated or has fallen into disuse. Houston, etc., R. Co. v. Norris, (Tex. Civ. App. 1897) 41 S. W. Rep. 708. See also San Antonio, etc., R. Co. v. Lynch, (Tex. Civ. App. 1897) 40 S. W. Rep. 631.

A person who rides on a work train contrary to an express rule is not a passenger, even though the rule may frequently have been violated. International, etc., R. Co. v. Hanna, (Tex. Civ. App. 1900) 58 S. W. Rep. 548.

Riding Without Permit, Knowing It to Be Necessary. — Houston East, etc., R. Co. v. Stell, 28 Tex. Civ. App. 280.

Huff*, (Tex. 1904) 81 S. W. Rep. 525, reversing (Tex. Civ. App. 1903) 78 S. W. Rep. 249; Ft. Worth, etc., R. Co. v. Peterson, 24 Tex. Civ. App. 548; San Antonio, etc., R. Co. v. Lynch, (Tex. Civ. App. 1900) 55 S. W. Rep. 517.

Although it may be the common-law rule that one boarding a freight train cannot claim to be a passenger notwithstanding any conduct towards him, unless the company has by its management led the public to believe that passengers would be carried on such train for hire or otherwise, and the company has not made itself otherwise liable to him as a passenger, it has been held that under a statute requiring local freight trains to carry passengers from and to any and all stations, if the conductor of the freight train permits a person to board it and receives his fare, he has a right to presume that the train is a local freight which the law compels to carry passengers. *Arkansas Midland R. in charge of the train of his intention to get off, it is the duty of the carrier so to regulate the movement of the train as to admit of his getting off without injury to himself. Missouri, etc., R. Co. v. Miller, 15 Tex. Civ. App. 428.

Notice of Purpose in Boarding Train. — In order to charge a carrier with liability to a person who boards a train for the purpose of assisting a passenger, for failure to give him a reasonable time to get on and off without injury, the servants of the carrier must have notice of his intention in boarding the train. International, etc., R. Co. v. Satterwhite, 15 Tex. Civ. App. 102.

Express Permission to Board Train Not Necessary. — In order to be entitled to that care which the carrier owes to a person who boards a train to assist a passenger, it is not necessary that he should first see the conductor and obtain his express consent; if the carrier allows persons who are not passengers to approach and board its trains, for the purpose of assisting its passenger to a seat, its consent thereto is as much received as if it were expressly given. Missouri, etc., R. Co. v. Miller, 15 Tex. Civ. App. 428.

In an action by a passenger to recover for injuries received in alighting from a street car, on which one man performed the services of both motorman and conductor, it was held that whether or not in the particular instance an injury might have been averted if two men had been employed to perform such services is not the test of whether the street-railway company is guilty of negligence in failing to employ the second man, but the expense of employing the second man, the amount of traffic on the streets and on the cars, and the dangers to be encountered in operating the car over the particular route, should all be taken into consideration. Palmer v. Winona R., etc., Co., 78 Minn. 138.

Employment of Conductor on Mixed Train. —

It has been held that not to furnish a conductor on a local train carrying both freight and passengers is negligence as a matter of law. Means v. Carolina Cent. R. Co., 124 N. Car. 574.

Degree of Care—High Degree of Care.—Bosworth v. Union R. Co., 25 R. I. 202. But see Fewings v. Mendenhall, 88 Minn. 336, wherein it is said that as respects the acts of strangers who are not within the control of the carrier, the carrier is liable to the exercise of only ordinary care and prudence.

555. 2. Assaults—Due Care.—Lake Erie, etc., R. Co. v. Arnold, 26 Ind. App. 190; Spangler v. St. Joseph, etc., R. Co., 68 Kan. 51, citing 5 AM. AND ENG. ENCYC. OF LAW (2d ed.) 553; Koch v. Brooklyn Heights R. Co., 75 N. Y. App. Div. 282; Thweatt v. Houston East, etc., R. Co., 31 Tex. Civ. App. 227, quoting 5 AM. AND ENG. ENCYC. OF LAW (2d ed.) 555; Texas, etc., R. Co. v. Dick, 26 Tex. Civ. App. 256; Canadian Pac. R. Co. v. Blain, 34 Can. Sup. Ct. 74; Blain v. Canadian Pac. R. Co., 5 Ont. L. Rep. 334.

Assault upon a Passenger by an Intruder.—A carrier has been held not to be liable for an unforeseen assault upon a woman passenger by an intruder while the trainmen were absent from the car. Segal v. St. Louis Southwestern R. Co., (Tex. Civ. App. 1904) 80 S. W. Rep. 233.

Assault on Woman Passenger in Waiting Room by Intruder was held not to charge the carrier with liability, it not appearing that the carrier could have foreseen or prevented such assault. Prokop v. Gulf, etc., R. Co., (Tex. Civ. App. 1904) 79 S. W. Rep. 101.

Assault on Passenger at Carrier's Park.—Indianapolis St. R. Co. v. Dawson, 31 Ind. App. 605.

556. 2. Accidental Injuries.—Tall v. Baltimore Steam Packet Co., 90 Md. 248.

tween Fellow Passenger and Trainmen.—Penny v. Atlantic Coast Line R. Co., 133 N. Car. 221.

Passenger Accidentally Hit by Shot from Rifle Range Maintained Near Track.—Dufur v. Boston, etc., R. Co., 75 Vt. 165.

Hackmen Scuffling at Entrance of Station.—Exton v. Central R. Co., 62 N. J. L. 7, affirmed without opinion 63 N. J. L. 356.

Signal to Start Given by Unauthorized Person.—Leavenworth Electric R. Co. v. Cusick, 60 Kan. 590; Krone v. Southwest Missouri Electric R. Co., 97 Mo. App. 609, holding the carrier not to be liable; McDonough v. Third Ave. R. Co., 95 N. Y. App. Div. 311, holding the carrier not to be liable. Compare Nichols v. Lynn, etc., R. Co., 168 Mass. 528, holding that evidence tending to show a custom of passengers on the defendant's road to give the signals for stopping and starting car is admissible, on the ground that it bears directly upon the question of due care in permitting, or failing to guard against, such acts.

Explosion of Fireworks Carried into Car by Fellow Passengers.—A carrier is liable for injuries sustained by a passenger in consequence of the explosion of fireworks carried into a car by fellow passengers only if the carrier was negligent in permitting the fireworks to be carried into the car. East Indian R. Co. v. Mukerjee, (1901) A. C. 396, 70 L. J. P. C. 63, 84 L. T. N. S. 210.

Explosion of Can of Gasoline Carried by Fellow Passenger.—Where a passenger was injured by the explosion of a can of gasoline carried by a fellow passenger, it was held that the carrier was not liable in the absence of any circumstance tending to show that any official of the road knew that the can contained gasoline, or even knew that the can was on the car, or that the exercise of any reasonable degree of care and vigilance, had such official known of the situation of the can, would have required him to investigate its contents, under the circumstances of the case. Clarke v. Louisville, etc., R. Co., (Ky. 1899) 49 S. W. Rep. 1120.

Injury to Passenger from Being Jostled by Fellow Passengers.—Fritz v. Southern R. Co., 132 N. Car. 829.

Collision of Passenger with Fellow Passenger Who Is Being Ejected.—It has been held that a carrier was not liable for injuries received by a woman passenger in consequence of a drunken passenger colliding with her as he was being ejected by the conductor, who ejected him as soon as he became obnoxious to the other passengers. Cobb v. Boston El. R. Co., 179 Mass. 212. See Spade v. Lynn, etc., R. Co., 172 Mass. 488, 70 Am. St. Rep. 298.

The Swinging of a Station Door Against a Passenger by a Fellow Passenger is an act for which the carrier ordinarily cannot be held liable. Kiernan v. Manhattan R. Co., (Supm. Ct. App. T.) 28 Misc. (N. Y.) 516.

557. 2. Accidental Discharge of Gun by Fellow Passenger.—Where a passenger was injured by the accidental discharge of a gun in the hands of a fellow passenger, who was one

All the Care and Skill Which Human Prudence and Foresight Can Suggest. — Zimmer v. Third Ave. R. Co., 36 N. Y. App. Div. 265.

Criticisms of the Rule Requiring the Utmost Care. — It has been said that expressions which require carriers to exert the "utmost care and prudence" in carrying passengers are misleading if not erroneous. Wanzer v. Chippewa Valley Electric R. Co., 108 Wis. 319.

In Freeman v. Metropolitan St. R. Co., 95 Mo. App. 94, it was held that an instruction requiring of a carrier "the exercise of the utmost human skill, diligence, and foresight" was erroneous.

And in McCarty v. Houston, etc., R. Co., 21 Tex. Civ. App. 568, it was declared to be error to instruct a jury that a carrier is required to exercise the "utmost degree of care."

Washington. — Clukey v. Seattle Electric Co., 27 Wash. 70.

Criticisms of the Rule Requiring the Highest Degree of Care. — In Williams v. International, etc., R. Co., 28 Tex. Civ. App. 503, the correctness of the expression "requiring the highest degree of care" questioned. And in Alabama Midland R. Co. v. Guilford, 119 Ga. 523, an instruction was held erroneous which stated that the law requires the "highest degree of care and diligence known to skilled persons engaged in that business."

2. Extraordinary Care. — Augusta R., etc., Co. Smith, 121 Ga. 29; Brunswick, etc., R. Co. v. Ponder, 117 Ga. 63, 97 Am. St. Rep. 152; Atlanta R. Co. v. Randall, 117 Ga. 165; Southern R. Co. v. 3. Passenger Awaiting Departure of Train. — Georgia, etc., R. Co. v. Brown, 120 Ga. 380.

Equipment of Street Cars with Curtains. — It has been said, in effect, that the high degree of care generally exacted of carriers of passengers need not be exercised in the equipment of street cars with curtains. Leyh v. Newburgh Electric R. Co., 41 N. Y. App. Div. 218, affirmed without opinion 168 N. Y. 667.

Management of Street Car. — It has been held in New York that in attempting to move or switch his car from one track to another in crossing a bridge, the driver of a horse car was only bound to use that skill and care which would be required of an ordinarily careful and prudent man. Stierle v. Union R. Co., 156 N. Y. 70, O'Brien and Vann, JJ., dissenting (rehearing denied 156 N. Y. 684). See Kelly v. Metropolitan St. R. Co., 89 N. Y. App. Div. 159; Merrill v. Metropolitan St. R. Co., 73 N. Y. App. Div. 401; Repensburg v. Nassau Electric R. Co., 48 N. Y. App. Div. 566.

And it has been held that only a high degree of care need be exercised in the management of a street car as it is about to pass an approaching wagon, and that it was error to charge the jury that the carrier was bound to exercise "the highest degree of care and skill which human foresight could provide." Conway v. Brooklyn Heights R. Co., 82 N. Y. App. Div. 516.

Duty to Announce Changes of Cars. — Chicago, etc., R. Co. v. Spirk, 51 Neb. 167.

Personal Notice to Passengers Not Necessary. — Houston, etc., R. Co. v. Cohn, 22 Tex. Civ. App. 11.

Deaf Passenger. — The duty of the carrier as to announcing stations is performed when the name of a station is announced clearly and distinctly, and the carrier is not responsible for the mistake of a passenger who is deaf getting off at the wrong station, the carrier having no knowledge of the deafness. Texas Midland R. Co. v. Terry, 27 Tex. Civ. App. 341.

Conductor's Promise to Give Passenger Special Notice. — It has been held that a conductor's promise to give a passenger special notice when the station for changing cars is reached is not within the scope of his authority and therefore is not binding on the carrier. St. Louis Southwestern R. Co. v. McCullough, 18 Tex. Civ. App. 534.

2. Southern R. Co. v. Hobbs, 118 Ga. 231, quoting 5 AM. AND ENG. ENCYC. OF LAW (2d ed.) 565.

3. Stoppage After Announcement of Station. — St. Louis, etc., R. Co. v. Farr, 70 Ark. 264, holding that, under the circumstances, a passenger was justified in alighting; *Cincinnati, etc., R. The refusal to stop a street car when a person gives notice of his intention to take passage may give rise to a cause of action for damages resulting from the refusal to stop, which might consist of delay and loss of time, but the refusal to stop and accept him as a passenger would not be the proximate cause of injuries received by him in attempting to board the moving car. *South Chicago City R. Railroad Train Must Be Stopped.—In setting down a passenger at his destination, the train must be stopped; merely slackening the speed is not sufficient. Southern R. Co. v. Bandy, 120 Ga. 463, 102 Am. St. Rep. 112. See also supra, this title, 567. 3.

Merely Slackening Speed of Street Car.—It cannot be said as a matter of law that a driver of a street car is guilty of negligence in merely slackening the speed of the car upon being notified by an intended passenger that he wishes to get on. Finkeldey v. Omnibus Cable Co., 114 Cal. 28. See Fuller v. Denison, etc., R. Co., 32 Tex. Civ. App. 399.

It has been said that when one seeks to become a passenger on a railway car, he has the right to insist that the car shall come to a stop to enable him to do so: but, if the car does not come to a stop, the railway company is not at fault if he attempts to board the car while it is in motion, unless it shall appear that, the speed of the car having diminished so much as to constitute a tacit invitation to him to become a passenger, it is accelerated suddenly without notice, while he is in the act of getting on the car in pursuance of the tacit invitation. Savage v. Third Ave. R. Co., 29 N. Y. App. Div. 556.

Runaway Horse Coming on Station Platform. — Where a passenger who was waiting for a train on a station platform was injured by a runaway horse which came upon the platform, it was held that the carrier was not liable. Brooks v. Old Colony R. Co., 168 Mass. 164.

Obstruction in Aisle of Car. — Chicago, etc., R. Co. v. Buckmaster, 74 Ill. App. 575.

Opening Gate Inclosing Platform of Car Before Stopping. — It is not negligence per se for a motorman to open the gate on the front platform of a trolley car before the car has come to a full stop. Paglini v. North Jersey St. R. Co., 69 N. J. L. 60.

But on the other hand, it has been held that opening the gate inclosing the platform of an elevated railway car before the train is stopped may be negligence. McAlan v. New York, etc., Bridge, 43 N. Y. App. Div. 374. See Hannon v. Boston El. R. Co., 182 Mass. 425.

Cars in Train with Doors Locked. — If a railroad carrier has attached to its passenger train vestibule cars whose doors are closed and locked, and a passenger who attempts to board one of these cars just as the train is starting is injured in consequence of not being able to get in, it cannot be said as a matter of law that the carrier is chargeable with negligence. Cleveland, etc., R. Co. v. Wade, 18 Ind. App. 346.

Ice on Step of Car. — Foster v. Old Colony St. R. Co., 182 Mass. 378; Herbert v. St. Paul City R. Co., 85 Minn. 341.

Passenger Stepping on Rail Hidden from View by Snow. — Mensing v. Michigan Cent. R. Co., 117 Mich. 606.

Place of Stopping Street Cars. — While a street railway company is ordinarily not responsible for the condition of the streets on which it runs its cars, in stopping a car to take on or set down passengers it is the duty of the carrier to exercise care to select a safe and suitable place for that purpose.

Washington. — Vasele v. Grant St. Electric R. Co., 16 Wash. 602.

But see Scanlon v. Philadelphia Rapid Transit Co., 208 Pa. St. 195.

A street railway cannot be charged with negligence for setting a passenger down at a point indicated by, and which is familiar to, the passenger. Bland v. Roxborough, etc., R. Co., 13 Pa. Super. Ct. 93.

But it has been held that when a street car was not stopped at the place indicated by the passenger, but was stopped at a distance beyond, at a place where it was unsafe for the passenger to alight, the facts justified a finding that the carrier was negligent. Henry v. Grant St. Electric R. Co., 24 Wash. 246.

Where a street car company provides a temporary passageway for the accommodation of passengers at a place where a street is flooded, it is under a duty to exercise care that the way provided is reasonably safe. Finseth v. City, etc., R. Co., 32 Oregon 1.

If the place at which a passenger on a street car is set down presents a dangerous condition to one alighting, and the danger is known or is such that it should be known to the carrier, but is unknown to the passenger, the carrier is bound to warn the passenger of the danger, or to assist him in alighting safely, or to stop the car at a point beyond or short of the dangerous point. Sweet v. Louisville R. Co., 113 Ky. 15.

Stopping Street Car at Unusual Place. — Stopping a street car at a place which is not as safe as the one where the car is usually stopped may be negligence. Bass v. Concord St. R. Co., 70 N. H. 170.

The Failure of a Street Railway to Repair a Pavement in accordance with the requirements of a city ordinance has been held not to give a right of action to one who has alighted from one of the carrier's cars and is injured in consequence of a defect in the pavement. Fielders v. North Jersey St. R. Co., 68 N. J. L. 343, reversing 67 N. J. L. 76.

Running Street Car on Parallel Track by Car Which Is Setting Down Passengers. — South Covington, etc., R. Co. v. Beatty, (Ky. 1899) 50 S. W. Rep. 239; Wise v. Brooklyn Heights R. Co., 46 N. Y. App. Div. 246; Chattanooga Electric St. R. Co. v. Boddy, 105 Tenn. 666; Smith v. Union Trunk Line, 18 Wash. 351.

Where one of two street cars about to pass on parallel tracks has started after setting down passengers the motorman on the other car may assume that all the passengers who wish to do so have alighted and that the road is clear for him to go ahead. Ackerstadt v. Chicago City R. Co., 194 Ill. 616.

Running Train on Parallel Track by Train Which Is Setting Down Passengers — Jewell v. New York Cent., etc., R. Co., 27 N. Y. App. Div. 500; Mayne v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., 12 Okla. 10.

Degree of Care. — It is error to instruct the jury that a carrier must furnish passengers with an absolutely safe place to alight; a reasonably safe place is all that is required. Texas, etc., R. Co. v. Woods, 15 Tex. Civ. App. 612. See supra, this title, 560. 1.

575. 1. Freight Trains. — Although a passenger is carried on a freight train, the carrier is bound at least to set down the passenger in the yard of the station at a place not unreasonably distant from the platform, and the carrier will be liable in damages for setting a passenger down a mile short of the station. St. Louis, etc., R. Co. v. Neal, 66 Ark. 543. See Chicago, etc., R. Co. v. Stonecipher, 90 Ill. App. 511, holding that the trial court should have given an instruction which was requested by the defendant to the effect that if the freight train on which the plaintiff was a passenger was stopped at the plaintiff's station reasonably near the platform, due regard being had to the surrounding situation and location, and kept standing a sufficient length of time for the plaintiff to alight in safety, and the plaintiff refused to alight and depart from the car because the car had not reached the station platform, the issues should be found for the defendant.

Street Cars Stopped for a Purpose Other than Setting Down Passengers. — Although a street car may have stopped for some purpose other than setting down passengers, if it is stopped under circumstances which amount to an invitation to the passengers to alight, it is negligence on the part of the carrier to start the car until they have had a reasonable opportunity to alight. Belt Electric Line Co. v. Tomlin, (Ky. 1897) 40 S. W. Rep. 925.

Stopping the Usual Time. — The mere fact that a train was stopped the usual length of time is not sufficient to show negligence of the plaintiff nor due diligence of the defendant; for the circumstances may have required a longer stop on that day than usual, and it is a question for the jury to determine whether the stop was reasonably sufficient or not. Luse v. Union Pac. R. Co., 57 Kan. 361.

Passenger Encumbered with Parcels and Baggage. — Where a railroad company takes on its train a passenger encumbered with hand-baggage and parcels, it must have due regard to his condition in this respect when the time comes for the passenger to leave the train. Killian v. Georgia R., etc., Co., 97 Ga. 727; Machen v. Pittsburg, etc., Pass., R. Co., 13 Pa. Super. Ct. 642.

Allowing Passenger Time to Return for Bundles. — Texas, etc., R. Co. v. Born, 20 Tex. Civ. App. 351.

When the Train Is Crowded and passengers are occupying the aisles, a longer time is required for passengers to alight than when the train is occupied by the ordinary number of passengers. Smalley v. Detroit, etc., R. Co., 131 Mich. 560, 9 Detroit Leg. N. 443.

Time to Leave Station Platform. — There is no obligation upon a railroad company to keep its trains waiting until passengers can leave the platform. It is sufficient if reasonable time is given them in which to get safely off the train and out of the way of the cars. Louisville, etc., R. Co. v. Ricketts, (Ky. 1896) 37 S. W. Rep. 952.

Time to Leave Premises. — A train need not be stopped long enough to allow passengers to leave the premises of the railroad company.

- 578. Starting Train After Expiration of Reasonable Time. — See note 2.
 Starting Train While Passenger Is Boarding or Alighting. — See note 3.
579. Delay of Passenger. — See note 1.

Louisville, etc., R. Co. v. Ricketts, (Ky. 1899) 52 S. W. Rep. 939.

Allowing Passenger Time to Be Seated. — Ordinarily it is not negligence to start a train before a passenger has had time to reach a seat and be seated. Louisville, etc., R. Co. v. Hale, 102 Ky. 600. It cannot be said as a matter of law that a train should not be started until a boarding passenger, carrying a baby and a basket, has had a sufficient time to get seated. Middlesborough R. Co. v. Webster, (Ky. 1899) 50 S. W. Rep. 843. And it cannot be said as a matter of law that the starting of a street car before a passenger is seated is or is not negligence. Herbach v. North Jersey St. R. Co., 65 N. J. L. 381. It has been held that it is not negligence for a street car to start while a passenger is in the act of passing from the platform to the car. Sharp v. New Orleans City R. Co., 111 La. 395, 100 Am. St. Rep. 488. It is not necessarily negligence to start a street car while a passenger is still on the side running-board entering the car. Canavan v. Interurban St. R. Co., (Supm. Ct. App. T.) 87 N. Y. Supp. 491. But when a railroad company furnishes as the only means of transportation over its road a "mixed train" composed of a passenger coach and a number of freight cars, and when on account of the character and construction of such a train it cannot start from a station, after stopping thereat, without its movement being attended with a jerk which may endanger the safety of those on board who are unseated, it becomes the duty of the company to use extraordinary diligence in protecting against such danger a passenger who has boarded the train, by stopping a sufficient length of time to give such passenger a reasonable opportunity to be seated. Macon, etc., R. Co. v. Moore, 108 Ga. 84.

Sufficiency of Stoppage a Question of Fact. — Chicago, etc., R. Co. v. Stormont, 190 Ill. 42, affirming 90 Ill. App. 505.

578. 2. Expiration of Reasonable Time. — Louisville, etc., R. Co. v. Coons, 76 S. W. Rep. 45, 25 Ky. L. Rep. 509; Pickett v. Southern R. Co., 69 S. Car. 445; Shealey v. South Carolina, etc., R. Co., 67 S. Car. 61, citing 5 AM. AND ENG. ENCYC. OF LAW (2d ed.) 578. But see Kulman v. Erie R. Co., 65 N. J. L. 241.

Williams, 102 Va. 253.

If a Conductor by the Exercise of Reasonable Care Could Have Known that a passenger was in the act of alighting, it was negligence, it has been held, for him to give a signal to start the train. Cullar v. Missouri, etc., R. Co., 84 Mo. App. 340.

Starting Train While Passenger Is Getting on by Invitation of Carrier's Servant. — If a person is induced to make an attempt to board a train by the invitation of an authorized servant of the carrier, the carrier is liable for injuries sustained by the starting of the train before such servant gives the signal, although the conductor may have no notice that any one is getting on the train. Alabama Midland R. Co. v. Horn, 132 Ala. 407.

Street Cars — Rules Applied. — If a street car when signaled to stop by a person in the street is slowed up, and the driver has reason to believe that the person giving the signal is getting on, it is negligence to start the car forward suddenly. Clinton v. Brooklyn Heights R. Co., 91 N. Y. App. Div. 374. See Louisville R. Co. v. Rammacker, (Ky. 1899) 51 S. W. Rep. 175.

If the conductor of a street car in the exercise of due care should have known of the intention and effort of a passenger to alight from the car, but failed to do so, and because of his omission the car was suddenly started forward while the passenger was stepping to the ground, the carrier, through the conductor, was negligent. Root v. Des Moines City R. Co., 113 Iowa 675.

Unless those in charge of a street car know, or by the exercise of reasonable care could know, that a passenger is about to alight, negligence cannot be predicated upon the sudden acceleration of the speed of the car as the passenger is alighting. Sims v. Metropolitan St. R. Co., 65 N. Y. App. Div. 270.

Before the defendant's servants can be charged with negligence they should have been either fairly apprised that the plaintiff desired to board the car, or that the situation was such that passengers might be naturally expected to get upon the car at the time. Bachrach v. Nassau Electric R. Co., 35 N. Y. App. Div. 633.

The fact that both the plaintiff and his companion hailed the car, and that immediately thereafter the car was slowed down, was sufficient to require the submission to the jury of the question whether the driver either knew or should have known that the parties were seeking to become passengers on the car. Sexton v. Metropolitan St. R. Co., 40 N. Y. App. Div. 26.

Street Car Stopped Because of Obstruction. — It may be negligence to suddenly start a street car which has been stopped by an obstruction on the track, if a passenger is in the act of getting on or off, and the conductor in the exercise of due care would be aware of the fact. Dean v. Third Ave. R. Co., 34 N. Y. App. Div. 220.

Although a railway company stops its train at a station a reasonable length of time to enable a passenger to get off, and he neglects to do so, yet if it again stops the train, and invites him to get off at another place, it is bound to exercise proper care to enable him to get off in safety, and if, by reason of its neglect to do so, the passenger is injured, such negligence is the proximate cause of the injury. Krall v. Burlington, etc., R. Co., 71 Minn. 422.

Delay of Person Boarding Train to Assist Passenger. — A person who boards a train in assisting a passenger, without the knowledge or request of the company, is bound to know the time of the departure of such train, if such time be fixed and reasonable, public notice being given thereof, and to leave the train in season, before the time so fixed, to enable him to get off with safety before the cars are set in motion. With the arrival of the time fixed for the departure of the cars the implied license or permission ceases, and with it the liability of the company. Berry v. Louisville, etc., R. Co., 109 Ky. 727.

Rep. 92, wherein it is said that it is the duty of the conductor of a street car to assist people in getting on and off the car.

Voluntary Promise of Conductor to Give Assistance. — Inasmuch as it is not the duty of the servants of a railroad company generally to assist passengers to alight from the train, a promise by a conductor to assist a passenger, who is not known to him to be sick, infirm, or in need of assistance, is a mere voluntary promise for which the company is not responsible and by which it is not bound. Western, etc., R. Co. v. Earwood, 104 Ga. 127. See Louisville, etc., R. Co. v. Jordan, 112 Ky. 474.

Promise of Conductor to Look After Child Traveling Alone. — It has been held that the promise of a conductor to look after a seven years' old boy who is traveling alone, and to inform the next conductor of the presence of the boy on the train, does not bind the carrier. Gage v. Illinois Cent. R. Co., 75 Miss. 17.

Effect of Custom. — Evidence of a custom to assist women passengers is inadmissible to establish a duty to assist the plaintiff, unless it is shown that the plaintiff relied on the custom, or that it was so well known and acquiesced in that it might reasonably be presumed to have been an ingredient imported into the contract by the parties. St. Louis Southwestern R. Co. v. McCullough, 18 Tex. Civ. App. 534.

Assisting Passenger to Alight from Crowded Street Car. — It has been declared that it is the duty of a conductor who is on the rear platform when a passenger is alighting to see to it that the passenger has an opportunity to alight with safety, and it is his duty to see to it that passengers who are blocking the exit shall stand aside or even alight from the car temporarily. But it cannot ordinarily be said that the conductor is negligent in not being on the back platform prepared to render this assistance. Jacobs v. West End St. R. Co., 178 Mass. 116.

Duty to Intoxicated Passenger. — Burke v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., 108 Ill. App. 565.

Negligence in Assisting Passenger to Alight. — Although a carrier may not be under any obligation to furnish passengers assistance to alight, if it undertakes to do it will be liable for the negligence of its servants in assisting passengers. Western, etc., R. Co. v. Voils, 98 Ga. 446; Missouri, etc., R. Co. v. White, 22 Tex. Civ. App. 424; International, etc., R. Co. v. Anderson, 15 Tex. Civ. App. 180; International, etc., R. Co. v. 3. Duty to See Whether Passengers Are Getting On or Off Street Car. — Street railway carriers are under an obligation, through their servants, to exercise care to see and know that no passengers are in the act of getting on or off a car, which has been stopped for the purpose of taking on or setting down passengers, before the car is again put in motion.

Whenever a street car is stopped at or near a crossing of streets, before the car is again put in motion the duty is cast on those in charge of the car of exercising proper and reasonable care for the safety of passengers. West Chicago St. R. Co. v. Manning, 170 Ill. 417.

When a street surface car has come to a full standstill, reasonable care in its operation demands that it shall not be started without some effort on the part of the conductor or motorman to determine whether this may be done with safety to passengers or intending passengers, and the question of negligence is one for the jury. Bessenger v. Metropolitan St. R. Co., 79 N. Y. App. Div. 32.

In Georgia it is said that it is the duty of the proper servant of a street railway company to exercise extraordinary diligence, before signaling a car to go ahead, to ascertain if any passengers wish to alight. Atlanta R. Co. v. Randall, 117 Ga. 165.

Cars Drawn by Dummy Engines. — It has been held that in the operation of cars drawn by dummy engines through the streets of cities it is the duty of the conductor before starting the train to see and know that no person is in the act of getting off. Sweet v. Birmingham R., etc., Co., 136 Ala. 166.

Interurban Electric Cars. — The rule which is applicable to the management of street cars operating only in the streets of a city or town, that when those in charge of the car stop it in response to the signal or notification of a passenger to enable him to alight, it is their duty to see and know before starting again that no one is in the act of alighting or in any other perilous position, has been held to be applicable to the management of an electric car which is run on schedule time, and which, when beyond the city limits, stops only at regular stations. Birmingham R., etc., Co. v. Wildman, 119 Ala. 547.

580. 5. Getting On or Off Street Car Without the Knowledge of the Carrier. — It has been held that if the servants in charge of a street car do not have notice or knowledge that a passenger intends to alight, the carrier cannot be charged with negligence because of the starting of the car while the passenger is alighting. Grabenstein v. Metropolitan St. R. Co., (Supm. Ct. App. T.) 84 N. Y. Supp. 261; Brown v. Interurban St. R. Co., (Supm. Ct. App. T.) 43 Misc. (N. Y.) 374.

Car Stopped for Some Other Purpose than Taking On or Setting Down Passengers. — It has been said that if a car is not stopped to take up or set down passengers, a carrier cannot be held liable for injuries sustained by a passenger who suddenly leaves his seat and steps off the car. Spaulding v. Quincy, etc., R. Co., 184 Mass. 470.

Thus, if the conductor of a street car has no notice of the fact that any passengers intend to alight when the car is stopped for some purpose other than taking on or setting down passengers, a passenger cannot recover for injuries received by the starting of the car while he is alighting. McCarthy v. Interurban St. R. Co., (Supm. Ct. App. T.) 88 N. Y. Supp. 388. And it has been held that where a street car is stopped at the railroad crossing, as required by statute, the conductor going ahead to see that the track is clear, the motorman and the conductor are not required, as a matter of law, to look before the car is started to ascertain whether any one is getting on or off. Packard v. Toledo Traction Co., 12 Ohio Cir. Dec. 822, 22 Ohio Cir. Ct. 578. But, on the other hand, it has been declared that it cannot be said as a matter of law that where one person is seeking to get on a car, either stopped or slowed down for the purpose, there is no duty imposed on the servants of the company in charge of the car to look and see if any one else is following and seeking to take advantage of the car being stopped to board it. Sexton v. Metropolitan St. R. Co., 40 N. Y. App. Div. 26.

Car Not Stopped. — It has been held that if a street car does not stop, but only slacks its speed for the purpose of letting an intending passenger get on, the conductor is not bound to "see and ascertain" whether any person might be getting off while the car is in motion. Ashtabula Rapid Transit Co. v. Holmes, 67 Ohio St. 153. If passengers attempt to alight from a car, having given no information or indication to the persons in charge of their intention so to do, there is no negligence on the part of the driver of the car in increasing its speed to the rate at which it can ordinarily proceed with safety. Steuer v. Metropolitan St. R. Co., 46 N. Y. App. Div. 500; Blakney v. Seattle Electric Co., 28 Wash. 607. If the carrier's servants in charge of a street car do not know, and have no reason to believe, that any one is about to board the car while it is in motion, it is not negligence to increase the speed of the car. Fremont v. Metropolitan St. R. Co., 83 N. Y. App. Div. 414.

It has been held that although a passenger has signaled the conductor that he wishes to alight, and the speed of the car is shortly afterwards decreased, this does not justify the assumption by the passenger that the car has slowed up for him to alight, in the absence of knowledge that his wishes were communicated by the conductor to the driver. Armstrong v. Metropolitan St. R. Co., 36 N. Y. App. Div. 525, affirmed without opinion 165 N. Y. 641.

Although an intending passenger has signaled an approaching street car to stop, and the car thereafter slows down, it is not negligence to increase the speed of the car while such person is attempting to get on unless the car was slowed down in response to his signal, or the servants in charge of the car became aware that he desired or was attempting to board the car. Reidy v. Metropolitan St. R. Co., (Supm. Ct. App. T.) 27 Misc. (N. Y.) 527.

Although a car has been signaled to stop by a bystander, and the car has been slowed up, it is not negligence to increase the speed of the car before the rear of the car is opposite the place where the intending passenger is standing, unless the motorman sees him attempting to get on the car. Monroe v. Metropolitan St. R. Co., 79 N. Y. App. Div. 587.

Duty to Instruct Passenger Unfamiliar with Railway Travel. — Doolittle v. Southern R. Co., 62 S. Car. 130.

Dangers Against Which Warning Necessary. — Street-car companies carrying passengers in ordinary public streets or highways are not negligent in not providing means for warning passengers about to leave a car of the danger of colliding with or being run over by other vehicles in the street. The risk of being hurt by such vehicles is the risk of the passenger and not that of the carrier. It is not a danger against which the carrier is bound to protect the passenger or to give him warning. Oddy v. West End St. R. Co., 178 Mass. 341, 86 Am. St. Rep. 482.

Obvious Dangers. — No duty is imposed on carriers to warn passengers of obvious dangers. Witherington v. Lynn, etc., R. Co., 182 Mass. 596; Ebert v. Gulf, etc., R. Co., (Tex. Civ. App. 1899) 49 S. W. Rep. 1105.

Duty to Warn Child Against Riding in Dangerous Position. — Where a boy eight years and four months old got on a street car and sat down on the platform with his feet on the step of the car, it was held that the trial court properly submitted to the jury the question whether it was negligent on the part of the motorman, acting as conductor, to permit him to ride in that position. Jackson v. St. Paul City R. Co., 74 Minn. 48.

Sufficiency of Warning. — By reason of running a train too near a washout, the engine and some of the cars were overturned, leaving the car in which the plaintiff was a passenger in a situation of danger. The passengers in the car were told to get out, but the plaintiff, who did not understand English, remained in the car, and no further effort was made to remove her. It was held that a verdict for the plaintiff was properly directed. Southern Pac. R. Co. v. Tarin, (C. C. A.) 108 Fed. Rep. 734.

Fox River Valley Electric R. Co., 118 Wis. 614.

It has been said that a street railway company is bound to exercise a high degree of care to prevent injury to passengers in consequence of the overcrowding of its cars. Hansen v. North Jersey St. R. Co., 64 N. J. L. 686.

While it is not necessarily negligence to overcrowd a street car, yet when a car is overcrowded, additional care and precaution must be exercised by the conductor and motorman to protect the passenger against resultant injury. McCaw v. Union Traction Co., 205 Pa. St. 271.

It usually cannot be said to be negligence, as a matter of law, for a carrier to permit a passenger to stand on a footboard, but if no seat is furnished and the carrier permits a passenger to ride in that way, the carrier assumes the duty of exercising the care demanded by the circumstances. North Chicago St. R. Co. v. Polkey, 203 Ill. 225.

When a street railway company undertakes to carry large numbers of people, vastly in excess of the seating and standing capacity of its car, and permits passengers to ride on the platform, and stops its car when in such crowded condition, that other persons may get upon it, and, because of the crowd, a passenger, who had boarded the car before it became crowded, is pushed off a platform to his injury, the company is guilty of negligence. Reem v. St. Paul City R. Co., 77 Minn. 503.

a "drover's pass," have been held to be void. Pennsylvania Co. v. Gresco, 102 Ill. App. 252; Rowdin v. Pennsylvania R. Co., 208 Pa. St. 623; Feldschneider v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., 122 Wis. 423.

And it has been held that the carrier cannot make itself liable to such passengers for gross negligence alone. Illinois Cent. R. Co. v. Anderson, 184 Ill. 294, affirming 81 Ill. App. 137.

A stipulation in a contract between a railroad company and the father of the plaintiff, who was to be in charge of a horse shipped over the road, exempting the company from liability to the person in charge of the horse except from gross negligence, was held not to be binding upon the plaintiff, who was a minor. Chicago, etc., R. Co. v. Lee, (C. C. A.) 92 Fed. Rep. 318.

In Kansas a limitation of liability of a receiver of a railroad to one riding on a stock pass is void by statute unless the limitation has the sanction of the board of railroad commissioners. Chicago, etc., R. Co. v. Posten, 59 Kan. 449. And see Chicago, etc., R. Co. v. Martin, 59 Kan. 437.

In Canada it is held that a stipulation in a free pass which is given a person who is to be in charge of a shipment of cattle, exempting the carrier from liability for negligence, is valid and may be taken advantage of by a connecting carrier. Bicknell v. Grand Trunk R. Co., 26 Ont. App. 431.

Express Messengers — Contract Exempting Carrier from Liability for Negligence Valid. — Baltimore, etc., R. Co. v. Voigt, 176 U. S. 498; Blank v. Illinois Cent. R. Co., 182 Ill. 332, affirming 80 Ill. App. 475; Louisville, etc., R. Co. v. Keefer, 146 Ind. 21, 58 Am. St. Rep. 348; Peterson v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., 119 Wis. 197, 100 Am. St. Rep. 879. See Richmond v. Southern Pac. R. Co., 41 Oregon 54, 93 Am. St. Rep. 694.

It has been held that the express messenger is chargeable with knowledge of a contract between the carrier and his employer limiting the carrier's liability. Pittsburgh, etc., R. Co. v. Mahoney, 148 Ind. 196, 62 Am. St. Rep. 503. But on the other hand a contractual stipulation exempting a carrier from liability for negligence to an express messenger has been held to be void. Voight v. Baltimore, etc., R. Co., 79 Fed. Rep. 561.

And it has been held that an express messenger is not bound by a contract between his employer and the railroad company, exempting the company from liability for negligence, if he has no knowledge of the contract. Chamberlain v. Pierson, (C. C. A.) 87 Fed. Rep. 420.

News Agent. — It has been held that a contract between a railroad company and a news agent engaged in business on the defendant's train, exempting the company from liability to him for negligence, is against public policy, and is void as respects negligence consisting of a violation of a statute requiring trains to be stopped before arriving at the crossing of an intersecting railroad, even though the company may not bear to the news agent the relation of common carrier. Starr v. Great Northern R. Co., 67 Minn. 18.

Circus Trains — Contract Exempting Carrier from Liability for Negligence. — A contract between a carrier and a circus company, providing for the indemnification of injuries sustained by any of the employees of the circus, does not relieve the carrier from liability for negligence resulting in injuries to such employees. Seaboard Air-Line R. Co. v. Main, 132 N. Car. 445.

Passengers on Freight Trains. — Stipulations against liability for negligence to persons who are permitted to ride on freight trains are void. Central of Georgia R. Co. v. Almand, 116 Ga. 780; Louisville, etc., R. Co. v. Bell, 100 Ky. 203; Richmond v. Southern Pac. R. Co., 41 Oregon 54, 93 Am. St. Rep. 694; Ft. Worth, etc., R. Co. v. Rogers, 21 Tex. Civ. A prima facie case is established when the plaintiff shows that he was injured while being carried as a passenger by the defendant, and that the injury was caused by the manner in which the defendant used or directed some agency or instrumentality under its control. McCurrie v. Southern Pac. R. Co., 122 Cal. 558.

Where an injury occurs to a passenger through a defect in the car, or from its management and control, or from anything pertaining to the service which the company ought to control, the law will presume negligence on the part of the company. Citizens St. R. Co. v. Hoffbauer, 23 Ind. App. 614.

"If the injury to a passenger is caused by apparatus wholly under the control of the carrier and furnished and applied by it, a presumption of negligence on its part is raised. It is only when the injury occurred from the abuse of agencies within the defendant's power that he can be inferred, from the mere fact of the injury, to have acted negligently." Chicago City R. Co. v. Catlin, 70 Ill. App. 97.

Rule under Georgia Statute. — Savannah, etc., K. Co. v. Flaherty, 110 Ga. 335.

The Sudden Lurching of a Train has been held not to raise the presumption. Denver, etc., R. Co. v. Fotheringham, 17 Colo. App. 410. And a sudden lurching occasioned by a necessary increase of power has been held not to raise a presumption of negligence. Allen v. Northern Pac. R. Co., 35 Wash. 221.

The Sudden Lurching of an Electric Railway Train in rounding a curve has been held to raise a presumption of negligence. Fitch v. Mason City, etc., Traction Co., 124 Iowa 665.

The Sudden Jerking, Jolting, or Lurching of a Street Car has been held to raise a presumption of negligence. North Chicago St. R. Co. v. Schwartz, 82 Ill. App. 493; Dixey v. Philadelphia Traction Co., 180 Pa. St. 401.

Thus, the sudden jerking or lurching of a street car as a passenger was alighting has been held to raise a presumption of negligence. Consolidated Traction Co. v. Thalheimer, 59 N. J. L. 474.

Where a passenger who was preparing to alight from a street car was thrown from the platform of the car by a sudden lurching, it was held that a presumption of negligence was raised. Scott v. Bergen County Traction Co., 63 N. J. L. 407.

625. Collisions. — See note 1.

On the other hand it has been held that the sudden lurching or jerking of a street car, whereby a passenger is thrown from the back platform of the car, has been held not to raise a presumption of negligence; it was said that it must be shown that the sudden jerk or lurch was caused by some negligence on the part of the carrier in the construction of the car or road or in the management of the car. Mt. Adams, etc., Inclined Plane R. Co. v. Isaacs, 10 Ohio Cir. Dec. 49, 18 Ohio Cir. Ct. 177.

The Swerving of a Street Car in Rounding a Curve, which had the effect of throwing a passenger from her seat, was held not to raise a presumption of negligence. Wilder v. Metropolitan St. R. Co., 10 N. Y. App. Div. 364, affirmed without opinion 161 N. Y. 665.

The Sudden Starting of a Street Car has been held to raise a presumption of negligence. Denver Consol. Tramway Co. v. Rush, 19 Colo. App. 70; City, etc., R. Co. v. Svedborg, 20 App. Cas. (D. On the other hand it has been held that the sudden starting of a street car did not raise a presumption of negligence. O'Neil v. Lynn, etc., R. Co., 180 Mass. 576; Peck v. St. Louis Transit Co., 178 Mo. 617.

Sudden Stopping of Train or Car. — The sudden stopping of a railway train has been held to raise a presumption of negligence. McCurrie v. Southern Pac. R. Co., 122 Cal. 558; St. Louis, etc., R. Co. v. Burrows, 62 Kan. 89. Contra, Jonas v. Long Island R. Co., (Supm. Ct. App. T.) 21 Misc. (N. Y.) 306.

And it has been held that a presumption of negligence may be raised by the sudden stopping of a street car. Babcock v. Los Angeles Traction Co., 128 Cal. 173; Langley v. Metropolitan St. R. Co., (Supm. Ct. App. T.) 36 Misc. (N. Y.) 804.

But it has been held that the sudden stopping of a street car did not raise a presumption of negligence where the car was not stopped by the gripman. Hoffman v. Third Ave. R. Co., 45 N. Y. App. Div. 586.

And it has been held that where it is considered that there is more or less jerking and jolting incident to the operation of a freight train, negligence cannot be inferred from the mere fact that the plaintiff was injured while a passenger on a freight train from a jar occasioned by the stopping of the train. Erwin v. Kansas City, etc., R. Co., 94 Mo. App. 289.

The Overtaking of a Railway Coach has been held to raise a presumption of negligence. Felton v. Holbrook, (Ky. 1900) 56 S. W. Rep. 506.

629. 1. Waiver of Presumption. — It has been held that while an agreement that there shall be no liability at all by the carrier for injury to the passenger does not relieve the carrier from liability for negligence, the passenger cannot avail himself of the presumption of negligence, but must show that negligence existed. Crary v. Lehigh Valley R. Co., 203 Pa. St. 525, 93 Am. St. Rep. 778.

An unsuccessful attempt to prove by direct evidence the precise cause of an accident does not estop the plaintiff from relying on the presumption of negligence raised by the accident. Cassady v. Old Colony St. R. Co., 184 Mass. 156.

But when the evidence shows the precise cause of the accident there is no room for the application of the doctrine of presumption. Buckland v. New York, etc., R. Co., 181 Mass. 3; Galligan v. Old Colony St. R. Co., 182 Mass. 211, holding that a derailment did not give rise to a presumption of negligence where the plaintiff showed that it was caused by the presence between the rails of a large stone which had rolled on the track from the adjoining bank.

When the plaintiff relies on a specific act of negligence he cannot avail himself of the rule raising a presumption of negligence. Bartley v. Metropolitan St. R. Co., 148 Mo. 124; Feary v. Metropolitan St. R. Co., 162 Mo. 75.

632. 3. Person Selling Tickets at Station. — Gulf, etc., R. Co. v. Moorman, (Tex. Civ. App. 1898) 46 S. W. Rep. 662.

Person in Possession of Lantern and Collecting Tickets. — When it is shown by the evidence that a person was in possession of a lantern and went through a passenger car taking up tickets from the passengers, the question whether such person was in fact conductor of the train or other person in charge is for the jury to determine. No other person being apparently in charge, proof of such facts places on the railroad company the burden of showing that such person was not in charge of the train. Coursey v. Southern R. Co., 113 Ga. 297.

Person Giving Instructions to Passenger but Not Dressed in Uniform of Company. — Where a passenger testified that she was instructed to alight from the train by a man who was dressed in dark clothes, and who inquired as to her destination, and the uncontroverted testimony showed that all the train employees were dressed in dark blue clothes with brass buttons and wore caps, it was held that the evidence was insufficient to show that the person who directed the plaintiff to alight was an employee of the company. Texas, etc., R. Co. v. Woods, 15 Tex. Civ. App. 612.

633. 6. Evidence of Defective Condition of Track. — Whittlesey v. Burlington, etc., R. Co., 121 Iowa 606, citing 5 AM. AND ENG. ENCYC. OF LAW (2d ed.) 633.

634. 4. Previous Condition. — Evidence as to the previous condition of a switch at the place where the wreck occurred has been held to be admissible to bring home to the defendant knowledge of the existence of such condition. Houston, etc., R. Co. v. Richards, 20 Tex. Civ. App. 203.

635. 1. Condition of Station Platform. — Texas Midland R. Co. v. Brown, (Tex. Civ. App. 1900) 58 S. W. Rep. 44.

2. The Report of State Railway Commissioners pointing out a necessary safeguard is admissible to show knowledge of a defect in the road. Baruth v. Poughkeepsie City, etc., Electric R. Co., 89 N. Y. App. Div. 324. And it has been held that the report of one of the state railway commissioners to an official of the road as to the condition of a station is admissible to show notice. *Smoak v. 636. 1. Admissible to Show Defect in Means of Transportation. — Dallas Consol. Electric St. R. Co. v. Broadhurst, 28 Tex. Civ. App. 630.

Admissible in Rebuttal. — Evidence of prior accidents at the same place has been held to be admissible to rebut the defendant's testimony that a great many passengers had been carried without accident. Illinois Cent. R. Co. v. Treat, 179 Ill. 576, affirming 75 Ill. App. 327.

2. Other and Similar Assaults. — Indianapolis St. R. Co. v. Dawson, 31 Ind. App. 605; Holzhauser v. Brooklyn Heights R. Co., (Supm. Ct. Tr. T.) 43 Misc. (N. Y.) 145; Dallas Consol. Electric St. R. Co. v. Broadhurst, 28 Tex. Civ. App. 630.

2. Evidence of Subsequent Repairs Held Inadmissible. — See Prescott, etc., R. Co. v. Smith, 70 Ark. 179; Louisville, etc., R. Co. v. Henry, (Ky. 1898) 44 S. W. Rep. 428.

It has been held that the fact that a hydrant box sunk in the ground at a station was removed after the plaintiff was injured by stepping into it was not admissible in evidence, because such removal or repair would not affect the question of previous negligence, and it ought not to be said that the subsequent removal of the box, or the adoption of some other plan to secure it, in order to prevent like accidents in the future, was an admission on the defendant's part that it had been negligent in the past by keeping the box at the place where the accident occurred. Southern Pac. R. Co. v. Hall, (C. C. A.) 100 Fed. Rep. 760.

Providing New Stopping Place. — In an action to recover damages for injuries received through the alleged negligence of the defendant in failing to provide a safe place at which to alight, it was held that evidence that a new and better stopping place had been provided after the accident was inadmissible. Galveston, etc., R. Co. v. Walker, (Tex. Civ. App. 1898) 48 S. W. Rep. 767.

Enforced Rule of Carrier. — Frizzell v. Omaha St. R. Co., (C. C. A.) 124 Fed. Rep. 176.

The rule of a carrier, which has been enforced, as to stopping at a particular place, may be shown when there is conflicting evidence as to whether the carrier's street car did stop at the place in question. Nassau Electric R. Co. v. Corliss, (C. C. A.) 126 Fed. Rep. 355.

Customary Failure to Stop a Reasonable Time. — Evidence tending to prove that the defendant's cars for several years prior to the accident, as was known to the plaintiff, were accustomed to make a very short stop at the crossing where he wished to alight, and not a sufficient time to allow passengers to alight in safety, has been held to be admissible upon the question whether the plaintiff was guilty of contributory negligence in leaving his seat while the car was in motion, and in preparing to alight. Mt. Adams, etc., Inclined Plane R. Co. v. Isaacs, 10 Ohio Cir. Dec. 49, 18 Ohio Cir. Ct. 177.

Management of Train. — In an action to recover for damages received by a passenger while alighting, through a sudden movement of the train, evidence as to how the train was managed at other stations on the same trip was held to be inadmissible. Clark v. Smith, 72 Vt. 138.

Declaration Showing Intention in Boarding Car has been held to be admissible when the question of intent was important as bearing upon the question whether the person making the declaration sustained the relation of a passenger to the carrier. Inness v. Boston, etc., R. Co., 168 Mass. 433.

Declarations Prior to Accident. — A statement made just before the accident by a passenger, showing that he was hurrying from the coach at the rear end of the train to the engine in front to present his ticket to the conductor, has been held to be admissible as part of the res gestæ. Means v. Carolina Cent. R. Co., 124 N. Car. 574.

2. Declarations of Servants. — Birmingham R., etc., Co. v. Mullen, 138 Ala. 614; Reiten v. Lake St. El. R. Co., 85 Ill. App. 657; Memphis St. R. Co. v. Shaw, 110 Tenn. 467.

It has been held that the declarations of a conductor immediately after the accident, as to what happened during the derailment of the train, and his directions to the plaintiff to jump, were admissible; but his statements as to the condition of the track were not a part of the occurrence and were not admissible. Houston, etc., R. Co. v. Norris, (Tex. Civ. App. 1897) 41 S. W. Rep. 708.

Evidence as to what the conductor of a street car said immediately after the plaintiff fell off the car has been held inadmissible, on the ground that the remark or declaration of the conductor was no part of the transaction and did not illustrate or explain or characterize it. Reem v. St. Paul City R. Co., 77 Minn. 503.

642. 1. Time of Declarations. — Little Rock Traction, etc., Co. v. Nelson, 66 Ark. 404; Trumbull v. Donahue, 18 Colo. App. 460; South Covington, etc., St. R. Co. v. Riegler, 82 S. W. Rep. 382, 26 Ky. L. Rep. 666; Shaefer v. Missouri Pac. R. Co., 98 Mo. App. 445.

In an action by a passenger to recover damages for injuries sustained in a collision, it was held that statements by the engineer of the train which collided with the one on which the plaintiff was a passenger, made fifteen or twenty minutes after the collision, when all of the parties were on the ground, and after the time an examination had been made by the engineer into the cause of the collision, to the effect that he could not stop his train because the brakes of the cars would not work, as the air between the tender and the baggage car had been cut off, were held to be admissible as part of the res gestæ. Missouri, etc., R. Co. v. Vance, (Tex. Civ. App. 1897) 41 S. W. Rep. 167.

2. Declarations Must Be Made Before Transaction a Completed Fact. — Boone v. Oakland Transit Co., 139 Cal. 490; Rosted v. Great Northern R. Co., 76 Minn. 123; *Gotwald v. 643. 1. Declarations Before the Transaction. — It has been held that statements and declarations of the motorman, made to the plaintiff just preceding a derailment, as to the condition of the track, as to his not having sand, and the car being late and overloaded, and the rapidity of the speed, were competent as part of the res gestæ and also as fixing the company with knowledge of facts requiring a greater degree of care and prudence than ordinary. Witsell v. West Asheville, etc., R. Co., 120 N. Car. 557.

3. Must Be Made by One Connected with Transaction. — Ayres v. Delaware, etc., R. Co., 158 N. Y. 254, affirming 4 N. Y. App. Div. 511.

4. Time Card of Conductor of Street Car. — Lucas v. Metropolitan St. R. Co., 56 N. Y. App. Div. 405.

3. Oliver v. Columbia, etc., R. Co., 65 S. Car. 1.

Remarks by Third Persons. — In an action to recover for injuries received in a collision at a railroad crossing, when one of the important issues was whether the train on which the plaintiff was a passenger stopped before entering upon the crossing, it was held that evidence was properly admitted to show that a resident in the neighborhood of the crossing, when he saw the train approach the crossing without stopping, and before the collision, remarked to his wife that the train had entered upon the crossing without stopping and that there would be a collision. Missouri, etc., R. Co. v. Vance, (Tex. Civ. App. 1897) 41 S. W. Rep. 167.

Propriety of Instructions on Question of Proximate Cause. — In several Texas cases it has been held that when the plaintiff's acts or conduct, if amounting to contributory negligence, must have directly contributed to the injury, the failure to charge that the plaintiff's negligence must have contributed to the accident as a proximate cause is not error. Texas, etc., R. Co. v. Born, 20 Tex. Civ. App. 351; Ebert v. Gulf, etc., R. Co., (Tex. Civ. App. 1899) 49 S. W. Rep. 1105.

And it has even been held that under such circumstances it is error to charge the jury that to defeat a recovery the plaintiff's negligence must have been the proximate cause of the injury. Galveston, etc., R. Co. v. Hubbard, (Tex. Civ. App. 1902) 70 S. W. Rep. 112; Central Texas, etc., R. Co. v. Hoard, (Tex. Civ. App. 1898) 49 S. W. Rep. 142; Gulf, etc., R. Co. v. Rowland, 90 Tex. 365.

Where a passenger in a street car was injured by the sudden flying back of the iron brake bar while he was standing in the motorman's aisle in a crowded car, the recovery for the injury received is not defeated by the mere fact that the motorman suggested or requested that the passenger leave the position taken by him, without informing him of the peril; taking into consideration the crowded condition of the car, the question of contributory negligence is for the determination of the jury. West Chicago St. R. Co. v. Johnson, 180 Ill. 288, affirmed 77 Ill. App. 142.

Alighting from Street Cars at Dangerous Place. — United R., etc., Co. v. Hertel, 97 Md. 382; United R., etc., Co. v. Woodbridge, 97 Md. 629.

A passenger on a street car who has indicated to the conductor the place where he wishes to alight is not chargeable with contributory negligence in alighting from the car when it is stopped, simply because the car had been stopped at an unusual and dangerous place. Henry v. Grant St. Electric R. Co., 24 Wash. 246.

Alighting from Street Car Stopped at Crossing of Railroad Track. — When a street car is stopped at the intersection of a railroad track for the purpose of allowing the conductor to go ahead to view the railroad track, and it is customary for passengers to alight at the place where the car is stopped, it is not negligence for a passenger to attempt to alight while the car is at a standstill. Richmond Traction Co. v. Williams, 102 Va. 253.

Alighting from Freight Train Stopped at Usual Place. — It was held that a passenger on a freight train which stopped a few feet distant from the station platform was not guilty of negligence as a matter of law in alighting from the train at that place, if the train had stopped at the place where it usually stopped, and if, to the plaintiff's knowledge, it was customary for the passengers to get off at that place. Carroll v. Burleigh, 15 Wash. 208.

In the absence of notice of a passenger's intention to alight at a point where a street car slows up to take on an intending passenger, the conductor may well presume that persons on the car will not attempt to get off, and where, in such case, a passenger is injured in the attempt to alight from the moving car, it is for the jury to find whether the injured person exercised ordinary care in attempting to alight without giving notice to the conductor of a desire to get off at that point. Ashtabula Rapid Transit Co. v. Holmes, 67 Ohio St. 153.

Knowledge of Regulation by Passenger. — A passenger cannot be charged with negligence for the nonobservance of a rule of a street railway company that passengers must not leave its cars while they are in motion unless he knew of the rule, though conduct in violation of the rule may be negligent without reference to it. Armstrong v. Montgomery St. R. Co., 123 Ala. 233.

674. 3. A Drove Riding in Freight Car Instead of Caboose, voluntarily and unnecessarily, has been held to be chargeable with negligence. Walker v. Green, 60 Kan. 289.

But under the terms of a contract providing that the plaintiff should be in charge, during transportation, of a fine mare shipped over the defendant's road, it was held that the plaintiff was not guilty of negligence in riding in the car with the mare instead of the caboose. Chicago, etc., R. Co. v. Lee, (C. C. A.) 92 Fed. Rep. 318.

Sitting at Open Window. — Ordinarily it is not negligence for a passenger to sit with his face towards an open window. Missouri, etc., R. Co. v. Flood, (Tex. Civ. App. 1904) 79 S. W. Rep. 1106.

But it has been held that a passenger who knows that sparks and cinders are entering an open window by which he is sitting, and also knows, or by the exercise of ordinary care could know, that there are unoccupied seats with protected windows to be had, is negligent in not removing from the dangerous position. O'Donnell v. Louisville, etc., R. Co., (Ky. 1897) 42 S. W. Rep. 846.

Sitting in Chair Instead of Stationary Seat. — Freeman v. Pere Marquette R. Co., 131 Mich. 544, 100 Am. St. Rep. 621, 9 Detroit Leg. N. 436, holding that it was negligent for a passenger in a caboose to seat himself in a chair instead of one of the stationary seats provided for passengers, the passenger knowing that switching was still going on.

It has been held to be negligence to stand on the platform of a car when the train is moving rapidly. Hicks v. Georgia Southern, etc., R. Co., 108 Ga. 304.

Riding on Running Board of Open Street Car. — Cusick v. Interurban St. R. Co., (Supm. Ct. App. T.) 86 N. Y. Supp. 758.

It has been held that a passenger who rides on the running board of an open street car, when there are vacant seats in the car, assumes the risk of being struck by cars passing on a parallel track even if he is not wanting in due care. Moody v. Springfield St. R. Co., 182 Mass. 158.

In Pennsylvania it was held that a passenger who rides on the side step when it is reasonably practicable for him to go inside the car is chargeable with negligence, but when the passenger by invitation of the conductor, or with his knowledge and assent, and from necessity because of want of sitting or standing room inside of the car, rides on the side step the question of contributory negligence is for the jury. Bumbear v. United Traction Co., 198 Pa. St. 198.

Going on Running Board of Moving Street Car, Preparatory to Alighting, has been held to be negligence. Bainbridge v. Union Traction Co., 206 Pa. St. 71.

Riding on Steps of Car Outside of Vestibule Door has been held to be negligence. Sanders v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., 10 Okla. 325.

Standing on Platform in Violation of Rules. — Denny v. North Carolina R. Co., 132 N. Car. 340.

Riding on the platform of a street car in violation of a rule of the carrier, which is not shown to have been waived or not to be in force, has been held to be negligence. Burns v. Boston, El. R. Co., 183 Mass. 96.

But if a rule against riding on platforms of street cars is not enforced, and passengers are sometimes even required to ride thereon, the violation of the rule is not a defense to an action to recover damages sustained by the carrier's negligence. Augusta R., etc., Co. v. Smith, 121 Ga. 29.

In Ohio the general rule that no recovery can be had against the carrier for an injury received by a passenger on a steam railroad while standing on the platform of a car in violation of the known rules of the company, there being vacant seats in the car, has been applied to a passenger riding on the platform of a car of an interurban electric railway. Cincinnati, etc., Electric St. R. Co. v. Lohe, 68 Ohio St. 101.

Riding on Platform of Car of Electric Railway. — In Pennsylvania the rule that it is negligence per se to ride unnecessarily on the platform of an ordinary railway car has been applied to riding on the platform of a car of an electric railway. Thane v. Scranton Traction Co., 191 Pa. St. 249, 71 Am. St. Rep. 767; Woodroffe v. Roxborough, etc., R. Co., 201 Pa. St. 521, 88 Am. St. Rep. 827.

Riding on the Side Step of an Open Street Car, when it is reasonably practicable for the passenger to sit or stand in the car, has been held to be contributory negligence. Woodroffe v. Roxborough, etc., R. Co., 201 Pa. St. 521, 88 Am. St. Rep. 827.

2. New York Rule Followed. — Trumbull v. Erickson, (C. C. A.) 97 Fed. Rep. 891. See Magrane v. St. Louis, etc., R. Co., 183 Mo. 119.

The case of Willis v. Long Island R. Co., 34 N. Y. 670, has been followed in Missouri in a case which construed a Missouri statute which is an exact copy of that of New York. Choate v. Missouri Pac. R. Co., 67 Mo. App. 105.

Riding on the Running Board of a Crowded Street Car is not negligence as a matter of law. Brainard v. Nassau Electric R. Co., 44 N. Y. App. Div. 613; Sheeron v. Coney Island, etc., R. Co., 78 N. Y. App. Div. 476.

Seattle Electric Co.*, 35 Wash. 600.

And this is true of riding on the platform of an electric car. Watson v. Portland, etc., R. Co., 91 Me. 584, 64 Am. St. Rep. 268; Brunnchow v. Rhode Island Co., 26 R. I. 211.

Riding on Front Platform of Street Car. — Ordinarily it is a question of fact for a jury whether a passenger, riding on the front platform of an electric car or a horse car, is in the exercise of due care. Sweetland v. Lynn, etc., R. Co., 177 Mass. 574; Seelig v. Metropolitan St. R. Co., (N. Y. City Ct. Gen. T.) 18 Misc. (N. Y.) 383; Gray v. Metropolitan St. R. Co., 39 N. Y. App. Div. 536, reversed 165 N. Y. 457; Bradley v. Second Ave. R. Co., 34 N. Y. App. Div. 284; Vogler v. Central Crosstown R. Co., 83 N. Y. App. Div. 101; Bailey v. Tacoma Traction Co., 16 Wash. 48.

Riding on the Steps or Running Board of Street Car. — Riding on the steps of a street car has sometimes been held to be negligence per se. Baltimore Consol. R. Co. v. Foreman, 94 Md. 226. But ordinarily the question of whether that is negligence is for the jury to decide. Lake Shore, etc., R. Co. v. Kelsey, 180 Ill. 530, affirming 76 Ill. App. 613; Chicago Union Trac- tion Co. v. Hanthorn, 211 Ill. 367; Parks v. St. Louis, etc., R. Co., 178 Mo. 108, 101 Am. St. Rep. 425.

And ordinarily it cannot be said that riding on the side footboard or running board of a street car is negligence per se. Harbison v. Metropolitan R. Co., 9 App. Cas. (D. C.) 60; Brightwood R. Co. v. Carter, 12 App. Cas. (D. C.) 155; Purington-Kimball Brick Co. v. Eckman, 102 Ill. App. 183; Citizen's St. R. Co. v. Hoffbauer, 23 Ind. App. 614; Kreimelmann v. Jourdan, 107 Mo. App. 64; Wheeler v. South Orange, etc., Traction Co., 70 N. J. L. 725; Hassen v. Nassau Electric R. Co., 34 N. Y. App. Div. 71; Henderson v. Nassau Electric R. Co., 46 N. Y. App. Div. 280.

Certainly it cannot ordinarily be said to be negligence as a matter of law to walk along the footboard of an open street car for the purpose of finding a seat. San Antonio Traction Co. v. Bryant, 30 Tex. Civ. App. 437.

And riding on the footboard of an open street car when all the seats are occupied is not contributory negligence as a matter of law. Anderson v. City, etc., R. Co., 42 Oregon 505.

It has been held that it is not negligence as a matter of law to ride on the footboard along the side of an open street car, in accordance with a common practice, although there may be vacant seats within the car. Seller v. Market St. R. Co., 139 Cal. 268. See Hesse v. Meriden, etc., Tramway Co., 75 Conn. 571.

681. 3. Passenger Not Obligated as Matter of Law to Keep Seat in Car — Indiana. — Romine v. Evansville, etc., R. Co., 24 Ind. App. 230.

Kansas. — St. Louis, etc., R. Co. v. Burrows, 62 Kan. 89.

New York. — Schmidt v. Coney Island, etc., R. Co., 26 N. Y. App. Div. 391.

Texas. — Gulf, etc., R. Co. v. Bell, 93 Tex. 634, citing 5 AM. AND ENG. ENCYC. OF LAW (2d ed.) 681; Texas, etc., R. Co. v. Adams, 32 Tex. Civ. App. 112; Chicago, etc., R. Co. v. Buie, 31 Tex. Civ. App. 654.

Washington. — Lane v. Spokane Falls, etc., R. Co., 21 Wash. 119, 75 Am. St. Rep. 821.

See Garland v. Southern R. Co., 111 Ga. 852.

But the circumstances may, of course, be such that it is negligence to stand up in a railway car. Witherington v. Lynn, etc., R. Co., 182 Mass. 596.

In McCurrie v. Southern Pac. R. Co., 122 Cal. 558, it was said that "it cannot be said as a matter of law that the plaintiff, by leaving his seat after the train had stopped, and attempting to go to the platform for the purpose of meeting his son, was guilty of any negligence which contributed to his injury."

It has been held that a person who has alighted from a street car is negligent in passing behind the car and across a parallel track without looking to see whether any car was approaching thereon. Smith v. City, etc., R. Co., 29 Oregon 539.

Where a passenger, after alighting from a street car, walked behind the car and across a parallel track, over which he knew that cars were running at intervals of a few minutes, without looking to see if any car was approaching, it was held that he was guilty of contributory negligence. Baltimore Traction Co. v. Helms, 84 Md. 515.

690. 2. Riding on Ticket Purchased on Sunday. — The fact that a passenger is riding on a ticket purchased on Sunday is not a bar to an action for a wrongful expulsion, the action being not for breach of a Sunday contract but for tortious ejection from the train. *Masterson v. Cullen v. New York, etc., R. Co., 68 N. Y. App. Div. 269. But it has been said that a passenger has a right to make a reasonable resistance when a wrongful expulsion is attempted. Breen v. St. Louis Transit Co., 102 Mo. App. 479.

Payment of Fare to Prevent Expulsion. — A passenger who is threatened with a wrongful expulsion is not required to pay fare a second time in order to lessen the damages. Pennsylvania R. Co. v. Lenhart, (C. C. A.) 120 Fed. Rep. 61; Gulf, etc., R. Co. v. Copeland, 17 Tex. Civ. App. 55. But it has been held that if a passenger resist the payment of an extra charge which is illegally exacted, until force is used upon him, for the sole purpose of enhancing the damages, he cannot recover the increased damages which are caused by his conduct. Patterson v. Southern Pac. R. Co., 28 Tex. Civ. App. 67.

Passenger Provoking Assault. — In a number of cases it has been held that the fact that an assault upon a passenger by a servant of the carrier was provoked by the language or conduct of the passenger may be taken into consideration in mitigation of damages. Weber v. Brooklyn, etc., R. Co., 47 N. Y. App. Div. 306; Houston, etc., R. Co. v. Batchler, 32 Tex. Civ. App. 14.

It has been held that it may be taken into consideration in mitigation of even compensatory damages. Freedman v. Metropolitan St. R. Co., 89 N. Y. App. Div. 486.

But, on the other hand, it has been held that provocation by the passenger will not be considered in mitigation of damages in an action to recover for an assault by the carrier's servant. Birmingham R., etc., Co. v. Mullen, 138 Ala. 614.

In Mahoning Valley R. Co. v. De Pascale, 70 Ohio St. 179, it was held that words provoking an assault cannot be considered in mitigation of actual or compensatory damages.

Evidence that an assault on a passenger by a servant was provoked by the passenger is admissible in mitigation of exemplary damages. Galveston, etc., R. Co., v. La Prella, 27 Tex. Civ. App. 496. And see Mahoning Valley R. Co. v. De Pascale, 70 Ohio St. 179.

A woman passenger who opens the way by an immodest or improper remark for an insulting proposal by the conductor is not entitled to the same award of punitive damages as one who gives no license by imprudence in speech or conduct. Strother v. Aberdeen, etc., R. Co., 123 N. Car. 197.

694. 1. Effect of Existing Disease or Injury. — St. Louis, etc., R. Co. v. Kilpatrick, 67 Ark. 47; Mathew v. Wabash R. Co., (Mo. App. 1903) 78 S. W. Rep. 271; Gulf, etc., R. Co. v. Brown, 16 Tex. Civ. App. 93; Pecos, etc., R. Co. v. Williams, (Tex. Civ. App. 1903) 78 S. W. Rep. 5.

698. 1. Elements of Damages for Failure to Carry. — Louisville, etc., R. Co. v. Spinks, 104 Ga. 692; Southern R. Co. v. Marshall, 111 Ky. 560; Mobile, etc., R. Co. v. Reeves, (Ky. 1904) 80 S. W. Rep. 471; Cooley v. Pennsylvania R. Co., (Supm. Ct. App. T.) 40 Misc. (N. Y.) 239; Rose v. King, 76 N. Y. App. Div. 308.

Delay in Carrying. — Miller v. Southern R. Co., 69 S. Car. 116; International, etc., R. Co. v. Harder, (Tex. Civ. App. 1904) 81 S. W. Rep. 356.

Refusal to Admit Passenger to Train. — In an action to recover damages for a wrongful refusal to admit the plaintiff to a train it was held that the humiliation suffered by the plaintiff was an element in the measure of damages. Cleveland, etc., R. Co. v. Kinsley, 27 Ind. App. 135, 87 Am. St. Rep. 245.

3. Inconvenience and Disappointment. — Southern R. Co. v. Marshall, 111 Ky. 560; Mobile, etc., R. Co. v. Reeves, (Ky. 1904) 80 S. W. Rep. 471.

In Miller v. Southern R. Co., 69 S. Car. 116, it was held that mere inconvenience is not an element of damages in an action for delay in carrying.

Disappointment Is Not an Element. — Miller v. Baltimore, etc., R. Co., 89 N. Y. App. Div. 457.

Anxiety and Suspense of Mind. — It has been held that damages cannot be recovered for anxiety and suspense of mind in consequence of delay caused by the fault of a common carrier. Turner v. Great Northern R. Co., 15 Wash. 213, 55 Am. St. Rep. 883. And see the title DAMAGES.

699. 2. Sickness. — See Rawlings v. Wabash R. Co., 97 Mo. App. 515, holding that there can be no recovery for sickness.

Carrying Beyond Station or Destination. — Louisville, etc., R. Co. v. Quick, 125 Ala. 553; Texarkana, etc., R. Co. v. Anderson, 67 Ark. 123; Smith v. Wilmington, etc., R. Co., 130 N. Car. 304, holding that there can be no recovery where there is no evidence of actual damage.

For being carried a distance beyond the station, a passenger can recover compensation for the extra inconvenience and suffering above what she would have experienced had she been put off at the usual place. Houston, etc., R. Co. v. McKenzie, (Tex. Civ. App. 1897) 41 S. W. Rep. 831.

Fright. — Houston, etc., R. Co. v. McKenzie, (Tex. Civ. App. 1897) 41 S. W. Rep. 831.

Mental Anxiety. — Smith v. Wilmington, etc., R. Co., 130 N. Car. 304, holding that there can be no recovery for mental anguish; International, etc., R. Co. v. Sammon, (Tex. Civ. App. 1904) 79 S. W. Rep. 854.

Fright and Mental Anguish. — Texas, etc., R. Co. v. Gott, 20 Tex. Civ. App. 335.

3. Damages for Permanent Injuries — Generally. — See Pryor v. Metropolitan St. R. Co., 85 Mo. App. 367.

Diminished Capacity to Earn Money. — McCaw v. Union Traction Co., 205 Pa. St. 271; St. Louis Southwestern R. Co. v. Byers, (Tex. Civ. App. 1902) 70 S. W. Rep. 558.

Diminished Capacity to Work. — See Kroner v. St. Louis Transit Co., 107 Mo. App. 41, holding that an injury to a married woman, resulting in disability to perform the household duties which she had performed for her husband, does not afford her the right to recover for the loss, and this common-law rule is not changed by a statute which gives the wife a right to her separate earnings.

707. 1. Mental Suffering as an Element of Damages. — Texarkana, etc., R. Co. v. Anderson, 67 Ark. 123; Hot Springs R. Co. v. Deloney, 65 Ark. 177, 67 Am. St. Rep. 913; Malott v. Woods, 109 Ill. Texas. — Denison, etc., R. Co. v. Randell, 29 Tex. Civ. App. 460.

And see generally the title DAMAGES.

Whether Recoverable as of Right. — It has been said that punitive damages, being apart from compensation, are not recoverable as a matter of right; their imposition is discretionary with the jury, acting with regard to the enormity of the wrong and the necessity of preventing similar wrongs. Louisville, etc., R. Co. v. Bizzell, 131 Ala. 429, holding a charge faulty in asserting that the plaintiff would, under given circumstances, be entitled to recover punitive damages.

2. Intent or Wanton Indifference Must Be Shown. — St. Louis, etc., R. Co. v. Wilson, 70 Ark. 136, 91 Am. St. Rep. 74; Ristine v. Blocker, 15 Colo. App. 224; Central of Georgia R. Co. v. Wood, 118 Ga. 172; Kansas City, etc., R. Co. v. Little, 66 Kan. 378, 97 Am. St. Rep. 376; Louisville, etc., R. Co. v. Bell, 100 Ky. 203; Northern Cent. R. Co. v. Newman, 98 Md. 507; Barnett v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., 75 Mo. App. 446; Dorsey v. Atchison, etc., R. Co., 83 Mo. App. 528; Griffin v. Southern R. Co., 65 S. Car. 122; Aaron v. Southern R. Co., 68 S. Car. 98; Pickett v. Southern R. Co., 69 S. Car. 445; Fort v. Southern R. Co., 64 S. Car. 423.

Mere Negligent Omission of Duty on the part of a railway conductor does not call for punitive damages. Southern R. Co. v. Hobbs, 118 Ga. 232.

Actual Damage Is Not Essential. — Birmingham R., etc., Co. v. Nolan, 134 Ala. 329.

Intentional Character of the Act. — It has been held that it is error to charge a jury that "the intentional doing of an unlawful act would be construed malicious." Kibler v. Southern R. Co., 62 S. Car. 252.

Illustrations — Exemplary Damages Recoverable — Insult Accompanying Act. — Pittsburg, etc., R. Co. v. Ensign, 6 Ohio Cir. Dec. 616.

Wilful Refusal to Carry. — Exemplary damages may be given for a wilful refusal to carry. Story v. Norfolk, etc., R. Co., 133 N. Car. 59. Thus a wilful refusal to carry, as by refusing to stop a street car when duly signaled by an intending passenger, may be a ground for imposing exemplary damages. Jackson Electric R., etc., Co. v. Lowry, 79 Miss. 431. But in order to entitle a plaintiff to punitive damages for a failure to stop at a flag station to take him on it must appear that his signal was seen. Thomas v. Southern R. Co., 122 N. Car. 1005. But a bare refusal to carry, though wrongful, does not justify the imposition of punitive damages. Barnett v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., 75 Mo. App. 446.

Wilful Refusal to Stop Car for Passenger. — Northern Texas Traction Co. v. Peterman, (Tex. Civ. App. 1904) 80 S. W. Rep. 535.

Failure to Stop Train at Flag Station on Signal. — Yazoo, etc., R. Co. v. Faust, (Miss. 1902) 32 So. Rep. 9; Yazoo, etc., R. Co. v. White, 82 Miss. 120; Yazoo, etc., R. Co. v. Mitchell, 83 Miss. 179; Southern R. Co. v. Lanning, 83 Miss. 161.

Failure to Hold Train According to Agreement. — Southern R. Co. v. Marshall, 111 Ky. 560, holding a verdict for two hundred and fifty dollars to be excessive damages for a failure to hold a train for the plaintiff according to agreement; St. Louis Southwestern R. Co. v. Germany, (Tex. Civ. App. 1900) 56 S. W. Rep. 586, holding fifty dollars to be not excessive for starting a train notwithstanding a promise of the conductor to wait until the plaintiff could buy a ticket.

Failure to Stop for Passenger at Flag Station. — Yazoo, etc., R. Co. v. Faust, (Miss. 1903) 34 So. Rep. 356, wherein a verdict for three thousand three hundred and thirty-three dollars was held excessive for illness produced in consequence of having to walk as a result of a train's not stopping for the plaintiff at a flag station; Gulf, etc., R. Co. v. Gaedecke, (Tex. Civ. App. 1897) 39 S. W. Rep. 312, holding one hundred and fifty dollars to be excessive.

Delay in Carrying. — International, etc., R. Co. v. Harder, (Tex. Civ. App. 1904) 81 S. W. Rep. 356, holding a verdict for one hundred and fifty dollars to be excessive.

Failure to Carry to Destination. — Cleveland, etc., R. Co. v. Quillen, 22 Ind. App. 496, holding one hundred and fifty dollars to be excessive where the plaintiff, through a mistake of the conductor, was made to alight before reaching her destination.

Setting Down Passenger Short of Station. — Louisville, etc., R. Co. v. Covetts, (Ky. 1904) 82 S. W. Rep. 975, holding five hundred dollars not to be excessive; Gulf, etc., R. Co. v. Moore, (Tex. Civ. App. 1904) 80 S. W. Rep. 426, holding a verdict for one thousand dollars to be excessive; Sievers v. Dallas, etc., Nav. Co., 24 Wash. 302, holding six hundred dollars not to be excessive.

Carrying Beyond Station — Excessive. — Verdicts for carrying passengers beyond their stations have been held excessive as follows: Texarkana, etc., R. Co. v. Anderson, 67 Ark. 123 (five hundred dollars); Southern R. Co. v. Humphries, 108 Ga. 591 (five hundred dollars); Central of Georgia R. Co. v. Wood, 118

Ga. 172 (two hundred and forty-nine dollars and fifty cents).

Not Excessive. — Verdicts in such cases have been held not to be excessive as follows: Louisville, etc., R. Co. v. Renicker, 17 Ind. App. 619 (four hundred dollars); Louisville, etc., R. Co. v. Guy, (Ky. 1896) 37 S. W. Rep. 1043 (two hundred and eighteen dollars, where the plaintiff, who was in a delicate condition, had been compelled to walk four hundred yards, during a hot day, on a rough and rocky road); Rawlings v. Wabash R. Co., 97 Mo. App. 511 (one hundred and twenty-five dollars); Texas, etc., R. Co. v. Gott, 20 Tex. Civ. App. 335 (five hundred dollars).

Carrying Woman Passenger Beyond Destination and Insulting Her. — San Antonio Traction Co. v. Crawford, (Tex. Civ. App. 1902) 71 S. W. Rep. 306, holding one hundred dollars not to be excessive.

Unlawful Ejection of Passenger — Excessive. — Verdicts for unlawfully ejecting passengers have been held excessive as follows: Procter v. Southern California R. Co., 130 Cal. 20 (four hundred and sixty dollars and fifty cents); Georgia R. Co. v. Baldoni, 115 Ga. 1013 (one thousand two hundred and fifty dollars); Bader v. Southern Pac. R. Co., 52 La. Ann. 1060 (seven hundred and fifty dollars); Kleven v. Great Northern R. Co., 70 Minn. 79 (two hundred and twenty-five dollars); Louisville, etc., R. Co. v. Turner, 100 Tenn. 226 (three hundred dollars for the unlawful ejection of a passenger without rudeness or malice); Houston, etc., R. Co. v. Crone, (Tex. Civ. App. 1896) 37 S. W. Rep. 1074 (three thousand five hundred dollars); Masteron v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., 102 Wis. 571 (eight hundred and fifty dollars).

Not Excessive. — Verdicts for the unlawful ejection of passengers have been held not excessive as follows: Pennsylvania R. Co. v. Palmer, (C. C. A.) 127 Fed. Rep. 956 (one thousand dollars); Baltimore, etc., R. Co. v. Norris, 17 Ind. App. 189, 60 Am. St. Rep. 166 (one hundred and fifty dollars); Atchison, etc., R. Co. v. Lamoreux, 5 Kan. App. 813 (two hundred and twenty-five dollars); Louisville, etc., R. Co. v. Joplin, (Ky. 1900) 55 S. W. Rep. 206 (five hundred dollars); Illinois Cent. R. Co. v. Jackson, (Ky. 1904) 79 S. W. Rep. 1187 (three hundred and fifty dollars); Chamberlain v. Lake Shore, etc., R. Co., 122 Mich. 477 (six hundred and fifty dollars, where the passenger was compelled to walk five miles); Gisleson v. Minneapolis, etc., R. Co., 85 Minn. 329 (one hundred and fifty dollars); Choctaw, etc., R. Co. v. Hill, 110 Tenn. 396 (two hundred and fifty dollars); Sprenger v. Tacoma Traction Co., 15 Wash. 660 (one hundred dollars).

Unlawful Ejection in a Rough Manner. — Gulf, etc., R. Co. v. Moorman, (Tex. Civ. App. 1898) 46 S. W. Rep. 662, holding three hundred dollars not to be excessive.

Wrongful Ejection Accompanied by Violence, Insult, and Abuse. — Gorman v. Southern Pac.

722. (2) Exemplary. — See note 1.

723. CARRY. — See note 1.

R. Co., 97 Cal. 1, 33 Am. St. Rep. 157, holding five hundred dollars not to be excessive damages for a wrongful expulsion accompanied by undue violence, insult, and abuse.

Wrongful Expulsion Accompanied by Insulting Treatment. — Atchison, etc., R. Co. v. Cuniffe, (Tex. Civ. App. 1900) 57 S. W. Rep. 692, holding five hundred dollars not to be excessive; Houston, etc., R. Co. v. McNeel, (Tex. Civ. App. 1903) 76 S. W. Rep. 206, holding a verdict for two hundred and fifty dollars not to be excessive.

Assault by Servant. — Missouri, etc., R. Co. v. Gaines, (Tex. Civ. App. 1904) 79 S. W. Rep. 1104, holding that one thousand dollars was not excessive.

False Arrest of Passenger. — Grayson v. St. Louis Transit Co., 100 Mo. App. 60, holding a verdict for one thousand four hundred and fifty dollars for actual damages to be excessive.

Serious Personal Injury — Not Excessive. — Pence v. Wabash R. Co., 116 Iowa 279, holding one thousand seven hundred and fifty dollars not to be excessive; Louisville, etc., R. Co. v. Bowlds, 64 S. W. Rep. 957, 23 Ky. L. Rep. 1202, holding a verdict for two thousand five hundred dollars not to be excessive for an injury rendering the passenger a permanent cripple.

Compelling White Woman to Ride in Coach for Negroes. — Missouri, etc., R. Co. v. Ball, 25 Tex. Civ. App. 500, holding one thousand dollars to be excessive.

722. 1. Verdict Including Exemplary Damages. — Yazoo, etc., R. Co. v. Mitchell, 83 Miss. 179.

723. 1. Carrying Arms — Carrying Concealed Weapons. — See Culberson v. State, 119 Ga. 805.

Carrying Away — Larceny — Steal. — State v. Shutts, 69 N. J. L. 206.

Carrying on Business — Implies Series of Acts. — See State v. Shipley, 98 Md. 657.

Covenants. — The operation of a railroad is not carrying on a business within a restrictive covenant not to carry on any offensive trade or business. Bohnsack v. McDonald, (Supm. Ct. Spec. T.) 26 Misc. (N. Y.) 493.

Money Lender. — The constant daily repetition by a person of the same act, each act bringing with it a money return, is the carrying on by that person of a "business" in that particular line. A person who opens an office, advertises that he has money to lend on application and makes daily and hourly loans at interest, particularly for short periods, on so extensive a scale as to necessitate the employment of clerks, "carries on the business" of money lending, and is subject to a license, though the money loaned be his own. State v. Tolman, 106 La. 662.

Emigrant Agent. — In construing a statute providing that "no person shall carry on the business of an emigrant agent," etc., the court said: "The nature of the offense, it would seem, involves a succession or continuation of acts of hiring or soliciting sufficient to justify an inference that such acts were done in pursuit of the business or vocation of hiring or soliciting laborers, etc." State v. Napier, 63 S. Car. 65.

729. 1. No Offense at Common Law. — Walter v. State, 15 Ohio Dec. 466, quoting 5 AM. AND ENG. ENCYC. OF LAW (2d ed.) 729; Judy v. Lashley, 50 W. Va. 628, citing 5 AM. AND ENG. ENCYC. OF LAW (2d ed.) 729.

Going Armed with Unusual or Dangerous Weapons. — See State v. Hogan, 63 Ohio St. 202, 81 Am. St. Rep. 626.

2. When Conviction of Other Offense Not Bar to Prosecution. — A conviction for assault and battery with a weapon will not bar a prosecution for carrying concealed weapons. Brown v. State, (Ala. 1904) 37 So. Rep. 408.

Nor is a prosecution for carrying a weapon on and about the person barred by a previous conviction for going near the private residence of another and rudely displaying a pistol, under Pen. Code Tex., 1895, art. 334. Nichols v. State, 37 Tex. Crim. 616.

730. 1. Statutes Against Carrying Concealed Weapons Constitutional — Mississippi. — Wilson v. State, 81 Miss. 404.

North Carolina. — State v. Boone, 132 N. Car. 1107. See also State v. Reams, 121 N. Car. 556.

Ohio. — See State v. Hogan, 63 Ohio St. 202, 81 Am. St. Rep. 626.

Oklahoma. — Walburn v. Territory, 9 Okla. 23.

In Idaho it has been held that, while a statute prohibiting the carrying of concealed weapons is valid, a statute prohibiting the carrying of weapons in any manner in cities, towns, and villages, is void. In re Brickey, 8 Idaho 597.

Municipal Ordinances. — The legislature has power to authorize municipal corporations to pass ordinances prohibiting the carrying of concealed weapons, although the same offense is punishable under a state statute. Ocean Springs v. Green, 77 Miss. 472; Abbeville v. Leopard, 61 S. Car. 99.

But in West Virginia it has been held that, where the offense is fully covered by the state statutes, a municipality cannot pass such an ordinance unless expressly authorized by charter. Judy v. Lashley, 50 W. Va. 628.

An ordinance which prohibits the carrying of weapons under circumstances where it is authorized by the constitution and general laws of the state, is void. State v. Rosenthal, 75 Vt. 295.

731. 1. Statutes Are Police Regulations. — See Walburn v. Territory, 9 Okla. 23.

2. What Not a Carrying "to" a Place. — Under a statute prohibiting the carrying of a pistol "to" a public gathering, one who, after arriving at such gathering, comes into possession of a pistol, is not liable to prosecution. Modesette v. State, 115 Ga. 582; Culberson v. State, 119 Ga. 805, wherein the defendant came into possession of the pistol at a spring from which a church congregation was using water, and which was so near the church as to be, in legal contemplation, at the church.

Possession of Concealed Weapon — Presumption of Criminal Intent. — The possession of a concealed pistol raises the presumption of criminal intent; and where the defendant claimed that he was merely carrying the pistol home from the shop where he bought it, it was held that it rested on him to rebut the presumption to the satisfaction of the jury. State v. Hinnant, 120 N. Car. 572. See also State v. Reams, 121 N. Car. 556.

Finding a Weapon. — That the defendant claimed to have found the weapon a short time before boarding the car where he drew it upon the conductor was no defense to carrying it. See Bowen v. State, (Tex. Crim. 1897) 42 S. W. Rep. 994.

Act Continuous — Successive Manifestations. — Evidence that the defendant was seen with a concealed weapon at different places short distances apart on a railroad track by different persons shows but a single offense. State v. Boggan, 120 N. Car. 590. Compare Morgan v. State, 119 Ga. 964.

3. Carrying in Wagon. — A pistol in a box in a wagon in which the defendant and others are riding is not on and about his person. Hardy v. State, 37 Tex. Crim. 511.

732. 1. State v. Hale, 70 Mo. App. 143; State v. Reams, 121 N. Car. 556.

Where there was a conflict of evidence as to concealment, it was held to be error to instruct the jury to convict if they believed the evidence beyond a reasonable doubt. Hampton v. State, 133 Ala. 180.

Sufficiency of Proof — Illustrations. — See note 2.

734. See notes 1, 2, 3.

735. V. INTENT OF THE ACT. — See notes 1, 2, 3.

732. 2. It is for the Jury to say whether a weapon was concealed where the handle and two inches of the breech were visible. State v. Reams, 121 N. Car. 556.

3. Must Be Open to Ordinary Observation. — Driggers v. State, 123 Ala. 46. But see Stripling v. State, 114 Ga. 538, wherein an instruction that the weapon "must be carried in such an open manner, and so fully exposed to view, that a person meeting the one with the weapon would readily see and know that he had a pistol about his person," was held erroneous.

733. 1. Where the Weapon Is Not Concealed on the Person. — Willis v. State, 105 Ga. 633, citing 5 AM. AND ENG. ENCYC. OF LAW (2d ed.) 733.

2. Sufficiency of Evidence — Illustrations. — Where the sole witness for the state testified that he talked with the defendant and another person, and that after leaving them he saw the defendant pointing a pistol; that he had no doubt it was a pistol, though it could have been an imitation pistol; and where the evidence of the defendant's companion showed that if the defendant had a pistol he must have had it concealed immediately before and after it was seen by the state's witness, a conviction was sustained. Smith v. State, (Miss. 1898) 24 So. Rep. 316.

Where all the evidence "tended" to show that the defendant carried a concealed weapon, it was held, nevertheless, to be error to charge that the jury must convict if they believed all the evidence. Brewer v. State, 113 Ala. 106.

Where the state's evidence showed that defendant fired two shots and that he had no gun with him at the time, and defendant's witnesses testified that he had a rifle but no pistol, and fired one shot, a conviction for carrying a pistol was affirmed. Sexton v. State, (Tex. Crim. 1898) 45 S. W. Rep. 920.

In Smith v. State, 113 Ga. 645, the evidence was held insufficient to justify a conviction.

Evidence of Contemporaneous Acts. — Walburn v. Territory, 9 Okla. 23; Gainey v. State, (Ala. 1904) 37 So. Rep. 355; State v. Pigg, 85 Mo. App. 399; Little v. State, (Tex. Crim. 1901) 61 S. W. Rep. 310; Gay v. State, (Tex. Crim. 1898) 45 S. W. Rep. 573. See also Elliott v. State, 39 Tex. Crim. 242; Mumford v. State, (Tex. Crim. 1904) 78 S. W. Rep. 1063.

734. 1. Pistol Found upon Search After Arrest. — That the arrest and search may have been unlawful is no objection to evidence that weapons have been found concealed upon the prisoner. Scott v. State, 113 Ala. 64.

Pistol Found upon Search After Arrest for Another Offense — The Officer May so Testify. — Dozier v. State, 107 Ga. 708.

Arrest Without Warrant. — Under the Florida statute a person conducting himself in an orderly manner may not be arrested without a warrant on a charge of carrying a concealed weapon. Roberson v. State, 43 Fla. 156.

But under the Colorado statute (3 Mills's Annot. Stat. Colo., § 1364) it is the officer's duty to arrest without a warrant. Keady v. People, 32 Colo. 57.

Under the Texas statute arrest without warrant may be made only when the officer knows of his own knowledge or is informed by some credible person. See Morawietz v. State, (Tex. Crim. 1904) 80 S. W. Rep. 997.

Tramps may be arrested without warrant for carrying weapons. Rev. Stat. Ohio, § 6995. State v. Pate, 5 Ohio Dec. 732, 7 Ohio N. P. 543.

2. Seeing Impression of Pistol under Coat — Not Sufficient Without Other Evidence. — Stripling v. State, 114 Ga. 538.

Feeling a Pistol. — Where a witness testified that in a scuffle he had his hand on what he believed to be a pistol, it was held that the testimony was admissible. Harper v. State, (Tex. Crim. 1901) 65 S. W. Rep. 182.

3. Proof of a Previous Habit of Carrying a Concealed Pistol is not admissible under a charge of carrying a concealed weapon at a certain time and place. Oliver v. State, 106 Ga. 142.

Proof of Defendant's Carrying Pistol at Another Time. — In Alabama, on the trial of one indicted for carrying concealed weapons, the state may show that he had been seen with a pistol within twelve months prior to the finding of the indictment. Brown v. State, (Ala. 1904) 37 So. Rep. 408.

But where the state's evidence tends to show that the defendant carried a concealed pistol about twelve or one o'clock in the day, he may not show that he did not own a pistol nor that he had not one about his clothing at his home in the morning. Norris v. State, 132 Ala. 12.

Manslaughter — Evidence. — On a trial for manslaughter in Alabama it is error to permit evidence that the weapon was concealed to go to the jury against the defendant's objection. Henson v. State, 114 Ala. 25.

735. 1. State v. Brown, 125 N. Car. 704, citing 5 AM. AND ENG. ENCYC. OF LAW (2d ed.) 734.

If the weapon is carried concealed carelessly or indifferently, it is a violation of the Crim. Code Ala., § 4420; a particular intent of concealment is not necessary. Fielding v. State, 135 Ala. 56.

Intent — Defendant's Evidence. — A defendant may not testify that he did not intend to conceal the weapon. Barker v. State, 126 Ala. 83.

2. Innocent Motive No Defense. — Barker v. State, 126 Ala. 83; State v. Hamby, 126 N. Car. 1066; Clopton v. State, (Tex. Crim. 1898) 44 S. W. Rep. 173.

3. No Intent of Violating Law — Illustrations — Carrying as Merchandise. — See State v. Costen, 1 Penn. (Del.) 19.

Under the statute of Delaware it was held that the defendant may show that he carried a concealed weapon for a lawful purpose, but that such purpose must be temporary and specific. State v. Iannucci, 4 Penn. (Del.) 193.

Carrying the pistol of another, concealed, from a repair shop to the owner will not exonerate the carrier. Goldsmith v. State, 99 Ga. 253. To like effect, see State v. Tapit, 52 W. Va. 473.

But in Texas it is not an offense to carry brass knuckles to the owner to return them to him: the jury are to decide whether the time taken and the direction pursued by the carrier were ordinary. Craine v. State, (Tex. Crim. 1897) 42 S. W. Rep. 302.

Carrying a pistol to one's place of employment from the place of business of one who refuses to buy it is not a violation of the Texas law. Fields v. State, (Tex. Crim. 1904) 78 S. W. Rep. 932.

If one finds that a purchaser to whom he has agreed to sell a pistol is away from home, and he goes about other business carrying it, this is a violation of the Texas law. Snider v. State, (Tex. Crim. 1897) 43 S. W. Rep. 84. See also Zollicoffer v. State, (Tex. Crim. 1898) 43 S. W. Rep. 992.

Where one had left the cylinder rod of a pistol at home and carried the arm to various persons to induce them to take chances in a raffle for it, believing it could not be discharged without the rod, he was not guilty of unlawfully carrying a pistol even though it could be discharged without the rod. White v. State, (Tex. Crim. 1902) 66 S. W. Rep. 773.

The defendant was sixty years old, a man of high character, who never had carried a pistol before; he took an old-fashioned pistol from his trunk for the purpose of procuring cartridges for it in order to place it in the bank of which he was cashier; finding the store closed he stopped at another place on his way home and showed the pistol to some persons as a curiosity; he then proceeded home and put the pistol back in the trunk; it was held that he should have been acquitted. Rines v. State, (Tex. Crim. 1897) 38 S. W. Rep. 1016.

Carrying to Kill Domestic Animal. — Where the defendant, who was working in the neighborhood, was asked by the owner of a hog to come and assist in its killing, and carried a pistol both going and returning, and killed the hog with it after the owner had first failed to kill the hog with his own pistol, it was held that there was no exception in the Texas statute authorizing the defendant to carry the pistol. McCauley v. State, (Tex. Crim. 1898) 45 S. W. Rep. 576. See also Raifsnider v. State, (Tex. Crim. 1902) 67 S. W. Rep. 108.

But under the Arkansas statute prohibiting the carrying of a pistol as a weapon, one going a distance to the premises of another by by-roads, etc., for the sole purpose of killing hogs does not transgress the law. Cornwell v. State, 68 Ark. 447.

736. 2. Deadly Weapons — Razor. — State v. Iannucci, 4 Penn. (Del.) 193.

A "deadly or dangerous" weapon, under the South Dakota riot statute, does not include a driving whip. State v. Page, 15 S. Dak. 613.

737. 1. Statutes Enumerating Dangerous or Deadly Weapons. — A knife having the shape of what is commonly known as a "butcher's knife," eleven inches in length including the blade and handle, old and worn down somewhat in the middle of the blade on the sharp side, and coming to a sharp point, is a knife "of like kind or description" as a bowie knife, within Crim. Code Ala., § 3775, prohibiting the carrying of concealed weapons. Brewer v. State, 113 Ala. 106.

A Razor is one of the weapons specified in Crim. Code W. Va., c. 148, § 7. See Claiborne v. Chesapeake, etc., R. Co., 46 W. Va. 363.

2. Condition of Weapon. — Fielding v. State, 135 Ala. 56; State v. Tapit, 52 W. Va. 473; Lamb v. State, 8 Ohio Dec. 282.

738. 2. Officers of the Law. — Shannon v. State, (Tex. Crim. 1901) 65 S. W. Rep. 1065.

Peace Officers. — A county judge is a peace officer within the exception of the Texas statute. Johnson v. State, 43 Tex. Crim. 283.

The South Carolina statute (22 Stat. at L., p. 423) does not permit peace officers to carry concealed weapons. Laurens v. Crawford, 55 S. Car. 594.

A local policeman outside of his bailiwick, and not in the performance of some authorized duty, is not a peace officer within the exception of the Texas statute. Ray v. State, 44 Tex. Crim. 158.

3. Officers Must Be Properly Appointed. — Swincher v. Com., 72 S. W. Rep. 306, 24 Ky. L. Rep. 1897.

Person Assisting Officer Is Within Exemption. — See State v. Robinson, 106 Tenn. 204.

Persons Appointed Without Authority. — In Texas the sheriff may not authorize citizens to carry pistols in making an arrest. See Strey v. State, (Tex. Crim. 1897) 40 S. W. Rep. 997. But if the defendant carried a pistol in the belief that the sheriff could legally authorize him to do so, he should be acquitted. Carroll v. State, (Tex. Crim. 1900) 57 S. W. Rep. 94. And it has been held that a person summoned to the aid of a peace officer may carry a pistol while about the business. King v. State, (Tex. Crim. 1898) 44 S. W. Rep. 511.

In Kentucky, however, the intent or belief of right to carry the weapon is immaterial except to be presented to the jury or the court to mitigate the punishment or, in the case of bad intent, to increase it. Swincher v. Com., 72 S. W. Rep. 306, 24 Ky. L. Rep. 1897.

739. 1. A United States Mail Carrier is not a "civil officer of the United States" within the North Carolina statute. See State v. Boone, 132 N. Car. 1107.

740. 2. Persons Threatened with Bodily Harm. — See note 1.

741. See note 1.

742. 3. Persons on Their Own Premises. — See note 1.

743. See note 1.

4. Travelers and Persons on Journey. — See note 2.

740. 1. Exception in Favor of One Who Is Threatened with or Who Apprehends Attack — Alabama. — Barker v. State, 126 Ala. 83; House v. State, 139 Ala. 132; Scott v. State, 113 Ala. 64.

Mississippi. — Murdin v. State, 82 Miss. 507.

Texas. — Williams v. State, 44 Tex. Crim. 494.

In Texas the statute requires that the danger must be so imminent that there is no time or opportunity afforded to notify the officers of the law, in order to justify one in going armed with a pistol. Hood v. State, (Tex. Crim. 1903) 72 S. W. Rep. 592.

A barber on his way home from his shop Saturday night with money in his pocket is not within the exception of the Texas statute. Culp v. State, (Tex. Crim. 1897) 40 S. W. Rep. 969.

Where one had an opportunity to make an affidavit against any known persons from whom he might apprehend an attack, but had omitted to do so, he is not authorized to carry a pistol into the grand jury room; if he apprehended an attack from unknown persons he should have reported the matter to the sheriff. Lovelace v. State, (Tex. Crim. 1902) 68 S. W. Rep. 274.

Danger of Bodily Harm. — Where the danger is imminent and threatening, one is not required to withdraw; he has a right to arm himself and remain. Cunningham v. State, (Tex. Crim. 1904) 78 S. W. Rep. 930.

741. 1. Time of Threat. — Questions designed to show that threats were made against the defendant at the time the concealed weapon was discovered upon him are improper. Ross v. State, 139 Ala. 144.

742. 1. Carrying Weapons on One's Own Premises. — Walter v. State, 15 Ohio Dec. 464, citing 6 AM. AND ENG. ENCYC. OF LAW (2d ed.) 742.

The Texas statute does not authorize one to carry a pistol into a room where there is a social gathering or a party, notwithstanding the place is his own home, unless it is done for the protection of himself or his home or his family, or to preserve the peace and good order of the gathering. Nichols v. State, (Tex. Crim. 1898) 45 S. W. Rep. 494. See also Monson v. State, (Tex. Crim. 1903) 76 S. W. Rep. 570.

Where the defendant was seen with a pistol at a house which he had previously rented, but had abandoned, and which had been re-rented by the owner, and it was shown that defendant was living elsewhere and that he brought the pistol with him on his person, a conviction was affirmed. It was not necessary to consider whether the old lease was legally in existence. Ross v. State, (Tex. Crim. 1898) 45 S. W. Rep. 489.

A pasture, into which the defendant's father had been given leave to turn his horses, was held not to be the premises of the defendant under the Texas statute. Whitesides v. State, 42 Tex. Crim. 151.

Public Road Running Through Premises. — The exception in the Arkansas statute as to persons on their own premises, does not apply in the case of one charged with carrying a pistol as a weapon upon a public highway, although the defendant is the owner of the freehold over which the highway runs. Moss v. State, 65 Ark. 368.

Leased Premises. — Premises rented to another are not one's "own premises" within the exception of the Texas statute. Elliott v. State, 39 Tex. Crim. 242.

Place of Business. — The porter of a passenger train assisting in putting baggage on board is at his place of business. Williams v. State, 44 Tex. Crim. 494.

The foreman of a section gang that extended seven or eight miles along the railroad claimed that he had a right to carry a pistol at a certain store as it was on his way to inform his section hands to go to work. It was held that a conviction of unlawfully carrying a weapon was proper. Clopton v. State, (Tex. Crim. 1898) 44 S. W. Rep. 173.

Servants and Employees. — A servant on the premises of his employer is not on his own premises under the North Carolina statute. State v. Deyton, 119 N. Car. 880. But the contrary is true of a night watchman. State v. Anderson, 129 N. Car. 521.

One in full control of the cattle and pasture of another was convicted of carrying a pistol in the pasture, and it was held on appeal that the evidence did not support the conviction. Sanderson v. State, (Tex. Crim. 1899) 50 S. W. Rep. 348.

The Superintendent of a Public Turnpike may not carry a concealed weapon thereon; it is not his own premises within the exception of the North Carolina statute. State v. Perry, 120 N. Car. 580.

2. What Is Traveling or Going on a Journey Within the Statute. — See Cruz v. State, (Tex. Crim. 1903) 76 S. W. Rep. 435.

One going by rail fifteen miles to attend a political meeting in an adjoining county is not a traveler within the meaning of the exception in the Indiana statute. State v. Smith, 157 Ind. 241, 87 Am. St. Rep. 205, citing 5 AM. AND ENG. ENCYC. OF LAW (2d ed.) 743.

One going on a three days' trip of twenty-five or thirty miles to an adjoining county in a wagon is a traveler within the Texas statute. Eubanks v. State, (Tex. Crim. 1897) 40 S. W. Rep. 973.

One going from his home 150 miles by rail, returning the same day, is a traveler within the Texas statute. Thomas v. State, 37 Tex. Crim. 142. But not one on a trading expedition of seventeen miles from which he returns the same day. Goss v. State, (Tex. Crim. 1897) 40 S. W. Rep. 725.

745. 5. Burden of Proving Exemption. — See note 3.

746. CART. — See note 1.

The porter of a passenger train going every day some 150 miles is a traveler. Williams v. State, 44 Tex. Crim. 494.

One engaged in other business not immediately connected with his traveling ceases to be a traveler. See Ball v. State, (Tex. Crim. 1897) 38 S. W. Rep. 772.

Question for Jury. — Where the jury have found a verdict against the defendant evidently upon the theory that he did not start upon his journey as a traveler, the conviction will be sustained. Jones v. State, (Tex. Crim. 1898) 45 S. W. Rep. 596. Reversed, and prosecution dismissed on a rehearing on the ground that there was no complaint filed as a predicate for the information, (Tex. Crim. 1898) 45 S. W. Rep. 907.

CAR-TRUST ASSOCIATIONS.

747. II. CAR-TRUST LEASES — Term Defined. — See note 3.

748. The Lien of a Prior Mortgage. — See note 1.

If the Cars Are Sold under Foreclosure. — See note 4.

III. RECEIVERS — Rental. — See note 5.

747. 3. Car-trust Leases. — Contracting, etc., Co. v. Continental Trust Co., (C. C. A.) 108 Fed. Rep. 1; Metropolitan Trust Co. v. Railroad Equipment Co., (C. C. A.) 108 Fed. Rep. 913. In the case last cited the court said: "The transactions evidenced by the several equipment contracts are nothing more than contracts for the sale of the equipment, the title being retained as security for the purchase money. The immense verbiage employed to give these schemes the semblance of a leasing and rental is in vain. Their true character cannot be disguised."

Usury. — Notes called lease warrants, issued by a railroad company for deferred payments on equipment, are not within the usury laws of Ohio. Metropolitan Trust Co. v. Railroad Equipment Co., (C. C. A.) 108 Fed. Rep. 913.

748. 1. Contracting, etc., Co. v. Continental Trust Co., (C. C. A.) 108 Fed. Rep. 1, wherein it is said: "The real transaction was a bargain and sale, the title being retained as security for the purchase money. Being property susceptible of separate ownership and separate liens, it passed under the after-acquired property clause of the existing mortgage, subject to the lien of the vendor; the existing mortgagees not being purchasers for value in respect of such after-acquired property. * * * The lien thus acquired by the mortgagees could not be displaced by any subsequent agreement to which they were not parties. * * * It follows that the assignment of the so-called 'lease contract' was unavailing, as against the antecedent mortgage lien."

Title to Equipment. — "The next objection is that the equipment company cannot maintain a suit to recover the equipment conditionally sold without complying with the Ohio Conditional Sales Act of 1885. Rev. Stat. Ohio, § 4155. That Act requires such a vendor to tender back to the purchaser or lessee not less than fifty per cent. of the price received. We quite agree with the Circuit Court, and for the reasons stated in the opinion of Judge Taft, that the Act of 1885 does not apply to sales of railroad equipment. The purchase and sale of railroad equipment by conditional contracts is regulated by the Acts of March 16, 1882, and of April 12, 1889, being §§ 3378b-3378d, Rev. Stat. Ohio, inclusive. Metropolitan Trust Co. v. Columbus, etc., R. Co., 93 Fed. Rep. 705. The title to the equipment sold under the contracts here involved remained in the vendors until fully paid for. The interest of the railroad companies and their mortgagees was but an equitable interest and subject to the terms of the conditional sale." Metropolitan Trust Co. v. Railroad Equipment Co., (C. C. A.) 108 Fed. Rep. 913.

5. Platt v. Philadelphia, etc., R. Co., (C. C. A.) 84 Fed. Rep. 536. In this case the court said: "Certainly the receiver was not bound to adopt these car-trust contracts; and it is quite clear that he did not assume the liabilities of the railroad company thereunder simply by taking possession of the cars, and using them temporarily, under his order of appointment. Sunflower Oil Co. v. Wilson, 142 U. S. 322; U. S. Trust Co. v. Wabash Western R. Co., 150 U. S. 299. The receiver undoubtedly was entitled to a reasonable time to ascertain whether or

756. 3. Receiving Stolen Goods — Cases of Cigars. — The word cases, as used here, is not shown to have a recognized meaning as denoting packages containing a certain number or quantity of cigars; and, even if it had such meaning, it should still be construed as descriptive of a case containing cigars, and not of a certain number of cigars, without reference to their packing. The charge in the indictment would not be sustained, therefore, by proof of the receipt by defendant of a lot of loose cigars not in cases, or not received directly from cases known to be stolen. Gabriel v. State, 44 Fla. 57.

757. 1. Checks — Payment. — Glines v. State Sav. Bank, 132 Mich. 638.

Special Partnership — Promissory Notes. — See Moorhead v. Seymour, (N. Y. City Ct. Tr. T.) 77 N. Y. Supp. 1050.

Insurance Policy. — The Term "Cash Surrender Value" has a defined and legal meaning, namely, the cash value — ascertainable by known rules — of a contract of insurance abandoned and given up for cancellation to the insurer by the owner, having contract right to do so. In re Welling, (C. C. A.) 113 Fed. Rep. 192.

Current Funds. — A contract of sale of corn stated the price, and also the time and place of delivery, but did not provide specifically time, place, or manner of payment. It was held that delivery and payment were to be concurrent acts, and the vendor could insist on payment in cash or money, in the strict sense of the term "current funds." Behrends v. Bey-schlag, 50 Neb. 304.

The Expressions "Cash," "Cash Down," or "Cash on Delivery," as used in sales, may be used in two different senses — one where the words indicate simply that the goods must be paid for before the buyer is entitled to possession; and the other, where they indicate an intention not to part with the title until the price is paid. Austin v. Welch, 31 Tex. Civ. App. 528.

"Fair Cash Value" and "Actual Cash Value" — Connes v. Indiana, etc., R. Co., 193 Ill. 464.

The authority of the cashier of a bank to receive money, and to issue receipts or certificates of deposit therefor, seems to be implied by the very name of his office. Abbott v. Jack, 136 Cal. 510.

762. 1a. In the technical or professional sense, a cast of sculpture is one taken from an original creation in clay as part of the process of making the completed statue in bronze or marble. In a broader sense, the term embraces casts from sculptured objects in marble or bronze, which reproduce the original objects. Benziger v. U. S., 107 Fed. Rep. 257.

3. Ennis v. Fourth St. Bldg. Assoc., 102 Iowa 520; Gill v. Fugate, (Ky. 1904) 78 S. W. Rep. 188; Anthony v. Karbach, 64 Neb. 509.

Improvements — Municipal Corporations. — The necessity for additional light, growing out of the construction of elevated railways and depots, and the additional expense of gas and electric lights, caused by the alleged combination of said gas and electric light companies, do not constitute "accidents" or casualties within the meaning of a proviso to chapter 24 of the Revised Statutes, entitled "Cities," etc., which proviso declares "that nothing herein contained shall prevent the city council or board of trustees from ordering, by a two-thirds vote, any improvement the necessity of which is caused by any casualty or accident happening after such annual appropriation is made." Chicago v. Nichols, 177 Ill. 97.

Casualty Insurance. — "Stat. 1890, c. 421, § 1, which takes the place of section 1 of the statute last considered, changes the definition of casualty insurance by including in it only cases where the benefit is to accrue through the accidental death of the insured, or his physical disability arising from accident; and it makes no provision for insurance by such company against disability arising from sickness. It also contains a provision, in regard to insurance on the assessment plan, that 'such business shall be lawful only as defined and permitted by this act.' It follows that the previously-existing authority to corporations to insure against disability arising from sickness was taken away by Stat. 1890, c. 421, which repealed and superseded the provisions of Stat. 1885, c. 183, on this subject." Release Must Be in Writing. — In Gary v. Newton, 201 Ill. 180, the court said: "Upon a careful examination, however, of all these cases, it will be observed that, where releases of an heir's expectancy have been upheld, such releases, so far as they apply to real estate, were in writing."

5. Illustrations of Inadequacy of Consideration. — See Brenchley v. Higgins, 83 L. T. N. S. 751, 70 L. J. Ch. 788.

Where an owner of a vested interest in remainder, being in financial distress, sells and assigns absolutely the interest worth thirty-two thousand five hundred dollars for the sum of eight thousand seven hundred and fifty dollars actual cash paid to him, and the life tenant dies ten years thereafter, the purchaser is entitled to the full amount of the interest, in the absence of any fraud or concealment, or any relation of trust or confidence between the legatee and the purchaser. Phillips's Estate, 205 Pa. St. 511.

767. 5. Indiana. — Eissler v. Hoppel, 158 Ind. 85, distinguishing McClure v. Raben, 125 Ind. 139.

Kentucky. — But see McCall v. Hampton, 98 Ky. 166, 56 Am. St. Rep. 335, holding that a naked possibility or contingency not founded upon a right or coupled with an interest cannot be assigned or sold. Therefore the expectancy of a son to inherit his father's estate is not the subject of assignment or sale, and the contract therefor is not enforceable either at law or in equity upon the father's death.

Texas. — In Hale v. Hollon, 90 Tex. 427, 59 Am. St. Rep. 819, it was held that the fact that the sale of the expectancy was made without the knowledge of the ancestor or owner, who was non compos mentis and unable to consent thereto, will not avoid such conveyance by the heir.

Vermont. — In Fuller v. Parmenter, 72 Vt. 362, the court, after reviewing the authorities, said: "It would seem, therefore, that assent is not necessary, but that notice, and not objecting, is enough, if even that is required; and this is the reason of the thing, for with notice the ancestor can defeat the assignment if he will, and thus prevent the fraud upon him that the books talk about."

Disqualification of Judges. — The phrase "cause or matter," as used in section 46 of the New York Code of Civil Procedure, which forbids a judge to sit or take part in the decision of a case if he has acted as attorney or counsel therein, refers only to actions or special proceedings in which a judge might sit or take part; the word cause meaning a cause of action, and the word "matter" referring only to some judicial matter or proceeding, and, under the Code, included in special proceedings for the enforcement of civil rights. Keeffe v. Syracuse Third Nat. Bank, 177 N. Y. 305.

Disqualification of Judge — Federal Courts. — In Moran v. Dillingham, 174 U. S. 157, the court said: "And, as a cause, in its usual and natural meaning, includes all questions that have arisen or may arise in it, there is strong reason for holding that a judge who has once heard the cause, either upon the law or upon the facts, is the court of first instance, is thenceforth disqualified to take part, in the Circuit Court of Appeals, at the hearing and decision of the cause or of any question arising therein. But, however that may be, a judge who has once heard the cause upon its merits in the court of first instance is certainly disqualified from sitting in the Circuit Court of Appeals on the hearing and decision of any question, in the same cause, which involves in any degree matter upon which he had occasion to pass in the lower court."

Rights as Between Tenants in Common. — Where one of four tenants in common of a burial lot erected a monument in a corner of the lot which she selected for the purpose of her burial, and two of her cotenants removed the monument, it was held that she had no cause of action, because the control of the lot was not in her alone, and also because her act was an exclusive appropriation of a part of the land to her own use which the other tenants in common could treat as an ouster. *Capen v. tionary definitions, said: "The census to be taken by the mayor, in contemplation of the statute before us, was therefore, in the first place, to be an official enrolment of the people of the city of Huntington. Such an enrolment or registration of the people was also to be a public document to be preserved in the archives of the city, where it might be subject to the inspection of all those interested. A census is not merely a sum total, but an official list, containing the names of all the inhabitants."

Census Children.—In State v. Sweeney, 24 Nev. 350, the court said: "We are of opinion that the term 'census children,' found in said Act of 1879, means the number of children officially registered. One of the definitions given by Webster of census is: 'An official registration of the number of the people.'"

798. 3*a*. The word centrally, as used in a specification for a patent, does not necessarily mean in the exact centre. Bredin v. Solmsion, 132 Fed. Rep. 161.

3*b*. Centre Line of a Railroad.—Under a grant by a railway corporation, describing the southerly line of the premises granted as parallel to and twenty-five feet northerly from the centre line of the railway, "as said railway is now constructed," the measurement should be made from a line midway between the two through tracks, and not from the centre line of the entire railway property, embracing several adjoining switch tracks, liable to be shifted and covering quite a large area. New York Cent., etc., R. Co. v. Needham, (Supm. Ct. Spec. T.) 29 Misc. (N. Y.) 435.

4. The Term Certain Demand has been held to have the same meaning as the word "debt." Worley v. Smith, 26 Tex. Civ. App. 270.

Certificate of Purchase.—Lightcap v. Bradley, 186 Ill. 510.

The Certificate of Acknowledgment by a Notary Public, or other authorized officer, is simply an additional solemnity in the execution of a deed or mortgage, and is required by statute chiefly for the purpose of affording proof of the due execution of the instrument by the grantor, sufficient to authorize the recorder to make the same matter of public record. Read v. Toledo Loan Co., 68 Ohio St. 297. And see the title NOTARY PUBLIC.

802. 3. Form of Certificate of Deposit.—An instrument acknowledging the receipt of a deposit, providing for payment either to the original holders or to their order, and requiring the certificate to be returned before payment will be made, is a negotiable certificate of deposit although it contains no direct promise to pay. Young v. American Bank, (Supm. Ct. Spec. T.) 44 Misc. (N. Y.) 308.

An instrument merely certifying that a person had on deposit a specified sum of money on a day certain is not a certificate of deposit.

OF LAW (2d ed.) 805, and holding that the federal court was not bound by the Pennsylvania doctrine in a case where a certificate of deposit issued in Pennsylvania had been negotiated in another state; Auten v. Crahan, 81 Ill. App. 502; Mereness v. Charles City First Nat. Bank, 112 Iowa 11, 84 Am. St. Rep. 318. See also Grobe v. Roup, 46 W. Va. 488, citing 5 AM. AND ENG. ENCYC. OF LAW (2d ed.) 805, but making no decision on the question of negotiability.

A Certificate Payable to the Depositor "or His Assigns" is not negotiable. Zander v. New York Security, etc., Co., (Supm. Ct. Spec. T.) 39 Misc. (N. Y.) 98, affirmed 81 N. Y. App. Div. 635, 178 N. Y. 208.

Equitable Assignment. — The indorsement and delivery of a banker's deposit receipt, with intention to make a gift, constitute a good equitable assignment, though the receipt itself is on its face declared to be not transferable, and no notice is given to the bank. Such an assignment, even if incomplete, is perfected after the death of the assignor by the appointment of the assignee as his executor. In re Griffin, (1899) 1 Ch. 408, 79 L. T. N. S. 442. See also In re Commercial Bank, 11 Manitoba 494, holding that though the words "not transferable," printed across the face of the receipt, prevent the instrument from being considered negotiable, they do not prevent the depositor from assigning the claim against the bank for the money deposited.

809. 1. Lost Certificates — Right to Require Indemnity. — Where the bank can incur no liability from failure to produce and surrender the certificate, as where the certificate is not negotiable and is by its terms assignable only on the books of the bank, it cannot require indemnity as a condition to making payment after the certificate has been lost. Zander v. New York Security, etc., Co., 178 N. Y. 208, affirming 81 N. Y. App. Div. 635, (Supm. Ct. Spec. T.) 39 Misc. (N. Y.) 98.

815. I. DEFINITIONS AND ORIGIN — 1. Maintenance. — See note 1.

816. 2. Champerty. — See notes 1, 2.

817. Action Pending Not Necessary. — See notes 4, 6.

818. 3. The Terms Distinguished. — See note 1.

4. Origin. — See note 3.

II. As A CRIME — 1. In General. — See note 6.

819. See note 1.

Generally Discarded. — See note 3.

A Crime in Some Jurisdictions. — See note 5.

2. Gist of the Offense. — See note 7.

815. 1. Maintenance Defined. — Casserleigh v. Wood, (C. C. A.) 119 Fed. Rep. 308; Casserleigh v. Wood, 14 Colo. App. 265, affirmed 30 Colo. 287; Lacey v. Davis, (Iowa 1904) 98 N. W. Rep. 366; Wheeler v. Harrison, 94 Md. 147; Breeden v. Frankford, etc., Ins. Co., 110 Mo. App. 314, quoting 5 AM. AND ENG. ENCYC. OF LAW (2d ed.) 815; Finlen v. Heinze, 28 Mont. 548; Meloche v. Déguire, 34 Can. Sup. Ct. 24, 8 Can. Crim. Cas. (Can.) 89. See also Savill v. Langman, 79 L. T. N. S. 44.

The "Maintaining" of a Criminal Proceeding is not maintenance. Grant v. Thompson, 72 L. T. N. S. 264, 18 Cox C. C. 100.

816. 1. Champerty Defined. — Champerty is simply the most odious species of maintenance. Savill v. Langman, 79 L. T. N. S. 44, per Collins, L. J.

2. United States. — Casserleigh v. Wood, (C. C. A.) 119 Fed. Rep. 308; The Clara A. McIntyre, 94 Fed. Rep. 552.

District of Columbia. — Johnson v. Van Wyck, 4 App. Cas. (D. C.) 294.

Iowa. — Lacey v. Davis, (Iowa 1904) 98 N. W. Rep. 366.

Montana. — Finlen v. Heinze, 28 Mont. 548.

Ohio. — Pittsburg, etc., R. Co. v. Volkert, 58 Ohio St. 362.

Pennsylvania. — Harris v. Brown, 9 Pa. Dist. 521, affirmed 202 Pa. St. 16, 90 Am. St. Rep. 610; Maires's Case, 7 Pa. Dist. 297, affirmed 189 Pa. St. 99; Gubbel v. Brown, 9 Pa. Dist. 524.

Tennessee. — Robertson v. Cayard, 111 Tenn. 356.

Canada. — Meloche v. Déguire, 34 Can. Sup. Ct. 24.

817. 4. Must Be Agreement to Prosecute or Defend. — See Waller v. Marks, 100 Ky. 541. See also Savill v. Langman, 79 L. T. N. S. 44.

An agreement under which A conveyed to B in trust a piece of land to pay off any recovery which might be obtained in a suit then pending against A, and to divide the balance of the proceeds of the land between A's wife and B, is not a contract of maintenance. Renshaw v. Tullahoma First Nat. Bank, (Tenn. Ch. 1900) 63 S. W. Rep. 194.

Maintenance Is Confined to Civil Actions, and does not apply to criminal proceedings the maintaining of which is not illegal. Grant v. Thompson, 72 L. T. N. S. 264, 18 Cox C. C. 100.

6. Agreement to Produce Evidence. — Rees v. De Bernardy, (1896) 2 Ch. 437.

A contract which provides that a stranger to a claim shall receive a portion of the proceeds therefrom, in consideration of his producing evidence supposed to be material, and his paying the expenses of the litigation, is champertous. Casserleigh v. Wood, (C. C. A.) 119 Fed. Rep. 308. Contra, Casserleigh v. Wood, 14 Colo. App. 265, affirmed 30 Colo. 287.

818. 1. The Terms Distinguished. — See Wheeler v. Harrison, 94 Md. 147; Meloche v. Déguire, 34 Can. Sup. Ct. 24, 8 Can. Crim. Cas. (Can.) 89.

3. The Object of the law is to hinder the perverting of the remedial process of the law into an engine of oppression. Meloche v. Déguire, 34 Can. Sup. Ct. 24.

"The chief object of the old law of maintenance was to prevent harassment of individuals by the institution against them of suits without merit, the prosecution of them by illegitimate means, and the tendency to corrupt the fountains of justice by perjury and other disreputable methods to which parties would resort in order to secure success in the litigation." Casserleigh v. Wood, 14 Colo. App. 265.

6. As a Crime — English Statute. — See Meloche v. Déguire, 34 Can. Sup. Ct. 24, 8 Can. Crim. Cas. (Can.) 89; Briggs v. Fleutot, 10 British Columbia 309; Hopkins v. Smith, 1 Ont. L. Rep. 659. See also Robertson v. Cayard, 111 Tenn. 356.

819. 1. Inherent Character of Offense. — See Johnson v. Van Wyck, 4 App. Cas. (D. C.) 294; Briggs v. Fleutot, 10 British Columbia 309.

"The purchase of a litigious right is, at worst, malum prohibitum rather than malum in se." Sanders v. Ditch, 110 La. 884.

3. Browne v. West, 9 N. Y. App. Div. 135.

5. A Crime in Some States. — See Woods v. Walsh, 7 N. Dak. 376; Casserleigh v. Wood, (C. C. A.) 119 Fed. Rep. 308 (construing the Colorado statute); Cox v. Watelsky, 27 Tex. Civ. App. 478; Meloche v. Déguire, 34 Can. Sup. Ct. 24, 8 Can. Crim. Cas. (Can.) 89; Briggs v. Fleutot, 10 British Columbia 309; Hopkins v. Smith, 1 Ont. L. Rep. 659.

7. Gist of the Offense. — See Meloche v. Dé-

820. 3. When Excusable — Interest in Suit. — See note 1.

822. IV. AS AFFECTING CONTRACTS — 1. In General. — See note 3.

Executory — Executed. — See note 5.

823. 2. Where Recognized. — See note 1.

824. Existence Uncertain. — See note 1.

Not Recognized. — See note 2.

3. Between Attorney and Client — a. CONTINGENT FEES — (1) In General — In England. — See note 4.

guire, 34 Can. Sup. Ct. 24, per Davis, J., dissenting, citing 5 AM. AND ENG. ENCYC. OF LAW (2d ed.) 819.

820. 1. Interest in Suit. — See Currency Min. Co. v. Bentley, 10 Colo. App. 271; Chicago City R. Co. v. General Electric Co., 74 Ill. App. 465; Lacey v. Davis, (Iowa 1904) 98 N. W. Rep. 366; Breeden v. Frankford, etc., Ins. Co., 110 Mo. App. 312, citing 5 AM. AND ENG. ENCYC. OF LAW (2d ed.) 820; Pittsburg, etc., R. Co. v. Volkert, 58 Ohio St. 362.

3. Any Interest Will Excuse. — See Tron v. Lewis, 31 Ind. App. 186, citing 5 AM. AND ENG. ENCYC. OF LAW (2d ed.) 820; Finlen v. Heinze, 28 Mont. 548; Meloche v. Déguire, 34 Can. Sup. Ct. 24, per Davis, J., dissenting, quoting 5 AM. AND ENG. ENCYC. OF LAW (2d ed.) 820.

"Thus he may be a surety or guarantor on a note and aid the principal in defense. He may be a warrantor of title to property and aid and sustain a defense by the warrantee. The landlord may aid his tenant, etc." Breeden v. Frankford, etc., Ins. Co., 110 Mo. App. 312, citing 5 AM. AND ENG. ENCYC. OF LAW (2d ed.) 820, 821.

Kindred or Affinity. — "While it is permissible for a near kinsman of a poor suitor, out of charity, to assist him in the maintenance of his suit, such kinsman cannot do so as a speculative venture, based upon an agreement to share in the proceeds of the litigation in case the suitor should recover." In re Evans, 22 Utah 366, 83 Am. St. Rep. 794.

Husband and Wife. — See Hiers v. Hiers, 67 S. Car. 108.

Poor Person. — See Meloche v. Déguire, 34 Can. Sup. Ct. 24.

Acts of Charity. — See Meloche v. Déguire, 34 Can. Sup. Ct. 24. See also Savill v. Langman, 79 L. T. N. S. 44.

822. 3. Champerty a Good Defense. — Geer v. Frank, 179 Ill. 570; Croco v. Oregon Short-Line R. Co., 18 Utah 311; Meloche v. Déguire, 34 Can. Sup. Ct. 24.

Strangers. — The defense that an agreement is void for champerty is open to others than parties to the agreement. Briggs v. Fleutot, 10 British Columbia 309.

Agreement Not Technically Champertous. — An agreement may be void on the ground that it is in the nature of champerty, though nothing has been done that amounts strictly to champerty as a criminal offense. Rees v. De Bernardy, (1896) 2 Ch. 437, 74 L. T. N. S. 585.

No Defense to Attorney. — An attorney cannot defend a suit by his client against him upon a contract on the ground that it is champertous. Irwin v. Curie, 171 N. Y. 409.

6 Reese v. Resburgh, 54 N. Y. App. Div. 378, citing 5 AM. AND ENG. ENCYC. OF LAW (2d ed.) 822.

823. 1. Where Recognized as Affecting Contracts — United States. — Peck v. Heurich, 167 U. S. 624.

Colorado. — In Colorado the statutes have superseded the common-law offenses of champerty and maintenance. Casserleigh v. Wood, 14 Colo. App. 265; O'Driscoll v. Doyle, 31 Colo. 193.

District of Columbia. — Johnson v. Van Wyck, 4 App. Cas. (D. C.) 294; Campbell v. Dexter, 17 App. Cas. (D. C.) 454.

Illinois. — Geer v. Frank, 179 Ill. 570. See also Chicago City R. Co. v. General Electric Co., 74 Ill. App. 465.

Kentucky. — Lynn v. Moss, (Ky. 1901) 62 S. W. Rep. 712.

Minnesota. — Gammons v. Johnson, 76 Minn. 76.

New York. — Stedwell v. Hartmann, 74 N. Y. App. Div. 126, affirmed 173 N. Y. 624.

The common-law doctrine relating to champerty and maintenance no longer exists. Matter of Fitzsimons, 174 N. Y. 15.

The present New York statute applies only to attorneys, and does not include laymen within its prohibition. Irwin v. Curie, 171 N. Y. 409; Browne v. West, 9 N. Y. App. Div. 135, wherein the plaintiff was allowed to recover from the defendant, both being laymen, the costs assessed in an action which the defendant had agreed to prosecute in the plaintiff's name, paying all costs and taking one-half of any recovery.

North Dakota. — "The common-law doctrine has existed in this jurisdiction since the organization of the territory," and has not been abrogated by statute. Galbraith v. Payne, 12 N. Dak. 164.

Ohio. — See Brown v. Ginn, 66 Ohio St. 316.

Utah. — Croco v. Oregon Short-Line R. Co., 18 Utah 311; Nelson v. Evans, 21 Utah 202; Kennedy v. Oregon Short-Line R. Co., 18 Utah 325; Potter v. Ajax Min. Co., 22 Utah 273.

Wisconsin. — Miles v. Mutual Reserve Fund L. Assoc., 108 Wis. 421.

824. 1. Arkansas. — See Davis v. Webber, 66 Ark. 190, 74 Am. St. Rep. 81.

Texas. — The English statutes of champerty were never in force in Texas. Wheeler v. Riviere, (Tex. Civ. App. 1899) 49 S. W. Rep. 697.

Washington. — "It is doubtful if the doctrine of champerty was ever in force in this state, as a part of the common law." Smits v. Hogan, 35 Wash. 290.

2. Doctrine Not Recognized. — Bouvier v. Baltimore, etc., R. Co., 67 N. J. L. 281.

4. Contingent Fees — Canada. — O'Connor v.

825. In the United States. — See note 1.

c. ATTORNEY PAYING COSTS. — See note 6.

Gemmill, 26 Ont. App. 27, affirming quoad hoc 29 Ont. 47.

825. 1. English Rule Adopted in United States. — Leonard v. Boyd, (Ky. 1903) 71 S. W. Rep. 508. See also Peck v. Heurich, 167 U. S. 624.

826. 1. More Modern Rule — Arkansas. — Davis v. Webber, 66 Ark. 195, 74 Am. St. Rep. 81, citing 5 AM. AND ENG. ENCYC. OF LAW (2d ed.) 826.

Michigan. — Fletcher v. McArthur, (C. C. A.) 117 Fed. Rep. 393.

Minnesota. — Gammons v. Johnson, 76 Minn. 76.

New York. — A contract by an attorney to pay all the expenses of carrying on an action is champertous, though it is otherwise as to a contract for a contingent fee merely, without an agreement to pay expenses. Stedwell v. Hartmann, 74 N. Y. App. Div. 126, affirmed 173 N. Y. 624; Begly v. Weddigen, 86 N. Y. App. Div. 629, affirmed 179 N. Y. 542; Taylor v. Enthoven, (Supm. Ct. App. T.) 88 N. Y. Supp. 138.

But an agreement to pay an associate attorney out of the contingent fee does not make the contract champertous. Matter of Fitzsimmons, 174 N. Y. 15.

A contract by a wife to pay a percentage of alimony to be awarded to her in a divorce suit is void as against public policy. Van Vleck v. Van Vleck, 21 N. Y. App. Div. 272.

North Dakota. — See Woods v. Walsh, 7 N. Dak. 376.

Pennsylvania. — Filon's Estate, 7 Pa. Dist. 316; Fenn v. McCarrell, 208 Pa. St. 615; Williams v. Philadelphia, 208 Pa. St. 282.

Washington. — Smits v. Hogan, 35 Wash. 290.

2. Rule Subject to Modifications — United States. — Peck v. Heurich, 167 U. S. 624; Casserleigh v. Wood, (C. C. A.) 119 Fed. Rep. 308; Muller v. Kelly, 116 Fed. Rep. 545, reversed 125 Fed. Rep. 212, 60 C. C. A. 170.

Colorado. — O'Driscoll v. Doyle, 31 Colo. 193. District of Columbia. — Johnson v. Van Wyck, 4 App. Cas. (D. C.) 294.

Illinois. — Geer v. Frank, 179 Ill. 570; Robinson v. Sharp, 201 Ill. 86.

Iowa. — Wallace v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., 112 Iowa 565.

New York. — See the last note supra.

Ohio. — The agreement is champertous if the attorney contracts to pay a part of the expenses of the litigation. Emslie v. Ford Plate-Glass Co., 25 Ohio Cir. Ct. 548; Brown v. Ginn, 66 Ohio St. 316.

Utah. — Nelson v. Evans, 21 Utah 202, citing 5 AM. AND ENG. ENCYC. OF LAW (2d ed.) 824 [826]; Croco v. Oregon Short-Line R. Co., 18 Utah 311; In re Evans, 22 Utah 366, 83 Am. St. Rep. 794; Potter v. Ajax Min. Co., 22 Utah 273.

827. 1. Massachusetts. — Hadlock v. Brooks, 178 Mass. 425; Gargano v. Pope, 184 Mass. 571, 100 Am. St. Rep. 575.

West Virginia. — See Dorr v. Camden, 55 W. Va. 226.

Contract by State. — A person may enter into a contract with a county whereby he undertakes to discover taxable property and to pay the expenses of collecting the taxes thereon, and, as compensation therefor, to receive a proportion of the taxes collected. Such a contract is not void as against public policy. Shinn v. Cunningham, 120 Iowa 383; Disbrow v. Cass County, 119 Iowa 538.

A Similar Contract by a City was held to be valid in Williams v. Philadelphia, 208 Pa. St. 282.

2. Agreement Must Be Made in Good Faith. — Muller v. Kelly, (C. C. A.) 125 Fed. Rep. 212, citing 5 AM. AND ENG. ENCYC. OF LAW (2d ed.) 827; Davis v. Webber, 66 Ark. 190, 74 Am. St. Rep. 81, citing 5 AM. AND ENG. ENCYC. OF LAW (2d ed.) 827; Matter of Fitzsimmons, 77 N. Y. App. Div. 345, reversed 174 N. Y. 15; Dorr v. Camden, 55 W. Va. 226, quoting 5 AM. AND ENG. ENCYC. OF LAW (2d ed.) 827.

828. 1. Construction of Contract. — If the facts show the elements of maintenance or champerty, the form of the contract adopted by the champertor to defeat the effect of the law will be disregarded, the substance and intent of the contract being allowed to prevail over its form. Lynn v. Moss, (Ky. 1901) 62 S. W. Rep. 712.

3. May Recover on a Quantum Meruit. — Davis v. Webber, 66 Ark. 190, 74 Am. St. Rep. 81, citing 5 AM. AND ENG. ENCYC. OF LAW (2d ed.) 828; Leonard v. Boyd, (Ky. 1903) 71 S. W. Rep. 508; Potter v. Ajax Min. Co., 22 Utah 273, citing 5 AM. AND ENG. ENCYC. OF LAW (2d ed.) 828. Contra, Gammons v. Johnson, 76 Minn. 76; Gammons v. Gulbranson, 78 Minn. 21.

829. 1. Davis v. Webber, 66 Ark. 190, 74 Am. St. Rep. 81; Dorr v. Camden, 55 W. Va. 226, citing 5 AM. AND ENG. ENCYC. OF LAW (2d ed.) 828, and supporting the whole text paragraph.

6. Attorney Advancing Costs. — Potter v. Ajax

829. 4. Buying Claims for Suit. — See note 9.

832. 5. Champertous Agreement to Prosecute as Defense. — See note 2.

833. See note 1.

834. See notes 1, 3.

Min. Co., 22 Utah 273, citing 5 AM. AND ENG. ENCYC. OF LAW (2d ed.) 829.

829. 9. Buying or Assigning Claims for Suit — United States. — A person has a right to assign an interest in a chose in action. Rucker v. Bolles, (C. C. A.) 80 Fed. Rep. 504.

Kentucky. — An assignment of an interest in a claim in consideration of an agreement to furnish evidence to establish the claim is against public policy. Lynn v. Moss, (Ky. 1901) 62 S. W. Rep. 712.

Louisiana. — The donee of a litigious claim may enforce the claim. Independent Ice, etc., Mach. Co. v. Anderson, 106 La. 95.

New York. — An assignment of a cause of action to an attorney is not prohibited. Epstein v. U. S. Fidelity, etc., Co., (Supm. Ct. App. T.) 29 Misc. (N. Y.) 295.

But an assignment to an attorney of a claim for goods sold and delivered is champertous. Sugarman v. Mandolla, (Supm. Ct. App. T.) 88 N. Y. Supp. 393.

An attorney may take an assignment of a claim and pass a valid title thereto to a third party, even though such third party knows the attorney took the assignment for the purpose of instituting suit thereon in violation of the prohibition of the champerty statutes. Beers v. Washbond, 86 N. Y. App. Div. 582.

Object of Statute. — De Forest v. Andrews, (Supm. Ct. Spec. T.) 27 Misc. (N. Y.) 145; Beers v. Washbond, 86 N. Y. App. Div. 582.

Purchasing Mortgage to Foreclose. — A purchase of a bond and mortgage by an attorney with the intent and for the purpose of bringing an action thereon comes within the prohibition of the statute. Maxon v. Cain, 22 N. Y. App. Div. 270.

Purpose. — There must be an intent to obtain title for the purpose of commencing an action. Mere intent to bring suit is no offense under the New York statute. And the statute does not prohibit the purchasing of chattels for the purpose of instituting an action. Van Dewater v. Gear, 21 N. Y. App. Div. 201.

There can be no recovery in a suit by an attorney on a claim assigned to him if it is shown that he bought the claim for the purpose of bringing an action thereon. Carpenter v. Cummings, (N. Y. City Ct. Gen. T.) 20 Misc. (N. Y.) 661.

Special Proceedings. — The statute does not prohibit the purchase of a claim supposed to have been allowed by an administrator with the intent and for the purpose of compelling the administrator to account. Tilden v. Aitkin, 37 N. Y. App. Div. 28.

United States. — A contract by a party having no interest in a claim, whereby he obtains an assignment of the claim and agrees to pay all expenses of the litigation and to divide what he recovers, is champertous. The Clara A. McIntyre, 94 Fed. Rep. 552.

North Carolina. — An assignment of a right of action for a breach of a covenant of warranty is champertous and void, where the agreement provides that the assignor is to receive whatever is recovered upon the claim, less the costs of litigation. Ravenal v. Ingram, 131 N. Car. 549.

Ohio. — Brown v. Ginn, 66 Ohio St. 316.

Texas. — An attorney cannot take a transfer of a part of his client's right of action. Ft. Worth, etc., R. Co. v. Carlock, (Tex. Civ. App. 1903) 75 S. W. Rep. 931.

832. 2. Champertous Agreement to Prosecute. — Miles v. Mutual Reserve Fund L. Assoc., 108 Wis. 421.

Tennessee — Statute Repealed. — The Tennessee statute requiring the dismissal of a suit where it appears that it is being prosecuted under a champertous agreement was repealed by Acts Tenn. 1899, c. 173. Heaton v. Dennis, 103 Tenn. 155; Robertson v. Cayard, 111 Tenn. 356.

833. 1. Colorado. — See Currency Min. Co. v. Bentley, 10 Colo. App. 271.

District of Columbia. — Johnson v. Van Wyck, 4 App. Cas. (D. C.) 294. Compare Peck v. Heurich, 167 U. S. 624, holding that in the District of Columbia an assignee under a champertous agreement cannot maintain a suit upon the assigned claim where the defense of champerty is interposed.

Georgia. — Ellis v. Smith, 112 Ga. 480, citing 5 AM. AND ENG. ENCYC. OF LAW (2d ed.) 833; Bullock v. Dunbar, 114 Ga. 754.

Rhode Island. — See Hearn v. Hearn, 24 R. I. 328.

Tennessee. — Heaton v. Dennis, 103 Tenn. 155; Robertson v. Cayard, 111 Tenn. 356.

Utah. — Croco v. Oregon Short Line R. Co., 18 Utah 311; Potter v. Ajax Min. Co., 22 Utah 273.

Washington. — Straw-Ellsworth Mfg. Co. v. Cain, 20 Wash. 351.

West Virginia. — Davis v. Settle, 43 W. Va. 17.

834. 1. Bullock v. Dunbar, 114 Ga. 754; Croco v. Oregon Short Line R. Co., 18 Utah 311; Potter v. Ajax Min. Co., 22 Utah 273.

3. "The better doctrine, which now seems to be supported by the weight of authority, is that the fact that there is an illegal and champertous contract for the prosecution of an action is no ground for an abatement of such action, nor a defense thereto." Ellis v. Smith, 112 Ga. 480. See also Croco v. Oregon Short Line R. Co., 18 Utah 311.

In order to constitute such adverse possession as will avoid a deed, there must be a claim of some title or interest under some written instrument purporting to convey the lands to the claimant, or else some judgment, decree, or executed process of some court. Arents v. Long Island R. Co., 156 N. Y. 1.

Possession under Quitclaim Deed. — Lambert v. Huber, (Supm. Ct. Spec. T.) 22 Misc. (N. Y.) 462.

841. 1. United States. — Scott v. Mineral Development Co., (C. C. A.) 130 Fed. Rep. 497.

Connecticut. — Actual possession by a mortgagee will avoid a deed by the mortgagor.

Mead v. Fitzpatrick, 74 Conn. 521. But a structure overhanging the land of another is not equivalent to a possession of such other party's land. Norwalk Heating, etc., Co. v. Vernam, 75 Conn. 662, 96 Am. St. Rep. 246.

Kentucky. — Mayes v. Kenton, (Ky. 1901) 64 S. W. Rep. 728; Stovall v. Haynes, (Ky. 1904) 78 S. W. Rep. 895; Krauth v. Hahn, (Ky. 1901) 65 S. W. Rep. 18; Rice v. West, (Ky. 1897) 41 S. W. Rep. 116.

A person in possession as a tenant does not hold an adverse possession so as to defeat a conveyance of the fee during the term of the tenancy. Taylor v. Combs, (Ky. 1899) 50 S. W. Rep. 64.

Tennessee. — Neither residence on nor cultivation of the land is necessary to constitute actual adverse possession. Where the premises are susceptible of it, it must, as a general rule, be by inclosure by fences or like improvements so as to make the occupation visible, notorious, continuous, and adverse; but where the land is not suitable for cultivation, as in the case of a mining property, the exercise of dominion over it is sufficient. Green v. Cumberland Coal, etc., Co., 110 Tenn. 35.

No particular length of possession is necessary. Green v. Cumberland Coal, etc., Co., 110 Tenn. 35.

A vendee in possession under a parol contract of sale holds for himself and not as tenant of the vendor. Slatton v. Tennessee Coal, etc., R. Co., 109 Tenn. 415.

But if when the party takes a deed he does not know that any one else is in possession or claims title the deed is not void for champerty. Sewell v. Draughn, (Tenn. Ch. 1897) 44 S. W. Rep. 210.

2. When Inapplicable — Bona Fide Contracts. — Middlesboro Waterworks v. Neal, 105 Ky. 586.

Where a contract is made to convey lands upon condition the party entitled to receive the conveyance may, after performance of the condition, assign his right to receive the conveyance, and the assignee can enforce its execution. Davis v. Williams, 121 Ala. 542.

3. Sale by Tenant to Cotenant. — Speer v. Duff, (Ky. 1901) 65 S. W. Rep. 126.

6. Conveyance by Remainderman. — Davis v. Willson, 115 Ky. 639.

The equity of a remainderman to avoid a deed of trust for fraud may be assigned, and enforced by the assignee, without committing an act of maintenance. Gandy v. Fortner, 119 Ala. 303.

Eisemann v. Lapp, (Supm. Ct. Tr. T.) 38 Misc. (N. Y.) 14.

North Dakota. — A champertous deed is void as against the party in possession, but is binding between the grantor and the grantee. Galbraith v. Payne, 12 N. Dak. 164; Schneller v. Plankinton, 12 N. Dak. 561.

Tennessee. — Green v. Cumberland Coal, etc., Co., 110 Tenn. 35.

845. 2. Rights under Conveyance. — Berry v. Tennessee, etc., R. Co., 134 Ala. 618.

4. Ejectment. — In New York, where an owner out of possession conveys land to a third party and thereafter conveys the same land to the party holding adversely, neither the original owner nor such third party can maintain an action of ejectment against the party who originally held adversely. Dever v. Hagerty, 169 N. Y. 481.

5. Chance Policeman. — Under a city ordinance providing that the police officers of a city shall consist of "a chief of police, * * * and two substitutes or chance policemen," such policemen are police officers and protected from removal except for cause and after hearing. CHARITIES AND TRUSTS FOR CHARITABLE USES.

By R. N. CHAFFEE.

894. I. DEFINITIONS AND GENERAL PRINCIPLES — 1. Definitions — Charity Generally. — See note 1.

A Charity, in the Legal Sense of the Term. — See note 2.

894. 1. State v. Laramie County, 8 Wyo. 130, citing 5 AM. AND ENG. ENCYC. OF LAW (2d ed.) 894.

2. Hoeffler v. Clogon, 171 Ill. 462, 63 Am. St. Rep. 241; Haggerty v. St. Louis, etc., R. Co., 100 Mo. App. 424; Webster v. Sugrow, 69 N. H. 380; People v. Fitch, 154 N. Y. 14; Watterson v. Halliday, 15 Ohio Dec. 281, quoting 5 AM. AND ENG. ENCYC. OF LAW (2d ed.) 894; Matter of Stewart, 26 Wash. 32; State v. Laramie County, 8 Wyo. 130, quoting 5 AM. AND ENG. ENCYC. OF LAW (2d ed.) 894.

Other Definitions. — Vidal v. Philadelphia, 2 How. (U. S.) 127, stated in the original note, was approved in People v. Fitch, 154 N. Y. 14; State v. Laramie County, 8 Wyo. 130.

Ould v. Washington Hospital, 95 U. S. 311, stated in the original note, was approved in Garrison v. Little, 75 Ill. App. 402; People v. New York, etc., Soc., 42 N. Y. App. Div. 83, reversed 161 N. Y. 233; Matter of Stewart, 26 Wash. 32; State v. Laramie County, 8 Wyo. 130.

"To give the use the character of a public charity, it is only necessary that there appear some benefit to be conferred upon, or duty to be performed toward, either the public at large or some part thereof, or an indefinite class of persons." People v. New York Soc., etc., 42 N. Y. App. Div. 83, reversed 161 N. Y. 233.

Defined with Reference to Stat. 43 Eliz., c. 4. — State v. Laramie County, 8 Wyo. 130.

Charitable and Benevolent Uses Synonymous. — In re Murphy, 184 Pa. St. 310, 63 Am. St. Rep. 802.

"Charitable" and "Philanthropic" Distinguished. — "Philanthropic" is a broader term than "charitable." A charitable object is also philanthropic, but a philanthropic object is not necessarily charitable. Hence, a bequest "for charitable or philanthropic purposes" is not a good charitable bequest. In re Macduff, (1896) 2 Ch. 451.

"A Charity May Be Created by Purchase or by Statute as well as by gift. The only test is this: Are the purposes for which the property is to be applied public and charitable in the view of the law?" Smith v. Kerr, (1900) 2 Ch. 511.

Utah. — Staines v. Burton, 17 Utah 331, 70 Am. St. Rep. 788.

Canada. — In re Johnson, 5 Ont. L. Rep. 459.

2. Not Within Constitutional or Statutory Regulations as to Perpetuities. — Allen v. Stevens, 161 N. Y. 122 (under Laws N. Y. 1893, c. 701), reversing 33 N. Y. App. Div. 485, wherein Ward, J., dissenting, cited 5 AM. AND ENG. ENCYC. OF LAW (2d ed.) 902. Compare Bigelow v. Tilden, (Supm. Ct. Spec. T.) 18 Misc. (N. Y.) 689. See further infra, this title, 910. 2. et seq.

In Wisconsin the statutes (Stat. Wis. 1898, §§ 2038, 2039) prohibit the suspension of the power of alienation for the forbidden period, whether the grant be for charitable or other purposes, save for the express exceptions. Danforth v. Oshkosh, 119 Wis. 262, distinguishing Harrington v. Pier, 105 Wis. 485, 76 Am. St. Rep. 924, wherein the court cited 5 AM. AND ENG. ENCYC. OF LAW (2d ed.) 902; Beurhaus v. Cole, 94 Wis. 617, in which case a devise of land to a city to be used as the location for a house for the aged and poor was held to be void, as not coming within the statutory exceptions.

903. 1. Gifts to Take Effect on Future Event — England. — See In re Clarke, (1901) 2 Ch. 110; In re Gassiot, 70 L. J. Ch. 242.

Conditional Legacy Held Valid. — A bequest of five hundred pounds to the treasurer of the Society of St. Vincent de Paul, at L., for the benefit of the poor of L., "on condition that the committee of said society shall undertake in writing to my executors to have the railing and ironwork of the two vaults in St. L.'s cemetery * * * painted once in every three years," was held to be a valid bequest. Roche v. M'Dermott, (1901) 1 Ir. R. 394.

English Rule Obtains in Canada. — Re Johnson, 5 Ont. L. Rep. 459; Re Kinny, 6 Ont. L. Rep. 459.

905. 1. Uncertain Beneficiaries. — Compare St. James Orphan Asylum v. Shelby, 60 Neb. 796, 83 Am. St. Rep. 553.

In Texas a bequest to be applied in organizing and maintaining a home for widows and orphans of a certain city is not void for uncertainty; nor is a bequest to support the indigent Israelites residing in a certain city void for uncertainty. Gidley v. Lovenberg, (Tex. Civ. App. 1904) 79 S. W. Rep. 831.

3. Indefiniteness as to Beneficiaries Essential. — Matter of Upham, 127 Cal. 90; Fay v. Howe, 136 Cal. 599; Grant v. Saunders, 121 Iowa 80, 100 Am. St. Rep. 310; Haynes v. Carr, 70 N. 906. 3. Beneficiaries Held Sufficiently Certain. — See Matter of Upham, 127 Cal. 90; Fay v. Howe, 136 Cal. 599.

A bequest to a city of real estate to be applied for the benefit of the white public schools, or for a city hospital, as the authorities shall elect, is not void for uncertainty. Huntsville v. Smith, 137 Ala. 382.

4. Connecticut. — Duggan v. Duggan, 63 U. S. App. 149, 92 Fed. Rep. 806 (construing Connecticut statute); Strong's Appeal, 68 Conn. 527.

907. 4. Illinois. — Trafton v. Black, 187 Ill. 36.

A devise to trustees "for the attainment of woman suffrage in the United States of America and its Territories" is not void for uncertainty in the beneficiaries. Garrison v. Little, 75 Ill. App. 402.

6. Iowa. — Grant v. Saunders, 121 Iowa 80, 100 Am. St. Rep. 310; Moran v. Moran, 104 Iowa 216, 65 Am. St. Rep. 443.

three others to be chosen by him, for the establishment of a home for poor Catholic men.

A bequest of a fund to a trustee to be used "in the advancement of the principles of primitive Christianity as taught by the Christian church," is valid. Crawford v. Thomas, 114 Ky. 484.

In Thompson v. Brown, 116 Ky. 102, a devise to an executor to be distributed by him "to the poor in his discretion" was sustained.

Bequests "for the aid of a Bible training and missionary school for Christian workers;" "for the support of a missionary or missionaries in the foreign field;" "to aid in carrying on the cause of Bible Holiness, including Fire Baptized Holiness work, and evangelism;" and "to aid in the support of needy and destitute ministers of the gospel," were held not void for uncertainty. Leak v. Leak, 78 S. W. Rep. 471, 25 Ky. L. Rep. 1703.

But a devise to an executor "for charitable objects, to be expended for said objects in this diocese of Louisville, according to his discretion," was held to be void for uncertainty. Spalding v. St. Joseph's Industrial School, 107 Ky. 382.

908. 2. Louisiana. — See Meunier's Succession, 52 La. Ann. 79, holding that by Act La. 1882, No. 124, donations and bequests can be made to trustees for educational, charitable, or literary purposes, or for the benefit of institutions, existing or to be founded, the object of which is to promote education, literature, or charity.

In Burke's Succession, 51 La. Ann. 538, a bequest was held to be void where the selection of the beneficiary was left to the executor. See also McCloskey's Succession, 52 La. Ann. 1122.

909. 4. Michigan and Minnesota. — Hopkins v. Crossley, 132 Mich. 612; Cook v. Universalist Gen. Convention, (Mich. 1904) 101 N. W. Rep. 217; Lane v. Eaton, 69 Minn. 141, 65 Am. St. Rep. 559; Owatonna v. Rosebrock, 88 Minn. 318; Watkins v. Bigelow, 93 Minn. 210. See also State v. Board of Control, 85 Minn. 165, per Start, C. J., dissenting.

5a. Nebraska. — St. James Orphan Asylum v. Shelby, 60 Neb. 796, 83 Am. St. Rep. 553.

6. New Hampshire, Oregon, Rhode Island, Vermont — Certainty Sufficient. — A bequest to executors in trust to be used in establishing and maintaining free public schools in a certain town is valid. John v. Smith, 102 Fed. Rep. 218, 42 C. C. A. 275 (following the Oregon doctrine).

A devise to a town for the poor widows and for children under ten years of age is not void for uncertainty in the beneficiaries. Towle v. Nesmith, 69 N. H. 212.

910. 1. New Jersey. — Hyde v. Hyde, 64 N. J. Eq. 6.

8. Definite Beneficiary Required. — Murray v. Miller, 178 N. Y. 316; Pratt v. Roman Catholic Orphan Asylum, 20 N. Y. App. Div. 352, affirmed 166 N. Y. 593; Matter of Botsford, (Surrogate Ct.) 23 Misc. (N. Y.) 388, affirmed 37 N. Y. App. Div. 73; Mount v. Tuttle, (Supm. Ct. Spec. T.) 40 Misc. (N. Y.) 456; Bowman v. Domestic, etc., Missionary Soc., (Supm. Ct. Spec. T.) 42 Misc. (N. Y.) 574, reversed 100 N. Y. App. Div. 29.

10. Recent New York Legislation. — The statute is not retroactive. Murray v. Miller, 178 N. Y. 316. It not only protects devises to charities where the beneficiaries are uncertain, but also takes them out of the operation of the statute against perpetuities. Allen v. Stevens, 161 N. Y. 122.

Under this statute the following bequests and devises have been upheld: A bequest to an unincorporated society. Matter of Fitzsimmons, (Surrogate Ct.) 29 Misc. (N. Y.) 731. A devise to a priest for the saying of masses for the repose of the souls of the testatrix and of her relatives and benefactors. Matter of Zimmerman, (Surrogate Ct.) 22 Misc. (N. Y.) 411. A bequest for the benefit of "any poor family or families, or any charitable organization or organizations, in the city of Brooklyn, which shall seem to them [the trustees] most deserving of such reward or assistance." Kelly v. Hoey, 35 N. Y. App. Div. 273.

911. 3. Pennsylvania. — Handley v. Palmer, 103 Fed. Rep. 39, 43 C. C. A. 100; In re Murphy, 184 Pa. St. 310, 63 Am. St. Rep. 802; Stevens's Estate, 200 Pa. St. 318.

In a bequest of a fund to executors, to be expended by them in behalf of such charities as to them seem best, their discretion is limited to charitable institutions or associations, their authority not extending to individuals. Padelford's Estate, 9 Pa. Dist. 174.

4. South Carolina. — Dye v. Beaver Creek Church, 48 S. Car. 444, 59 Am. St. Rep. 724.

5. Tennessee. — Cheatham v. Nashville Trust Co., (Tenn. Ch. 1899) 57 S. W. Rep. 202.

912. 2. Later Virginia Doctrine. — In Field v. Van Wyck, 94 Va. 557, 64 Am. St. Rep. 745, it was held that the doctrine of Gallego v. Atty.-Gen., 3 Leigh (Va.) 450, 24 Am. Dec. 650, had not been overruled by the later cases; and a bequest to certain trustees "for the benefit of the New Jerusalem church [Sweden-

912. 4. Wisconsin. — See McHugh v. McCole, 97 Wis. 166, 65 Am. St. Rep. 106, holding invalid a bequest to a bishop to be used for masses for the repose of the souls of certain persons.

A devise to executors in trust to apply the income to the support, maintenance, and education of such indigent orphan children under the age of fourteen years, in a county, as, in the judgment of the executors, may be the most deserving, and after a certain time to divide the principal among them, is not void for uncertainty in the beneficiaries. Sawtelle v. Witham, 94 Wis. 412.

5. See Smith v. Kerr, (1900) 2 Ch. 511.

Secret Trusts. — Where the testatrix bequeathed a sum of money to a legatee "for the charitable purposes agreed upon between us," it was held that this was a gift for limited charitable purposes, and that parol evidence was admissible to show what the purposes agreed upon were. It was also held that as the gift, on the face of the will, was of the principal sum, evidence was not admissible to show an agreement between the testatrix and the legatee that during his life only the income should be devoted to the charitable purposes. In re Huxtable, (1902) 2 Ch. 793, modifying (1902) 1 Ch. 214.

A testator's wishes relating to the use of his property for the benefit of the public, communicated to and accepted by his devisee during life, will not be enforced as a secret charitable trust where the true intention was not to impose a binding obligation, but to invest the devisee with the same freedom and irresponsibility in carrying out the testator's wishes as the testator himself exercised in his lifetime — making the devisee, as it were, the alter ego of the testator. In re Rivers, (1902) 1 Ch. 403, reversing (1901) 1 Ch. 352.

6. The Use of the Word "Trust" Is Unnecessary if, upon a fair construction of the whole document, it is manifest that a trust or duty or obligation was intended. Smith v. Kerr, (1900) 2 Ch. 511.

A Purely Public Charity. — A fraternal beneficial society, having a system like a lodge, and paying benefits in case of death of its members resulting from accident, disease, or old age, is not a purely public charity so as to be exempt from taxation. State Council, etc., v. Board of Review, 198 Ill. 441.

An institution for the education of men as ministers of the gospel, having an endowment fund which it lends, applying the income for such purpose, is a purely public charity, within Const. Ohio, art. 12, § 2, exempting institutions of purely public charity from taxation. United Presb. Theological Seminary v. Little, 25 Ohio Cir. Ct. 609.

A Masonic lodge which provides for its members and their families, or the widows and orphans of those who are dead, is in no sense a purely public charity. Newport v. Masonic Temple Assoc., 108 Ky. 333.

British Columbia. — The statute of mortmain, 9 Geo. II., c. 36, is not in force in British Columbia. In re Pearce, 10 British Columbia 280.

Manitoba. — The statute of mortmain, 9 Geo. II., c. 36, is held to be in force in Manitoba. Hence, a bequest to a school district is valid as to pure personalty, but a bequest to be paid out of land, or the proceeds of land, is void. Law v. Acton, 14 Manitoba 246.

Ontario. — A devise of realty to a bishop, in trust simply for the use of his devisee, is not a devise to a "charitable use," within the meaning of the Mortmain and Charitable Uses Act, 1892, 55 Vict., c. 20, §§ 4, 5 (o). Re McCauley, 28 Ont. 610.

The statute of 9 Geo. II., c. 36, is in force in Ontario, and applies though the trust is to be executed in a foreign country. Thus a devise of lands in Ontario, by a testator dying in 1891, in trust "to promote, aid, and protect citizens of the United States of African descent in the enjoyment of their civil rights," was held to be a charitable devise and void. Lewis v. Doerle, 25 Ont. App. 206, affirming 28 Ont. 412.

It is provided in Rev. Stat. Ont., c. 112, § 8 (55 Vict., c. 20, § 8), that "money charged or secured on land or other personal estate arising from or connected with land shall not be

Laws N. Y. 1860, c. 360, applies where a testator leaves a wife and devises more than half his estate to certain persons absolutely, but the bequest is in fact upon a secret trust for the benefit of charitable corporations. Amherst College v. Ritch, 151 N. Y. 282. But this statute applies only to gifts to private corporations and not to gifts to a municipal corporation, Matter of Crane, 12 N. Y. App. Div. 271, affirmed 159 N. Y. 557. Nor does it apply to a permanent charitable devise to trustees, Allen v. Stevens, 161 N. Y. 122.

A devise to a priest of a certain church for masses is not a devise to a religious association, within Laws N. Y. 1860, c. 360. Matter of Zimmerman, (Surrogate Ct.) 22 Misc. (N. Y.) 411.

Laws N. Y. 1848, c. 319, renders void bequests to charitable institutions made within two months of the testator's death. Fairchild v. Edson, 154 N. Y. 199, 61 Am. St. Rep. 609. Under section 6 of this statute, expressly left in force by Laws N. Y. 1895, c. 559, a devise to a corporation in a will executed five days before the death of the testator is void. Matter of Rounds, (Surrogate Ct.) 25 Misc. (N. Y.) 101. But this statute, not being a part of the General Laws, is not binding on corporations not organized thereunder. Matter of Fitzsimmons, (Surrogate Ct.) 29 Misc. (N. Y.) 731.

Rev. Stat. Ont., c. 112, § 4, requires land devised for the benefit of a charitable use to be sold within two years after the death of the testator, notwithstanding a contrary direction in the will, unless the time is extended by the High Court or by a judge in chambers. A devise is not invalidated by a testamentary direction that the land is not to be sold until after the limit of two years, but the direction is itself invalid, unless the period is extended in the manner prescribed by the statute. In re Brown, 32 Ont. 323.

Waiver of Statute — Lands in Another State. — In Illinois, in a case involving the validity of a devise of lands in that state by a testator domiciled in Ohio at the time of his death, it was held that the issue, adopted child, or legal representatives of either, might waive the Ohio statute making invalid devises for charitable purposes if the testator dies within one year from the time of the execution of his will, leaving issue of his body, or an adopted child, or legal representatives of either. *Folsom v. 6. Fraud and Duress. — A mortgage procured by fraud or duress is voidable at the instance of the maker, although an indebtedness exists between the mortgagor and mortgagee. Searle v. Gregg, 67 Kan. 1; Layson v. Cooper, 174 Mo. 211, 97 Am. St. Rep. 545; McAflrey v. Richards, (Tenn. Ch. 1900) 59 S. W. Rep. 1064. See also Henderson v. Boyett, 126 Ala. 172; W. W. Kimball Co. v. Deaton, 102 Mo. App. 45; Iowa Sav. Bank v. Frink, (Neb. 1901) 92 N. W. Rep. 916.

In England. — A bill of sale is void if it does not "truly set forth the consideration for which it is given," or if it is made or given in consideration of any sum under thirty pounds. Darlow v. Bland, (1897) 1 Q. B. 125, 75 L. T. N. S. 537.

Where the consideration in a bill of sale was stated to be three hundred pounds, and it appeared that this sum was paid by a check for one hundred pounds, and two bills of exchange for one hundred pounds each, payable twelve months after date, the bill of sale was declared void on the ground that the consideration was not "truly set forth." It was also held that the absence of a covenant for repayment of the principal sum vitiates a bill of sale. In re Moore, 4 Manson 51.

Uncertainty as to the amount of interest and the time of payment thereof renders the bill of sale void. Attia v. Finch, 91 L. T. N. S. 70.

A recital in the bill of sale that it is granted in consideration of "the sum of ninety pounds now due and owing" does not truly set forth the consideration, when the grantor already owes forty pounds to the grantee and receives only the additional fifty pounds on execution of the bill of sale; and the omission of an acknowledgment of the receipt of the consideration by the grantor is a departure from the prescribed form which is also sufficient to render the bill of sale void. Davies v. Jenkins, (1900) 1 Q. B. 133, 81 L. T. N. S. 788.

But the consideration is none the less truly set forth to be "now paid" because part thereof is applied by the grantee, in pursuance of a contemporaneous agreement with the grantor, to the retirement of a promissory note, shortly to become due, on which the grantor and the grantee are jointly and severally liable. In re Wiltshire, (1900) 1 Q. B. 96, 81 L. T. N. S. 616.

Where the money consideration, as set forth in a bill of sale, has been actually paid to the grantor, it is not necessary to refer to the payment of a prior bill of sale out of the proceeds. Re Davies, 77 L. T. N. S. 567.

In Manitoba the bill of sale is void unless the full and true consideration is set out. Boddy v. Ashdown, 11 Manitoba 555.

Facts, Not Legal Conclusions, Should Be Stated. — The requirements of the Ontario Chattel Mortgage Act that the consideration of a mortgage be expressed therein is satisfied when the mortgage recites that the indorsement of a note is the consideration, and then sets out the note. Only the facts need be stated, not their legal effect. Robinson v. Mann, 31 Can. Sup. Ct. 484.

Where a mortgage was given to secure future advances it was held that the filing of a subsequent mortgage was not notice to the prior mortgagor, and in the absence of actual notice the latter was protected for advances made after the second mortgage was filed. Anderson v. Liston, 69 Minn. 82.

In case of irreconcilable conflict between the mortgage and the note as to the time when the note is payable the date of the note will govern. Ferris v. Johnson, (Mich. 1904) 98 N. W. Rep. 1014, 10 Detroit Leg. N. 982.

Covenant Outweighs Recital as to Amount. — A recital in the mortgage that a certain sum is due by the mortgagor does not estop the mortgagee from claiming that a larger sum was due at the time of the execution of the mortgage, where the mortgage contains a covenant by the mortgagor to pay the sum recited and also any other sum found to be due on the taking of an account. Rithet v. Beaven, 5 British Columbia 457.

St. Anthony, etc., Elevator Co.*, 8 N. Dak. 585, 73 Am. St. Rep. 779.

But the South Dakota statute providing that "a mortgage of personal property must be signed by the mortgageor in the presence of two persons, who must sign the same as witnesses thereto, and no further proof or acknowledgment is required to admit it to be filed," has been held not to preclude a mortgagee signing as a witness. *Fisher v. Atl. Rep. 989; Douglass v. Williams, (N. J. 1901) 48 Atl. Rep. 222; Deseret Nat. Bank v. Kidman, 25 Utah 379, 95 Am. St. Rep. 856; Enright v. Amsden, 70 Vt. 183.

An Honest Mistake. — Substantial compliance with the statute is sufficient, and the omission, in good faith, of the word "hinder" from the clause "hinder and delay" will not render the affidavit defective. Petrovitzky v. Brigham, 14 Utah 472.

Description of Parties. — See Modesto Bank v. Owens, 121 Cal. 223.

English Bills of Sale Act. — The description of the grantor as a married woman does not satisfy the requirements of the English Bills of Sale Act of 1878, when her occupation is omitted. Kemble v. Addison, (1900) 1 Q. B. 430, 82 L. T. N. S. 91.

But that act contains no provision making it necessary to state the grantor's name. Hence the description of the grantor, in the affidavit to a bill of sale to secure a debt, by a name other than that by which she is generally known will not, in the absence of any intention to mislead creditors, invalidate the bill of sale. Stokes v. Spencer, (1900) 2 Q. B. 483, 83 L. T. N. S. 199.

A misdescription as to the grantor's address in the affidavit avoids the bill of sale, which cannot be looked to to correct the affidavit. Thus, it was held that the bill of sale, though in proper form, was void where it truly described the addresses of the grantors, but the affidavit misdescribed their addresses. Marks v. Derrick, 80 L. T. N. S. 60.

The omission of the grantee's address renders a bill of sale void, though the grantee is a limited company, registered under the Companies' Acts. Altreet v. Altreet, (1898) 2 Q. B. 267, 78 L. T. N. S. 794.

A bill of sale is rendered void by the omission of the attestation clause to state anything by way of description of the attesting witness. Sims v. Trollope, (1897) 1 Q. B. 24, 75 L. T. N. S. 351.

But the omission of the name of the grantor and of the name and address of the attesting witness from the copy filed for registration does not render the bill of sale void where those particulars are contained in the affidavit filed with such copy. Coates v. Moore, (1903) 2 K. B. 140, 89 L. T. N. S. 8.

Insufficiency of the Affidavit as to Mere Matter of Form, not going to the substance, does not necessarily invalidate the mortgage. Commercial bank v. Fehrenbach, 4 N. W. Ter. 335.

Mortgage Not Avoided by Trifling Verbal Changes Not Varying Meaning. — Rogers v. Carroll, 30 Ont. 328.

Affidavit Before Payment of Money. — A chattel mortgage was held not to be avoided by the fact that the affidavit as to good faith, made five days before the actual payment of the money to the mortgagor, stated that the mortgagor was justly and truly indebted to the mortgagee in a specified sum, where the statute required only that the affidavit should be as to the good faith of the transaction, and not that it should state the true consideration. Martin v. Sampson, 24 Ont. App. 1, reversing 27 Ont. 545.

Mathew*, 138 Cal. 334, holding that the fact that one mortgaged property carries with it as against him and his successors the inference that he owned and had a right so to mortgage it.

But the Mortgagor Is Estopped to deny ownership of chattels upon which he has voluntarily given a mortgage. Layson v. Cooper, 174 Mo. 211, 97 Am. St. Rep. 545.

Caveat Emptor applies to the mortgagee in chattel mortgages, and he must recover, if at all, upon the strength of the mortgagor's title. Sweeney v. Rejto, (Neb. 1901) 95 N. W. Rep. 669.

In an action of conversion by the mortgagor the fact that he has given subsequent mortgages on the same property is a pro tanto defense of which the first mortgagee may avail himself. Kohn v. Dravis, (C. C. A.) 94 Fed. Rep. 288.

It has been held that the mortgagor's right to substantial damages is not defeated by the fact that the mortgagee recovered the converted property and offered to return it on payment of the mortgage and the mortgagor refused to accept the offer. Colby v. W. W. Kimball Co., 99 Iowa 321.

In assessing damages the jury may consider not only the value of property at the time of conversion, but also the time since elapsed, to determine the fair compensation to the plaintiff for his injury. Davis v. Bowers Granite Co., 75 Vt. 286.

If after demand by the mortgagee the attaching officer turns over to the mortgagor the surplus arising out of a tax sale of mortgaged property, the officer will be liable as for money had and received to the mortgagee. McDuffee v. Collins, 117 Ala. 487.

A mortgagee with right to immediate possession under an insecurity clause may maintain replevin against an attaching officer who does not first tender payment of the mortgage debt as required by statute (Comp. Laws, § 4389). Coughran v. Sundback, 9 S. Dak. 483.

Mortgagee in Possession. — Chambers v. Newlin, 109 Ill. App. 138; Trompen v. Yates, 66 Neb. 525.3. Measure of Damages. — The measure of damages in an action of trover brought by the mortgagee against one seizing the property under a distress warrant is the amount of the mortgage lien, not exceeding the value of the property. Mantonya v. Martin Emerich Outfitting Co., 69 Ill. App. 62, affirmed 172 Ill. 92.

The mortgagee in an action against a levying creditor may recover the value of the property with interest thereon from the date of the levy. State v. Fidelity, etc., Co., 94 Mo. App. 184.

The allowance of interest as an element of damages in addition to the value of the goods is wholly committed by the Missouri statute to the discretion of the jury. Bigler v. Leonori, 103 Mo. App. 131; Feller v. McKillip, 109 Mo. App. 61.

The mortgagee's damages in an action of conversion against a sheriff are limited by his special interest in the mortgaged property. State v. White, 70 Mo. App. 1.

In an action by a mortgagee against a stranger who shows no right or title to the property, the full value of the property may be recovered though it exceeds the amount of the mortgage debt. Bigelow v. Goble, 9 N. Y. App. Div. 391; Biehler v. Irwin, (Supm. Ct. App. T.) 84 N. Y. Supp. 574.

Tennessee. — Louisville Bank v. Hill, 99 Tenn. 42; Hughes v. Abston, 105 Tenn. 70. But see Snyder v. Yates, 112 Tenn. 309.

In Pennsylvania it has been held that a mortgage filed in New York is a secret lien as to one purchasing the mortgaged chattels in Pennsylvania, the court saying that "the record of a deed is notice only to those who are bound to search for it." State Bank v. Carr, 15 Pa. Super. Ct. 346.

The Georgia rule is that a mortgage executed in another state must be filed within six months of the bringing of the property into Georgia. Such a mortgage, unrecorded, is inferior to the rights of a bona fide purchaser although the six months allowed for recording have not expired. Armitage-Herschell Co. v. Muscogee Real Estate Co., 119 Ga. 552.

And to the same effect as Ely v. Carnley, 19 N. Y. 496, stated in the original note, see O. S. Kelly Co. v. Lobenthal, 8 Ohio Cir. Dec. 300, 15 Ohio Cir. Ct. 343.

An affidavit of extension may be filed on the day when the mortgage debt matures. Hamilton v. Seeger, 75 Ill. App. 599.

The Object of a statute providing that a chattel mortgage shall after the expiration of five years cease to be valid as to innocent parties, is to protect those whose rights accrued after the expiration of that time, and not those whose rights accrued before, as the latter were bound to take notice of the record. Arlington Mill, etc., Co. v. Yates, 57 Neb. 286.

As Between the Original Parties failure to renew will not render the mortgage void. Deering v. Hanson, 7 N. Dak. 288.

How Time Determined. — The time for refileing is to be determined by reference to the next preceding, and not the original, filing. In re Landman, 5 Ohio Dec. 398, 7 Ohio N. P. 570.

Possession Taken by the Mortgagee removes the necessity of refileing. Fuher v. Buckeye Supply Co., 5 Ohio Dec. 187, 7 Ohio N. P. 420.

3. Industrial Loan Assoc. v. Saul, (Supm. Ct. App. T.) 34 Misc. (N. Y.) 188.

4. Taking a New Mortgage within the period, if in good faith, relieves from the consequences of a failure to refile, and the old mortgage will subsist. Meyerfeld v. Strube, 9 Ohio Dec. 514.

1013. 1. When Deemed Recorded. — Day, etc., Lumber Co. v. Mack, 69 S. W. Rep. 712, 24 Ky. L. Rep. 640. See also McCrea v. Hopper, 35 N. Y. App. Div. 572, affirmed 165 N. Y. 633.

Where a mortgage covering both real and personal property was filed only in the record of realty mortgages, it was held that constructive notice was imparted as to the mortgage on the chattels although not recorded in the separate book which the statute directed. Long v. Gorman, 100 Mo. App. 45.

2. Truss v. Harvey, 120 Ala. 636. See also Davis v. Turner, (C. C. A.) 120 Fed. Rep. 605; Hunt v. Allen, 73 Vt. 322.

The Presumption of Proper Recording Is Rebutted when the mortgage has been taken from the custody of the recording officer before it has been transcribed. Knickerbocker Trust Co. v. Penn Cordage Co., (N. J. 1904) 58 Atl. Rep. 409.

Delivery to Officer Away from Office. — Merely leaving the mortgage with the clerk while he was outside the township serving as a juror was held to be insufficient to give notice, and not to amount to filing. Matter of Jones, 2 Ohio Dec. 409, 7 Ohio N. P. 225.

3. A Subsequent Purchaser. — John Caplice Co. v. Beauchamp, 22 Mont. 258; Wolff v. Rausch, (Supm. Ct. App. T.) 22 Misc. (N. Y.) 108; Salmon v. Norris, 82 N. Y. App. Div. 362; *Russell v. Where Several Notes Are Secured by a mortgage, if a part of them be assigned, the assigned notes will have precedence in the security. Dilley v. Freedman, 25 Tex. Civ. App. 39.

Form of Note Secured by Mortgage. — Under an Illinois statute (Act Ill. June 21, 1895, § 1, Starr & Curt. Annot. Stat. Ill. 1896, c. 95, par. 26) a note secured by a mortgage must so state on its face or the mortgage is rendered void. Thompson v. Akin, 81 Ill. App. 62, reversed 181 Ill. 448.

But where the note has not been assigned, it has been held under the above statute that the mortgage is not void for failure in the note to state that it is secured by mortgage. Butler v. Colwell, 89 Ill. App. 133; Smith v. Schey, 101 Ill. App. 223; Central School Supply House v. Hirschy, 106 Ill. App. 258; Hogan v. Akin, 181 Ill. 448. See also *Sellers v. 1080. 1. Death of Drawer. — Weiland v. State Nat. Bank, 112 Ky. 310, quoting 5 AM. AND ENG. ENCYC. OF LAW (2d ed.) 1080. In this case, however, the check was for an amount in excess of the fund on deposit, and moreover there was an express revocation by the drawer's administrator before payment. See also Pullen v. Placer County Bank, 138 Cal. 169, 94 Am. St. Rep. 19; Drum v. Benton, 13 App. Cas. (D. C.) 245.

2a. Drugs and Chemicals. — Benzine is within the term "drugs and chemicals" as used in a policy of fire insurance. The term chemical is defined as a substance used for producing a chemical effect, or one produced by a chemical process; a chemical agent prepared for scientific or economic use. Webst. Dict.; Cent. Dict. Phoenix Ins. Co. v. Flemming, 65 Ark. 54.

4. The chest is that part of the body from the neck to the abdomen and includes the cavity in which the heart and lungs are situated. Ft. Worth, etc., R. Co. v. Rogers, 21 Tex. Civ. App. 605.

7. Chief Office — Attachment — Foreign Corporations. — The expressions in the attachment act, "chief office" or "place of business," while not strictly synonymous, must be regarded as equivalent. The essential characteristics of each might be very different. The former would ordinarily be the place where the officials charged with the general management of its affairs might meet and direct them, while the latter might be the same, or the place where its business operations were carried on under the direction and supervision of an authorized agent. The two designations are mentioned in the disjunctive, but it is clear that one must be considered the equivalent of the other, although each may be maintained at a separate place. Rocky Mountain Oil Co. v. Central Nat. Bank, 29 Colo. 129.

CHILD—CHILDREN.

1083. I. IN GENERAL. — See note 1.

1084. II. ADULTS. — See note 2.

1083. 1. Aggravated Assault. — Thompson v. State, (Tex. Crim. 1904) 80 S. W. Rep. 623, following Bell v. State, 18 Tex. App. 53, 51 Am. Rep. 293, stated in the original note.

A Child en Ventre Sa Mere was included within the meaning of the word "children" in In re Seabolt, 113 Fed. Rep. 766. And see McLain v. Howald, 120 Mich. 274, 77 Am. St. Rep. 597.

Procuring or Attempting Abortion. — Sullivan v. State, 121 Ga. 183; Barrow v. State, 121 Ga. 187, following Rex v. Phillips, 3 Campb. 76, stated in the original note.

"The word 'child,' as used in section 81 of the Georgia Penal Code, means a 'living child,' that is to say 'an unborn child so far developed as to be ordinarily called 'quick,' and which is still alive when the alleged unlawful means are employed to produce the miscarriage or abortion.'" Taylor v. State, 105 Ga. 846.

1084. 2. Homestead. — In Batley v. Barker, 62 Kan. 517, it was held that when the right to inherit the homestead is in question, the word "children" applies equally to adults and minors; but when the right to withhold the property from appropriation to pay debts of the former owner is involved, the children of the intestate must be minors, and in such cases the exemption to them extends only to the period when the estate becomes subject to partition under the law — that is, when all the heirs arrive at the age of majority.

Death by Wrongful Act. — An adult cannot as a "child" share in the proceeds of an action for wrongful death. Coleman v. Hyer, 113 Ga. 420. But under 2 Code Ga. (1895), § 3828, providing that "the husband may recover for the homicide of his wife, and if she leaves child or children surviving, said husband and children shall sue jointly, and not separately," it was held that the act was not confined to minor children, but that adult children were necessary parties to the suit. Roberts v. Central of Georgia R. Co., 124 Fed. Rep. 471, distinguishing Mott v. Central R. Co., 70 Ga. 680, 48 Am. Rep. 595, stated in the original note.

Protective Statutes and Statutes of Descent or Distribution. — In Quattlebaum v. Triplett, 69 Ark. 91, the court said: "There is a distinction to be observed in the use of the word

'child' in statutes passed for the protection of children, and its use in the law of descents and distribution. In the former case 'child' means a person of tender years, without regard to parentage, while in the law of wills and intestacy age has nothing to do with the question, and parentage everything."

2. Adopted Children. — Bray v. Miles, 23 Ind. App. 432, quoting 5 AM. AND ENG. ENCYC. OF LAW (2d ed.) 1098.

In construing a statute providing that an adopted child shall not be deemed a child so as to defeat rights of remaindermen, the court said: "I regard it as of no materiality how long the child had been adopted. * * * In my opinion it neither harms nor benefits her case that she was adopted before the remaindermen became vested. She seeks to take what would have been theirs without contest, had she not been adopted. This is what the statute plainly designs to prevent." Matter of Hopkins, (Surrogate Ct.) 43 Misc. (N. Y.) 464.

Under the Missouri statute abolishing estates tail, the word "children" does not mean adopted children. Clarkson v. Hatton, 143 Mo. 49, 65 Am. St. Rep. 635.

8. CHRISTIAN SCIENCE. — See note 2.

1. 4. Murder by Choking. — In construing a presentment for murder by choking the court said: "The plain, every-day meaning of the word choking, as we understand it, is to prevent or interfere with the passage of air through the windpipe, either by internal obstruction or by external pressure. To choke a person is, in other words, to fill his mouth or throat with a towel or other substance, or to seize and compress his throat so as to obstruct his breathing. This is what the grand jury meant when they used the word, and this is what the accused must have understood when the presentment was read to him." Hicks v. State, 105 Ga. 627.

5. In Wills. — In Cain v. Cain, 127 Ala. 440, the court said: "In the sentence 'to sell and convey any property she may choose for her comfort and support as she may see proper,' the word choose seems to have been used as synonymous with wish, or desire, rather than to imply a mere right of selection; and by such use, together with the omission of all reference to her necessities, it appears that the testator intended to invest his widow with full discretion in determining the occasion for selling, as well as the selection of property to be sold."

"Chosen" and "Elected" Synonymous. — In Reid v. Gorsuch, 67 N. J. L. 396, the court said: "In the original constitution of this state the words chosen and 'elected' are used interchangeably, and as equally applicable to those who are selected, whether it be (a) by the people of the county at large, (b) by those inhabitants possessing a property qualification, (c) by the legislative council and assembly in joint meeting, (d) by either of these bodies acting separately, or (e) by a company of militia."

3. 2. Other Definitions. — A chose in action is a personal right, not reduced to possession, but recoverable by suit at law. People v. Halsted, 26 N. Y. App. Div. 316.

5. A Personal Right of Action by a Covenantor. — A chose in action. Randall v. Macbeth, 81 Minn. 376.

An Action of Assumpsit for property taken by mistake is a chose in action. Merriwether v. Bell, (Ky. 1900) 58 S. W. Rep. 987.

Insurance Policy. — Steele v. Gatlin, 115 Ga. 929; Prudential Ins. Co. v. Hunn, 21 Ind. App. 525; Lockett v. Lockett, (Ky. 1904) 80 S. W. Rep. 1152.

Stock Certificate a chose in action. Richmond First Nat. Bank v. Holland, 99 Va. 495. And see Allen-West Commission Co. v. Grumbles, (C. C. A.) 129 Fed. Rep. 287.

A Warrant Drawn by a Municipal Corporation is a chose in action and taxable as such. Easton v. Board of Review, 183 Ill. 255.

The Right to Compensation for Land Taken by a City is a thing in action under the New York Tax Law and taxable as such. People v. Halsted, 26 N. Y. App. Div. 316.

Distinguished from Debt. — In Smead v. Chandler, 71 Ark. 512, the court said: "The terms or phrases chose in action and 'debt' are used by courts to represent the same thing when viewed from opposite sides. 'The chose in action is the right of the creditor to be paid, while the debt is the obligation of the debtor to pay.' As said by Professor Minor: * * * 'It will be seen, therefore, that, while the situs of the creditor's right (chose in action) follows the creditor, and corresponds to the legal situs of tangible chattels, the situs of the debtor's obligation follows the actual situs of the debtor, or of his property (in case of a proceeding in rem to enforce it) and corresponds to the actual situs of tangible chattels.'"

2a. The word chouse "seems to be of Turkish origin, and stands as a memorial in our language of a gigantic cheat perpetuated in 1609 by a messenger or interpreter [chouse] of the Turkish embassy upon Turkish merchants resident in England, and chouse is hence defined by Mr. Webster in his dictionary thus: 'To cheat, trick, defraud; — followed by of or out of; as, to chouse one out of his money.' It may be that, using the term in a highly metaphorical sense, the cattle, by being frequently driven to and fro in the pasture to prevent their escape, were thus choused or cheated out of their grass." This case was an action for damages against a railroad for failure to construct cattle guards. It was held that the driving and chousing of the cattle occasioned thereby was not a proper element of damages. Southern Kansas R. Co. v. Isaacs, 20 Tex. Civ. App. 466.

8. 2. In Matter of Brush, (Surrogate Ct.) 35 Misc. (N. Y.) 689, the court said: "Its adherents believe that matter has no existence except as a manifestation of mind; that the divine mind is all-controlling; that the human mind, by becoming clean and purified, can, to a degree, realize and employ the powers of the divine mind; that all sickness and bodily ills are merely a species of sin, error, or evil, and exist only in the apprehension of the human mind, and are in no wise phenomena of matter; that is the divine mind has the same power to relieve one of such sin or error, manifested in the form of disease, as it has to expel any other unclean or evil thought, and that the human mind, if it can only so perfect itself as to partake in sufficient degree of the omnipotence of the divine mind, also will be able to throw off and rid itself of disease. These beliefs are embodied in a book called 'Science and Health,' which purports to derive them from the teachings of the Bible. Demonstrations of these teachings are attempted by Christian Scientists, who are known as 'healers,' and who treat disease without the use of any material means whatever, the treatment, as one of them testified, being 'always a prayer.' They do not claim to cure all bodily ills, but they attribute their failures not to the nature of the illness, but to the imperfect realization by the healer of the divine mind, since to them the possibilities of Christian Science are infinite. It is their belief, on the other hand, that, when a patient does recover, the healer has realized sufficiently the truths as taught by 'Science and Health' and the Bible, and has, by his understanding of the power of God, as thus demonstrated by Christian Science, been able to remove the imperfections of which the disease was the result. It is, therefore, evident that, however opposed these teachings may be to the beliefs or notions of others, they are founded on the religious convictions of those professing them. This being so, the court cannot say that those persons are mentally unsound." In this case it was held that a belief in Christian Science founded on one's religious conviction was not inconsistent with testamentary capacity.

8. 2a In construing Rev. Stat. U. S., § 4956, providing for copyright of a chromo, etc., the court said: "It is apparent from the context that Congress used the word chromo with its dictionary meaning, viz., an abbreviation of 'chromo-lithograph,' and that it understood the word 'lithograph' to cover a print 'made from a drawing or drawings on stones.'" Hills v. Austrich, 120 Fed. Rep. 863.

3. Instructions—Synonymous with Persistent.—In an instruction regarding a question in an application for life insurance chronic may properly be used as synonymous with persistent. Blumenthal v. Berkshire L. Ins. Co., 134 Mich. 216.

9. 1. Society.—In re Perry Almshouses, (1899) 1 Ch. 21; Josey v. Union L. & T. Co., 106 Ga. 608, holding that a church is a society

Unfermented Cider.—With reference to sales, the word cider, as used in Stat. Vt., § 4463, which prohibits the sale of cider in a place of public resort or to an habitual drunkard, and otherwise permits it, means unfermented cider. State v. Waite, 72 Vt. 108; State v. Thornburn, 75 Vt. 18.

11. 3. Telegram.—In Beatty Lumber Co. v. Western Union Tel. Co., 52 W. Va. 413, the court said: "The law is, by the great weight of authority, that an enigmatical message, commonly called a cipher message, or one which, though not such a message, is yet one so obscure that it is not intelligible to the telegraphic operator, does not render the company liable, in case of omission of the company to send or deliver, for full compensatory damages, but only for a nominal damage, that is, the amount paid by the sender." - "This Section Has No Application to a Tribe of Indians, but is intended to cover the case of the individual Indian who has taken up his residence separate and apart from his tribe, and has adopted the habits of civilized life." U. S. v. Boyd, (C. C. A.) 83 Fed. Rep. 547.
- 19. 5. See Mayer v. U. S., 38 Ct. Cl. 553.
- 20. 1. An Alien Indian cannot become a citizen by naturalization. In re Burton, 1 Alaska 111.
- Ignorance of the Laws and Constitution of the United States is no bar to the naturalization of an alien otherwise qualified. Ex p. Johnson, 79 Miss. 637, 89 Am. St. Rep. 665.
- 2. Aliens Discharged from Military Service. — In Strickley v. Hill, 22 Utah 257, 83 Am. St. Rep. 786, the court said: "The fact that Jackson served in the army of his country, and was honorably discharged therefrom, has a strong bearing tending to show a declaration of intention to become a citizen, as well as a strong circumstance tending to show naturalization, and in connection with other facts and circumstances, may be sufficient to establish the fact itself."
- 3. Evidence of Intention for Two Years next preceding the time of admission to become a citizen of the United States must be produced in addition to the oath of the applicant; and the vague oral statement of a single witness is not sufficient. In re Fronascone, 99 Fed. Rep. 48.
- 8. Mongolian Not a "White Person." — Matter of Takuji Yomashita, 30 Wash. 234, 94 Am. St. Rep. 860, wherein it was held that a Japanese could not be naturalized. See also JAPANESE, 579. 2.
- 21. 3. What Are Courts of Common-law Jurisdiction. — Within the meaning of Rev. Stat. U. S., § 2165, courts having authority to punish offenses, enforce rights, and redress wrongs at common law are the courts that have jurisdiction, as opposed to courts of equity, admiralty, and those having jurisdiction over matters not of a common-law nature. Levin v. U. S., (C. C. A.) 128 Fed. Rep. 826.
- 4. General Common-law Jurisdiction Not Necessary. — Levin v. U. S., (C. C. A.) 128 Fed. Rep. 826.
- The South Carolina Supreme Court has no original jurisdiction on naturalization proceedings. Ex p. McKenzie, 51 S. Car. 244.

(3) Collective Naturalization. — See note 8.

In Louisiana a Criminal District Court has no jurisdiction over naturalization proceedings although in a sense a court of common-law jurisdiction. State v. Baker, 51 La. Ann. 1243.

The Court of Appeals of St. Louis has power to admit qualified aliens to citizenship under Rev. Stat. Mo. (1899), § 465. Levin v. U. S., (C. C. A.) 128 Fed. Rep. 826.

22. 5. Effect of Declaration. — The declaration itself does not make the declarant a citizen. Creagh v. Equitable L. Assur. Soc., 88 Fed. Rep. 1; Dorsey v. Brigham, 177 Ill. 250, 69 Am. St. Rep. 228. See also Haywood v. Marshall, 53 Neb. 220.

23. 7. Who May Appear as "Voucher." — It is customary to prove the essential facts by a single witness called a "voucher;" but a voucher who makes a practice of appearing in such cases and testifying for compensation will not be sufficient. In re Lipshitz, 97 Fed. Rep. 584.

24. 1. Courts Act Judicially in Naturalizing. — Pintsch Compressing Co. v. Bergin, 84 Fed. Rep. 140.

3. Judgment of Naturalization Not Collaterally Inpeachable. — Pintsch Compressing Co. v. Bergin, 84 Fed. Rep. 140.

Record Invalid on Face. — Matter of Takuji Yamashita, 30 Wash. 234, 94 Am. St. Rep. 860, where a judgment of naturalization void on its face was held to be assailable in a proceeding by the alien to obtain admission to the bar.

25. 1. See U. S. v. Kornmehl, 89 Fed. Rep. 10, wherein letters of naturalization were revoked for fraud in their procurement.

Who May Have Judgment Annulled. — No one but the United States or a person acting under authorization of the United States can proceed for the rescission of a judgment of naturalization. Pintsch Compressing Co. v. Bergin, 84 Fed. Rep. 140. An individual cannot, as such, proceed for the annulment of the naturalization papers. McCarran v. Cooper, 16 N. Y. App. Div. 311, affirming 162 N. Y. 654.

3. Alienage Presumed to Continue. — See Richardson v. Amsdon, (Supm. Ct. Spec. T.) 85 N. Y. Supp. 342, wherein it was held that the assumption of rights which no one but a citizen can exercise did not prove naturalization.

5. Harmless Error in Admitting Parol Evidence. — See Dorsey v. Brigham, 177 Ill. 250, 69 Am. St. Rep. 228.

26. 1. Where Records Are Destroyed or Cannot Be Produced. — Strickley v. Hill, 22 Utah 257, 83 Am. St. Rep. 786, citing 6 AM. AND ENG. ENCYC. OF LAW (2d ed.) 26.

27. 1. Conspiracy to Procure Fraudulent Naturalization. — See U. S. v. Malfi, 118 Fed. Rep. 899.

3. Offense Misdemeanor and Not Felony. — Berkowitz v. U. S., (C. C. A.) 93 Fed. Rep. 452; U. S. v. York, 131 Fed. Rep. 323.

8. Admission of Territory as State. — An alien who declared before a court of record in Nebraska Territory his intention of becoming a citizen was created a citizen by the enabling acts on the admission of Nebraska as a state. Bahuauud v. Bize, 105 Fed. Rep. 485.

An alien who settled in Colorado at the age of thirteen years and one year before it became a state, and who exercised the right of citizenship there, was held not to have been made a citizen by the admission of Colorado into the Union. Mayer v. U. S., 38 Ct. Cl. 553.

The Treaty with Spain by Which Florida Was Ceded to the United States. — The treaties of the United States with France in 1803, and Spain in 1819, did not affect the citizenship of residents in the acquired territory, and a child born in 1809, in New Mexico, was a Spanish subject until after the year provided by the treaty of Guadalupe Hidalgo. De Baca v. U. S., 37 Ct. Cl. 482.

By the Annexation of Texas. — By the constitution of Texas "all persons (Africans, the descendants of Africans, and Indians excepted) who were residing in Texas on the day of the declaration of independence shall be considered citizens of the republic." The date of the declaration was March 2, 1836. It was held that an alien who became a resident in 1845, just prior to the annexation to the United States, did not become thereunder a citizen of the United States. Coutzen v. U. S., 33 Ct. Cl. 475, affirmed 179 U. S. 191.

Inhabitants of Territory Acquired by United States. — Sessions to the United States do not entail that the inhabitants shall become citizens. Such a result would have to be from express or implied provisions of the treaty. Goetze v. U. S., 103 Fed. Rep. 72, reversed 182 U. S. 221.

The treaty with Mexico, May 30, 1848, by which the United States acquired New Mexico, provided that "those who shall prefer to remain in the said territories may either retain the title and rights of Mexican citizens, or acquire those of citizens of the United States, but they shall be under obligation to make their election within one year from the date of the exchange of ratifications of this treaty; and those who shall remain in the said territories after the expiration of that year without having declared their intention to retain the character of Mexicans shall be considered to have elected to become citizens of the United States." Vallejos v. U. S., 35 Ct. Cl. 489, wherein this treaty was construed as conferring no rights until the year was up.

28. 1. The Infant Children of Aliens. — Rexroth v. Schein, 206 Ill. 80.

Children of Naturalized Aliens become citizens if minors at the time of the father's naturalization, but not if of age at that time. Dorsey v. Brigham, 177 Ill. 250, 69 Am. St. Rep. 228.

29. 2. Dorsey v. Brigham, 177 Ill. 250, 69 Am. St. Rep. 228, wherein it was held that this was a "uniform rule of naturalization," notwithstanding provision was also made for naturalization of aliens, both male and female, by a judicial proceeding.

A Woman of African Blood is within the meaning of the statute, since the Act of July 14, 1870, § 16, U. S. Stat. at L. 256. Broadis v. Broadis, 86 Fed. Rep. 951.

A Woman Held under the Immigration Laws who marries a citizen pending proceedings becomes a citizen and is entitled to release. Hopkins v. Fachant, (C. C. A.) 130 Fed. Rep. 839.

Where Marriage Illegal. — In U. S. v. Rodgers, 109 Fed. Rep. 886, it was held that a naturalized citizen of the United States who married his niece in Russia, thereby conferred no citizenship on her, for the marriage, though valid there, was invalid in the United States, and would subject the parties to indictment.

31. 2. Adoption of a Citizen by an Indian Tribe does not deprive him of his citizenship. French v. French, (Tenn. Ch. 1898) 52 S. W. Rep. 517.

4. American Woman Losing Citizenship by Marriage. — See Jennes v. Landes, 84 Fed. Rep. 73, 85 Fed. Rep. 801 (assent of United States unnecessary); Ruckgaber v. Moore, 104

Fed. Rep. 947, affirmed 114 Fed. Rep. 1020, 52 C. C. A. 587.

32. 3. Pacific Mut. L. Ins. Co. v. Tompkins, (C. C. A.) 101 Fed. Rep. 543, quoting 6 AM. AND ENG. ENCYC. OF LAW (2d ed.) 32, and supporting the whole text paragraph.

3*a.* Citron Is Fruit within the Custom Duties Act. U. S. v. Nordlinger, (C. C. A.) 121 Fed. Rep. 690. The court in this case said: "Citron is the fruit of the citrus or citron tree. In its present condition no one contends that it is green or ripe, no one disputes that it is dried. It belongs, then, to the family of fruits, and falls within the great group of that family designated as 'dried fruits.' In common speech, and by the language of trade and commerce, as this record shows, it is a dried fruit."

4. Other Definitions of City. — City may be defined as an incorporated town. Borders v. State, (Tex. Crim. 1902) 66 S. W. Rep. 1103, citing 6 AM. AND ENG. ENCYC. OF LAW (2d ed.) 32. See definitions from various dictionaries in Wight, etc., Co. v. Wolff, 112 Ga. 169.

In Brooks v. Wichita, (C. C. A.) 114 Fed. Rep. 298, the court said: "A city is a public corporation designed for local government. It is an agency of the state to assist in the civil government of the territory and people of the state embraced within its limits."

A city is a political subdivision of the state and is included in the term "state" which is the concrete whole. State v. Levy Ct., 1 Penn. (Del.) 597.

City Purposes. — The acquirement of land for a park by the city authorities is a city purpose. Lexington v. Kentucky Chautauqua Assembly, 114 Ky. 781.

Town Construed to Include City. — Klauber v. Higgins, 117 Cal. 451.

Cities Held to Include Towns. — Heard v. State, 113 Ga. 444. Compare Wright, etc., Co. v. Wolff, 112 Ga. 169.

37. 11. Liberal Construction to Effectuate Their Purpose. — See Gardner v. Day, 95 Me. 558.

In Illinois it is now held that the statute must be strictly construed. Schulte v. Menke, 111 Ill. App. 212, affirmed 210 Ill. 357; Schulte v. Schleeper, 210 Ill. 357; McLees v. Niles, 93 Ill. App. 442; Walker v. Dailey, 101 Ill. App. 575.

38. 1. Sales to Habitual Drunkards. — No notice is required in Texas where the sale is made to a habitual drunkard. Tarkington v. Brunett, (Tex. Civ. App. 1899) 51 S. W. Rep. 274.

39. 1. Subsequent Removal. — Where the notice has once been served it is sufficient, and the subsequent removal of the place of business to other premises will not require the giving of an additional notice. Rintleman v. Hahn, 20 Tex. Civ. App. 244.

2. Iowa. — Acts 25th Gen. Assem., c. 62, known as the "Mulct Law," is not a defense to an action for damages under section 1557 of the code. Carrier v. Bernstein, 104 Iowa 572. And since the adoption of the new code the seller who relies on compliance with that statute as a defense has the burden of alleging and proving full and complete compliance with the conditions imposed therein. League v. Ehmke, 120 Iowa 464.

43. 1. In Absence of Restrictive Words, Lawful Sales Included. — See Carrier v. Bernstein, 104 Iowa 572.

3. Intoxication Essential to Recovery of Damages. — See Carrier v. Bernstein, 104 Iowa 572.

5. Illinois. — Where the ground for recovery relied upon is the sale of liquor which has caused habitual drunkenness, the proofs should be such that the jury can say that the person charged has sold a sufficient number of times to aid materially in bringing about the state of habitual drunkenness. Siegle v. Rush, 173 Ill. 559.

Iowa. — Any one causing or contributing to the continuance of a state of habitual intoxication is liable so far as his acts contributed to the injury. League v. Ehmke, 120 Iowa 464.

Nebraska. — A wife is entitled to recover, not because her husband is a drunkard, but because the defendant has made him one. And one who has converted another into a habitual drunkard is responsible for all the financial losses due to his act, including those caused by the subsequent thriftless and dissipated career of his victim, directly resulting therefrom. Stahnka v. Kreitle, 66 Neb. 829.

South Dakota. — A saloon keeper is at his peril bound to ascertain and to know that the person to whom he sells intoxicating liquors is not a minor, is not intoxicated, and is not in the habit of getting intoxicated; and as to such persons no notice is required forbidding him to make such sales. Sandige v. Widmann, 12 S. Dak. 101.

44. 1. All Persons Contributing to the Intoxication Liable. — League v. Ehmke, 120 Iowa 464; Faivre v. Mandercheid, 117 Iowa 724; Horst v. Lewis, (Neb. 1904) 98 N. W. Rep. 1046; Johnson v. Carlson, (Neb. 1901) 95 N. W. Rep. 788; Gorey v. Kelly, 64 Neb. 605; Stahnka v. Kreitle, 66 Neb. 829; Kolling v. Bennett, 10 Ohio Cir. Dec. 81, 18 Ohio Cir. Ct. 425. See also *McNary v. 4. Only One Satisfaction Allowed. — Stanley v. Leahy, 87 Ill. App. 465.

46. 1. Proximate Cause. — Schulte v. Menke, 111 Ill. App. 212, affirmed 210 Ill. 357; McNary v. Blackburn, 180 Mass. 141; Roach v. Kelly, 194 Pa. St. 24, 75 Am. St. Rep. 685.

It is not necessary that the wrongdoer should be able to anticipate the particular injury. Laffer v. Fisher, 121 Mich. 60.

Death from Injuries Sustained by Falling. — In Johnson v. Gram, 72 Ill. App. 676, the death of a person from a fall from his wagon while the horses were crossing a railroad track in front of an approaching train was held to be proximately caused by his being placed in his wagon while too intoxicated to control the horses.

Intoxicated Person Killed for Using Abusive Language. — Sauter v. Anderson, 112 Ill. App. 580.

It Is a Question for the Jury. — Jarozewski v. Allen, 117 Iowa 632.

Where an issue is formed and trial is had by a jury, and there is any evidence tending to show that the wrong complained of was the proximate cause of the injury, the question is for the jury; but where the question is presented by demurrer to the declaration, it is one of law. Schulte v. Schleeper, 210 Ill. 357.

Death from Pneumonia Contracted While Intoxicated. — In Indiana a wife may recover for injury to her means of support, resulting from the death of her husband from pneumonia which he contracted from exposing himself to the elements while under the influence of liquor sold to him by the defendant. Nelson v. State, 32 Ind. App. 88.

Money Stolen. — The sale of liquor producing intoxication is not the proximate cause of a loss of money through a theft by a third person while the vendee of the liquor was intoxicated. Gage v. Harvey, 66 Ark. 68, 74 Am. St. Rep. 70.

47. 1. In Nebraska. — Schiek v. Sanders, 53 Neb. 664.

The liquor furnished by the defendant need not be the sole, or even the principal, cause of the injury. McClellan v. Hein, 56 Neb. 600.

Injury to Means of Support. — Homire v. Halfman, 156 Ind. 470, following McCarty v. Wells, 51 Hun (N. Y.) 171, stated in the original note.

2. Assault by Intoxicated Person. — Munz v. People, 90 Ill. App. 647. See also Baker v. Summers, 103 Ill. App. 237, reversed 201 Ill. 52.

48. 1. Crimes Committed by Intoxicated Person — Imprisonment or Execution. — The rule of the text obtains in Illinois and Indiana. Lofthus v. Hamilton, 105 Ill. App. 72; Homire v. Halfman, 156 Ind. 470, following Beers v. Walhizer, 43 Hun (N. Y.) 254, cited in the original note.

5. Sales by Agent. — Walker v. Dailey, 101 Ill. App. 575; Shull v. Arie, 113 Iowa 170; Manning v. Morris, 28 Tex. Civ. App. 502.

A Brewing Company which undertakes to obtain a license for the saloon keeper, rents the premises for him, and furnishes the liquor to be sold there becomes a party to illegal sales of liquor made there, and is liable to one injured in her means of support by reason of such illegal sales. Terre Haute Brewing Co. v. Newland, 33 Ind. App. 544.

50. 4. The Surety's Liability Is Coextensive with That of the Principal. — Breeding v. Jordan, 115 Iowa 566; Horst v. Lewis, (Neb. 1904) 98 N. W. Rep. 1046; Manning v. Morris, 28 Tex. Civ. App. 502.

In Iowa it is unnecessary to make the principal a party or to obtain judgment against him before proceeding against the surety. Knott v. Peterson, 125 Iowa 404.

52. 2. The Massachusetts Statute applies to a case of partial dependence and gives a remedy to parents injured in their actual means of support by the loss of help from a child, without regard to their having a legal right to the help. McNary v. Blackburn, 180 Mass. 141.

5. Not Limited to Bare Necessaries — Independent Means of Support. — See Maloney v. Dailey, 67 Ill. App. 427.

53. 1. Medical Attendance for Injuries. — Money necessarily expended by the wife for medicine and medical attendance on account of injuries sustained by her husband while intoxicated is an injury to her means of support. Coleman v. People, 78 Ill. App. 210.

Money Paid for Cure. — That the husband left his rent unpaid and borrowed money to be cured of the liquor habit directly tends to show an injury to the wife's means of support. Maloney v. Dailey, 67 Ill. App. 427.

But in South Dakota there can be no recovery unless the sale was made under a license, the statute not providing for sales made by unlicensed dealers. Paulson v. Langness, 16 S. Dak. 471.

55. 1. Intoxicated Person Injured by Criminal Act of Another. — There is no responsibility to a person providing for the care of an intoxicated person who has been injured by the criminal act of a third party. Schulte v. Menke, 111 Ill. App. 212, affirmed 210 Ill. 357.

Party Injured by Intoxicated Person. — Under this provision of the statutes no recovery can be had for care given to one who has received an injury at the hands of an intoxicated person. Schulte v. Schleeper, 210 Ill. 357.

A Wife can recover for care of her husband while intoxicated. McVey v. Williams, 91 Ill. App. 144.

Dependent for Support. — A recovery under such provision may be had by others than those dependent upon the intoxicated person for support. Coleman v. People, 78 Ill. App. 210.

56. 1. Where the Statute Names the Class of Persons to whom the right of action is given such right must be limited to the beneficiaries so named. Couchman v. Prather, (Ind. App. 1903) 68 N. E. Rep. 599.

2. An Illegitimate Child may sue one furnishing intoxicants to her father whereby she was injured in her means of support. Goulding v. Phillips, 124 Iowa 496.

A Wife may sue without joining her husband and without his consent, where the act complained of was a sale to the husband. Wright v. Tipton, 92 Tex. 168.

After Divorce. — A wife, even after obtaining a divorce from her husband, such action being rendered necessary by the acts of the defendants, may maintain a suit to recover damages resulting from the illegal sale of liquor to her former husband. Nordin v. Kjos, 13 S. Dak. 497.

57. 1. Relatives — Husband's Right of Action. — In Kansas a husband may recover damages on account of injuries to him in his person, property, and means of support in consequence of his wife falling into a condition of habitual drunkenness from liquors sold to her. Landrum v. Flannigan, 60 Kan. 436.

In Texas it is not necessary that the party suing for the sum provided for by statute as liquidated damages for a breach of a liquor dealer's bond show that he was actually aggrieved by the breach. Kruger v. Bank, 95 Va. 480, holding that at common law a person convicted of felony, though disabled from suing, did not possess immunity from suit; and so a citizen of Virginia, serving a term of penal servitude in the penitentiary of another state, under a judgment of a federal court in that state, might be sued in the courts of that state.

6. Coffee v. Haynes, 124 Cal. 561, 71 Am. St. Rep. 99, citing 6 AM. AND ENG. ENCYC. OF LAW (2d ed.) 65; Gray v. Gray, 104 Mo. App. 520; Guarantee Co. of North America v. Lynchburg First Nat. Bank, 95 Va. 480.

4. California. — "The right of inheritance is a civil right existing only by virtue of the law, and the legislature may make the deprivation of this right a portion of the penalty to be imposed for the commission of a crime. The provisions of sections 675 and 676 of the Penal Code, instead of impairing this construction given to section 674, strengthen it by showing that but for these provisions, in the opinion of the legislature, the civil death of the felon would extend to the cases therein named; and the enumeration of the cases wherein section 674 is inoperative authorizes the conclusion that those are the only cases in which it is not to be applied." Matter of Donnelly, 125 Cal. 417, 73 Am. St. Rep. 62.

In Coffee v. Haynes, 124 Cal. 561, 71 Am. St. Rep. 99, the court criticised as obiter the declarations in Matter of Nerac, 35 Cal. 396, 95 Am. Dec. 111, set out in the original note, as to the consequences following a life sentence, and held that a money judgment against a life convict, entered after his conviction, could be enforced against his estate by garnishment process. The court said: "Our statute now makes the life convict a competent witness in criminal actions and capable 'of making and acknowledging a sale or conveyance of property.' * * * If he may sell his property we can see no reason why his property may not be taken to pay his debts."

Missouri. — In Gray v. Gray, 104 Mo. App. 520, it was held that "the civil death which attaches to a person as an incident of his conviction of an infamous crime destroys his right to sue or to make executory contracts, but not the right of others to prosecute suits against him,"

66. [The statutory provisions in Kansas and their effect are discussed in the note 4a.]

67. Civil Death by Sentence Held Not to Exist. — See note 1.

66. 4a. The Kansas Statute providing that "whenever any person shall be imprisoned under a sentence of imprisonment for life, his estate, property and effects shall be administered and disposed of in all respects as if he were naturally dead" (Code Crim. Pro. Kan., § 337) does not apply to a sentence of death to be inflicted at a time appointed by the governor after the expiration of a year from the time of conviction, and the convict is not thereby, during the time of his detention in the penitentiary, rendered incapable of managing his own estate. Gray v. Stewart, (Kan. 1904) 78 Pac. Rep. 852, overruling Ashmore v. McDonnell, (Kan. 1888)

16 Pac. Rep. 687. Nor does this statute cast the descent of the convict's property on his heirs by the fact of sentence and imprisonment. Smith v. Becker, 62 Kan. 541.

The statute providing that "a sentence of confinement and hard labor for a term less than life suspends all civil rights of the person so sentenced during the term thereof" (Gen. Stat. Kan. 1899, § 2254) is not applicable to convicts sentenced to the state industrial reformatory. Sample v. Horner, 61 Kan. 738.

In Juniata Limestone Co. v. Fagley, 187 Pa. St. 196, 67 Am. St. Rep. 579, the court said: "The equal protection of the laws declared by the Fourteenth Amendment to the constitution secures to each person within the jurisdiction of a state exemption from any burdens or charges other than such as are equally laid upon all others under like circumstances."

78. 4. Exemptions from Unequal Burdens and Charges. — Templar v. State Board of Examiners, 131 Mich. 254, 100 Am. St. Rep. 610.

As to Equality of Taxation. — The provision in the Fourteenth Amendment that no state shall deny to any person within its jurisdiction the equal protection of the laws was not intended to prevent a state from adjusting its system of taxation in all proper and reasonable ways. It may, if it chooses, exempt certain classes of property from any taxation at all, may impose different specific taxes upon different trades and professions, and may vary the rates of excise upon various products. All such regulations, and those of like character, so long as they proceed within reasonable limits and general usage, are within the discretion of the state legislature, or the people of the state in framing their constitution. But clear and hostile discriminations against particular persons and classes, especially such as are of an unusual character, unknown to the practice of our governments, might be obnoxious to the constitutional prohibition. Florida Cent., etc., R. Co. v. Reynolds, 183 U. S. 471; Knisely v. Cotterel, 196 Pa. St. 614.

Different Courts. — In Cincinnati St. R. Co. v. Snell, 193 U. S. 37, the court said: "The mere direction of the state law that a cause under given circumstances shall be tried in one forum instead of another, or may be transferred when brought from one forum to another, can have no tendency to violate the guaranty of the equal protection of the laws where in both the forums equality of law governs and equality of administration prevails."

A Political Subdivision May Be Clothed with Power of Taxation for certain specified purposes and within certain specified limits, without impairing the Fourteenth Amendment. Martin v. School Dist., 57 S. Car. 125; McPherson v. McCarrick, 22 Utah 232.

It is plain that the legislature did not intend to confer upon every person all the rights, advantages, and privileges in places of amusement or accommodation which might be enjoyed by another. Any discrimination not based upon race, creed, or color does not fall within the condemnation of the statute."

CIVIL SERVICE.

88. I. DEFINITION— Civil Service. — See note 1.

Civil Service Statutes. — See note 3.

89. II. STATUTORY PROVISIONS— The Civil Service Act. — See note 3.90. In England. — See note 3.91. III. CONSTITUTIONALITY OF STATUTES— Legislature May Create Civil Service Commission with Power to Make Rules. — See note 1.

Requirement that Candidate Shall Show Fitness. — See note 4.

IV. APPLICATIONS AND APPOINTMENTS— 1. General Principles — Applications for Appointment. — See note 7.

88. 1. "Civil service," in its enlarged sense, means all service rendered to and paid for by the state or nation or by political subdivisions thereof, other than that pertaining to naval or military affairs. "Civil service reform" is defined by the lexicographers to be the substitution of business principles and methods for the spoils system in the conduct of the civil service, especially in the matter of appointments. Per Blanchard, J., in Hope v. New Orleans, 106 La. 345.

3. Civil Service Act, Its Purpose and Necessity.— See People v. Mosher, 45 N. Y. App. Div. 68.

89. 3. Constitutionality of Statutes.—"Chapter 370 of the Laws of 1899, and the rules passed in pursuance thereof, are, in so far as they compel the appointment of the person graded highest on the eligible list, in direct conflict with, and a nullification of, the power of appointment conferred by section 2 of article 10, and fail to give such section any substantial effect, and such portion of the statute and rules are not necessary to carry into effect either the letter or spirit of section 9 of article 5, nor to enforce the principle involved in such section, and are to that extent unconstitutional and void." People v. Mosher, 45 N. Y. App. Div. 68, affirmed 163 N. Y. 32, 79 Am. St. Rep. 552.

90. 3. Present English System.— See People v. Mosher, 45 N. Y. App. Div. 68.

England—New South Wales—Crown May Abolish Office.— In Young v. Waller, (1898) A. C. 661, the court said: "Now, although it was decided by this board in Gould v. Stuart, (1896) A. C. 575, that the effect of the Civil Service Act, 1884, was to deprive the crown of its right to dismiss its civil servants summarily, without following the procedure prescribed by the act, it was certainly not suggested that the provisions of the act do, either directly or by implication, take away the right of the crown to abolish a civil office."

Canada.— The provision in the 12th section of the Civil Service Amendment Act, 1888 (51 Vict., c. 12), that "no extra salary or additional remuneration of any kind whatsoever shall be paid to any deputy head, officer, or employee in the civil service of Canada, or to any other person permanently employed in the public service," does not prevent Parliament at any time from voting any extra salary or remuneration; and where such an appropriation is made for such salary or remuneration, and the same is paid over to any officer, the crown cannot recover it back. Hargrave v. Rex, 8 Can. Exch. 62.

91. 1. Hope v. New Orleans, 106 La. 345.

4. People v. Loeffler, 175 Ill. 585.

7. People v. Loeffler, 175 Ill. 607, citing 6 AM. AND ENG. ENCYC. OF LAW (2d ed.) 90-92, and cases. In this case the court said;

- 93. 2. Preference to Veterans. — See note 1.
- 94. Appointment of Veterans — Examinations. — See note 1.

"Wherever civil service acts are in force, they provide for applications to be made by those seeking employment in the public service, and no question has ever been made that such acts violate any constitutional provision by reason of this feature." And see Kiple v. Luthardt, 178 Ill. 525; People v. Follett, (Supm. Ct. Spec. T.) 24 Misc. (N. Y.) 510.

The Terms "Merit" and "Fitness" in the Civil Service Act Distinguished. — People v. Knauber, (Supm. Ct. Spec. T.) 27 Misc. (N. Y.) 253, 43 N. Y. App. Div. 342, affirmed 163 N. Y. 23.

Necessity for Competitive Examination — Question of Law. — Whether it is practicable in a given case to determine the merit and fitness of an applicant by competitive examination where the nature of the duties to be performed is apparent is a question of law to be decided by the court. People v. Knox, 45 N. Y. App. Div. 518. In this case it was held that the fitness of an applicant for the position of a police clerk's assistant may properly be determined by competitive examination.

Conclusiveness of Certificate of Fitness by "Civil Service Commission." — People v. Stratton, 79 N. Y. App. Div. 149, affirmed 174 N. Y. 531.

Head of Department Not in Classified Service. — A commissioner of public works who is the president of the board and the head of a department of the city government is not in the classified service, and on charges against the board, and the members thereof, the civil service commission has no jurisdiction to investigate his conduct as commissioner. Lindblom v. Doherty, 102 Ill. App. 14.

No Presumption as to Jurisdiction of Civil Service Commission. — Since the civil service commission is a subordinate tribunal of limited jurisdiction, its jurisdiction must affirmatively appear on the face of the proceedings, and no presumption will be indulged in favor of it, as in the case of a court of general jurisdiction. Lindblom v. Doherty, 102 Ill. App. 14.

Functions of Civil Service Commission. — The civil service commission cannot remove. Its function is limited to the investigation of the preferred charges, and certifying the result to the appointing officer. By section 12 it is made the duty of the appointing officer to remove, in case the charges shall be found by the commission to be true and sufficient to warrant discharge. Lindblom v. Doherty, 102 Ill. App. 14.

Necessity of Written Charges. — In order to warrant an investigation of an officer's conduct as superintendent of streets, it was necessary, in view of the provisions of the civil service act and rule 8 of the commission, that "written charges" should have been preferred against him, as such superintendent, by his appointing officer, the commissioner of public works, specifying grounds for his removal, in such manner as to apprise him of what he was called on to defend against. Lindblom v. Doherty, 102 Ill. App. 14.

Classification of Employees. — A flume tender, whose duty is the custody and care of the flume of a city water works system, and whose employment is of a permanent character, is properly classified under civil service regulations in the official service instead of the labor service, when, under such regulations, official service comprises positions of a permanent character, and labor service those of a temporary character. State v. Smith, 19 Wash. 644.

93. 1. The United States Statutes Provide. — In Keim v. U. S., 177 U. S. 290, the court, in construing these statutes, said: "But these sections do not contemplate the retention in office of a clerk who is inefficient, nor attempt to transfer the power of determining the question of efficiency from the heads of departments to the courts. The proviso in section 3 of the Act of August 15, 1876, 19 Stat. 169, c. 287, expressly limits the preference to those 'equally qualified.' * * * Nowhere in these statutory provisions is there anything to indicate that the duty of passing, in the first instance, upon the qualifications of the applicants, or later, upon the competency or efficiency of those who have been tested in the service, was taken away from the administrative officers and transferred to the courts."

Statutes Held Constitutional. — Goodrich v. Mitchell, 68 Kan. 771 104 Am. St. Rep. 429, citing 6 AM. AND ENG. ENCYC. OF LAW (2d ed.) 93. See also People v. Grout, (Supm. Ct. Spec. T.) 44 Misc. (N. Y.) 526.

Statutes Held Unconstitutional. — Hardy v. Orange, 61 N. J. L. 620; Com. v. Rutherford, 22 Pa. Co. Ct. 425, 7 Northam. Co. Rep. (Pa.) 26.

Waiver by Beneficiaries. — The statutes of New Jersey, commonly known as the "Veteran Acts," were passed solely for the benefit of the class of persons named therein, and their provisions may be waived by the beneficiaries thereof. Hardy v. Orange, 61 N. J. L. 620.

Reduction in Grade. — In Black v. Board of Education, (County Ct.) 92 N. Y. Supp. 118, the court said: "Nothing in the veterans' laws prevents a reduction which is reasonable, and not amounting to a removal or forcing of a resignation."

Damages for Land — Jury. — In Kennebec Water Dist. v. Waterville, 96 Me. 234, the court said: "A proceeding for assessing the amount of just compensation for private property taken for public uses is not a civil suit. It is a special proceeding, provided and authorized by the sovereign power by whose authority the property is taken, to determine a specific fact."

Bastardy. — Coney v. Holland, 175 Mass. 469; In re Walker, 61 Neb. 803; State v. Liles, 134 N. Car. 735; Matter of Comstock, 10 Okla. 299.

Rochester*, 97 N. Y. App. Div. 480.

Claim Against County. — The application of an agricultural society for assistance from the county funds is a claim, and an appeal from its allowance, by a taxpayer, will lie to re-examine the facts as to the organization and competency of the society. No re-examination as to the public interest in assisting such a society is permissible. Sheldon v. Gage County Agriculture Soc., (Neb. 1904) 98 N. W. Rep. 1045.

Claims Against State. — Stat. Wis., § 3200, (1878), providing that "it shall be competent for any person deeming himself aggrieved by the refusal of the legislature to allow any just claim against the state, to commence an action against the state, by filing a complaint" with the clerk of the Supreme Court, etc., relates only to claims which, if allowed, render the state a debtor to the claimant, and does not include a demand based upon unlawful and tortious acts of officers and agents of the state. Houston v. State, 98 Wis. 481.

Synonymous with Cause of Action. — Ellis v. Flaherty, 65 Kan. 621; Northwestern, etc., Hypotheek Bank v. State, 18 Wash. 73; Billings v. State, 27 Wash. 288; Barto v. Stewart, 21 Wash. 605. Compare Marco v. Bird, (N. Y. City Ct. Gen. T.) 24 Misc. (N. Y.) 377.

Claim Not Synonymous with Judgment. — See Marshall-Wells Hardware Co. v. New Era Coal Co., (N. Dak. 1904) 100 N. W. Rep. 1084.

Claim for Compensation — Workmen's Compensation Act. — By section 2, sub-section 1, of the Workmen's Compensation Act of 1897, proceedings for the recovery, under the Act, of compensation for an injury shall not be maintainable unless notice of the accident has been given as soon as practicable, and unless "the claim for compensation with respect to such accident has been made within six months from the occurrence of the accident causing the injury." "The claim for compensation" means, not the initiation of proceedings before the tribunal by which the compensation is to be assessed, but a notice of a claim for compensation sent to a workman's employer. Powell v. Main Colliery Co., (1900) A. C. 366.

108. 3. Class of Creditors — Bankruptcy Act. — See Swarts v. St. Louis Fourth Nat. Bank, (C. C. A.) 117 Fed. Rep. 1. And see the title INSOLVENCY AND BANKRUPTCY.

109. 1a. Clean Busheling Scrap. — In Lichtenstein v. Rabolinsky, 98 N. Y. App. Div. 520, the court said: "The term clean may be applied to a great variety of merchandise, and its scope and meaning are within the comprehension of any one. Clean busheling scrap, like clean oats, or clean flour, or clean seed grain, needs no expert to define it. The term does not relate to the particular grade, but to the quality of the article sold considered in its entirety."

3. Clear Proceeds in the Sense of Net Proceeds. — See Board of Education v. Henderson, 126 N. Car. 689.

In Defining Proof — Clearness and Certainty. — In Reynolds v. Blaisdell, 23 R. I. 19, quoting 15 AM. AND ENG. ENCYC. OF LAW (2d ed.) 1174, the court said: "It has been held that by the terms 'clearness and certainty,' as applied to the degree of proof required, was meant generally that there must be sufficient positive facts proved to take the matter out of the realm of conjecture and presumption." And see Marshall v. Fleming, 11 Colo. App. 515.

Clear Value — Collateral Inheritance Tax. — The collateral inheritance and succession tax is assessable only on the clear value of the estate, which is the net value after the payment of all debts and expenses of administration. Shelton v. Campbell, 109 Tenn. 690.

112. 1a. Clearance Card — Railroads. — In McDonald v. Illinois Cent. R. Co., 187 Ill. 529, the court said: "From the evidence produced on this question, and from this judicial notice which we take of the ordinary general management of railroads, it is apparent that what is known as a clearance card is simply a letter, — be it good, bad, or indifferent, — given to an employee at the time of his discharge or end of service, showing the cause of such discharge or voluntary quittance, the length of time of service, his capacity, and such other facts as would give to those concerned information of his former employment. Such a card is in no sense a letter of recommendation, and in many cases might, and probably would, be of a form and character which the holder would hesitate and decline to present to any person to whom he was making application for employment." Bond of Clerk Liable for Money that Comes into His Hands as an Insurer. — It does not matter that a clerk exercises good faith; his sureties are liable as insurers for money that comes into his hands. Smith v. Patton, 131 N. Car. 396, 92 Am. St. Rep. 783.

Liability for Interest on Moneys Collected. — The clerk, and the sureties on his official bond, are liable for interest received by him on money collected from the state, and which he deposited in bank until the time arrived for him to pay it over. Vansant v. State, 96 Md. 110.

4. Necessity for Special Order. — See State v. Whitworth, (Tenn. Ch. 1898) 46 S. W. Rep. 454, holding that a clerk and his sureties cannot be held liable for failure to collect a note belonging to a minor or to pay taxes on her realty, where there is in existence no order or decree directing him so to do.

142. 1. Fees of His Office. — Cooper v. People, 28 Colo. 87; Com. v. Carter, (Ky. 1900) 55 S. W. Rep. 701; Vansant v. State, 96 Md. 110.

False Report as to Fees. — State v. Chick, 146 Mo. 645; State v. Gideon, 158 Mo. 327.

Where the clerk makes a false report as to the fees received, the excess is held by him to the use of the county, and may be recovered by an action on his bond, if not barred by the statute of limitation or otherwise. State v. Henderson, 142 Mo. 598.

Fees Not Collected. — It has been held that the clerk is liable on his official bond for failure to tax certain costs, whereby the county lost moneys which could have been collected. State v. Gideon, 158 Mo. 327.

v. Hobson, 5 Ohio Dec. 442, 5 Ohio N. P. 321.

Limited Power of Clerks to Receive Money on a Judgment. — The power of the clerk to receive money in satisfaction of a judgment is limited, and he cannot withhold any part of the money paid him. May v. State, 162 Ind. 127.

After judgment, a clerk of court may receive payment, even in the absence of any express statute on the subject. Commercial Invest. Co. v. Peck, 53 Neb. 204, 68 Am. St. Rep. 598.

142. 4. Money Paid into Court by Order of Court. — Dirks v. Juel, 59 Neb. 357, citing 6 AM. AND ENG. ENCYC. OF LAW (2d ed.) 142; Baltimore, etc., R. Co. v. Gaultier, 165 Ill. 233; Logan v. McCahan, 102 Iowa 241; Johnson v. Bobbitt, 81 Miss. 339; Smith v. Patton, 131 N. Car. 396, 92 Am. St. Rep. 783; State v. Hobson, 5 Ohio Dec. 442, 5 Ohio N. P. 321.

Clerk Absolutely Liable for Funds Deposited with Him in His Official Capacity. — Northern Pac. R. Co. v. Owens, 86 Minn. 188, 91 Am. St. Rep. 336.

Money Paid to Clerk in His Official Capacity May Be Recovered by Private Suitor as Well as the Government. — U. S. v. Howard, 93 Fed. Rep. 719, affirmed (C. C. A.) 102 Fed. Rep. 77, 184 U. S. 676; Smith v. Patton, 131 N. Car. 396, 92 Am. St. Rep. 783.

Depositing Trust Funds. — A clerk who, in the absence of express authority, deposits trust funds to the credit of his private account is guilty of conversion. Dirks v. Juel, 59 Neb. 353; Mitchell v. Rice, 132 Ala. 120.

Mingling Trust Funds. — Where it appears that the greater part of funds deposited by the clerk in a bank belonged to the state, and that other money might have been mingled therewith, it was held that unless the clerk proved there was no mingling he would be liable for all interest received on such sum. Vansant v. State, 96 Md. 110.

What Constitutes Payment into Court. — A payment to a clerk which he is not by law or some order of the court entitled to receive is not a payment into court, and upon his failure to account therefor no recovery can be had against the sureties on his official bond. People v. Cobb, 10 Colo. App. 478.

The Bondsmen of a Clerk Are Not Liable where he loaned one thousand dollars on a note secured by national bank stock worth three thousand three hundred dollars, and the borrower was reputed to be worth forty thousand dollars, the decree of the court having ordered the clerk to take "notes with good security, bearing interest payable quarterly." State v. Whitworth, (Tenn. Ch. 1897) 39 S. W. Rep. 745.

Note Made Payable to the Clerk of the Court in His Official Capacity. — Allen v. Perkins, (Tenn. Ch. 1897) 45 S. W. Rep. 445.

6. See McPhillips v. McGrath, 117 Ala. 549, where it is held that the sureties on the official bond are not liable for the defaults of the principal occurring prior to the execution of the bond, unless there is in existence some express or statutory provision to the contrary.

7. Acts Outside of Duties Imposed by Law. — Ramaley v. Ramaley, 69 Minn. 491; Commercial Invest. Co. v. Peck, 53 Neb. 204, 68 Am. St. Rep. 598; Texas, etc., R. Co. v. Walker, 93 Tex. 611; Whitesboro v. Diamond, (Tex. Civ. App. 1903) 75 S. W. Rep. 540.

143. 1. Moneys that Clerk Not Authorized to Receive. — People v. Cobb, 10 Colo. App. 478.

The clerk was commanded by the decree to file certain notes in his office, but collected the money due on them. It was held that the money was not received in his official capacity, and he was not liable therefor on his official bond. Bantley v. Baker, 61 Neb. 92.

The selling by the clerk at a discount of a warrant forged by him is not an act in the exercise of his official duties, and his bondsmen are not liable therefor. State v. Harrison, 99 Mo. App. 57.

Illegal Costs Collected by Clerk. — Illegal costs collected by the clerk and paid into the treasury cannot be recovered from the clerk when the payment was made by him before notice that he would be proceeded against. State v. Oden, 101 Tenn. 669.

Moneys Paid Clerk for Unofficial Acts. — The sureties are not liable for moneys paid the clerk in compensation for unofficial acts directed by the court. State v. Flynn, 161 Ind. 554.

Receiving Money in Satisfaction of Judgment. — A clerk has authority, though not authorized by statute, to receive money in satisfaction of a judgment entered in his court. Roberts v. Powell, 22 Tex. Civ. App. 211.

4. False Certificate of Acknowledgment. — Samuels v. Brand, (Ky. 1904) 82 S. W. Rep. 977.

144. 6. Johnson v. Schloesser, 146 Ind. 509, 58 Am. St. Rep. 367.

Failure to Enter an Attachment. — The clerk and his sureties are liable for his failure to enter an attachment where he is required to keep an attachment docket. Stewart v. Sholl, 99 Ga. 534.

6a. Failure to Index Judgment. — The clerk is not liable where no actual damage actually results from his failure to index a judgment. Darden v. Blount, 126 N. Car. 247.

process, something more than nominal damages must be shown in order to maintain an action against the sureties on the official bond. U. S. v. Bell, 127 Fed. Rep. 1002.

144. 8. Neglect to Issue Process. — The failure of the clerk of the court to issue process to the sheriff, on the filing of a præcipe by the moving party in an action and without demand, makes him liable for any damage sustained by the moving party. Baltimore, etc., R. Co. v. Weedon, (C. C. A.) 78 Fed. Rep. 584.

145. 1. Approval of Insufficient Appeal Bond. — Heater v. Pearce, 59 Neb. 583.

Clerk Not Insurer of Bond. — Where the clerk uses due care and reasonable discretion in approving a bond, he incurs no liability. Santee River Co. v. Webster, 23 R. I. 599.

5. Dudley v. White, 44 Fla. 269, citing 6 AM. AND ENG. ENCYC. OF LAW (2d ed.) 145.

5. Closed — Bankruptcy. — The word closed in the Bankruptcy Act of 1898, § 11, cl. d, providing that "suits shall not be brought by or against a trustee of a bankrupt estate subsequent to two years after the estate has been closed," means properly and finally closed, and if upon proceedings in the court of bankruptcy it appears that the order closing the estate was made under a mistake, and that an order should be entered reopening the estate for the purpose of having it further administered, it should be held, after the reopening, that the estate is open for the purpose of bringing suits, even though more than two years have elapsed since the entry of the original erroneous order. Bilafsky v. Abraham, 183 Mass. 401.

Close Confinement. — The words "close confinement," in chapter 99, Laws 1903, are used in the sense of safe, secure confinement, and work no change in the rigor of imprisonment from that imposed in the former statute. These words are not used in this context as synonymous with "solitary confinement." State v. Rooney, 12 N. Dak. 144.

CLOUD ON TITLE.

By G. W. WALSH.

150. I. DEFINITION. — See note 1.

II. THE TEST. — See note 2.

III. PROPERTY SUBJECT TO CLOUD — Real Property. — See notes 3, 4.

151. Personal Property. — See note 1.

150. 1. The Term Defined. — Greenfield v. U. S. Mortgage Co., 133 Fed. Rep. 786, citing 6 AM. AND ENG. ENCYC. OF LAW (2d ed.) 150; Roby v. South Park Com'rs, 215 Ill. 200, citing 6 AM. AND ENG. ENCYC. OF LAW (2d ed.) 149-150; Hyser v. Mansfield, 72 Vt. 73, citing 6 AM. AND ENG. ENCYC. OF LAW (2d ed.) 149, 150.

"A cloud upon the title of the true owner of land, such as may be removed in equitable proceedings, in some deed or other writing which by itself, or in connection with proof of possession by a former occupant, or other extrinsic facts, gives the claimant thereunder an apparent right in or to the property." Waters v. Lewis, 106 Ga. 758.

In Louisiana, whatever may be the rule elsewhere, a plaintiff, by bringing a suit to remove a cloud on his title, does not ipso facto admit that the muniments of title casting the cloud of which he complains are sufficient on their face to show title. He cannot be held to be admitting the very opposite of what he alleges and is trying to show. Patterson v. Landru, 112 La. 1072, citing 6 AM. AND ENG. ENCYC. OF LAW (2d ed.) 149, 150.

Sale of Land by Mere Stranger. — "A sale of the land of the true owner as the property of a mere stranger with whom he is not connected, from whom he does not mediate or immediately trace title, cannot cast a cloud on his title." Miller v. Robertson, 35 Can. Sup. Ct. 80.

3. General Rule Confined to Real Property. — State v. Wood, 155 Mo. 446, citing 6 AM. AND ENG. ENCYC. OF LAW (2d ed.) 150.

4. Right of Way. — Weston v. Ralston, 48 W. Va. 170.

Threat of Action Justifies Relief. — A purchaser of an immovable, who discovers that a third person has some right of property in the immovable which has been sold to him, and that such third person threatens to enforce his claim unless a certain sum of money is paid him in settlement, has a right of action against his vendor to have the cloud on the title removed. Such action may be maintained not only against the purchaser's vendor, but also against a former owner, particularly against one who has given warranty to subsequent purchasers and who is responsible for the defects in the title. Trudeau v. Mollieur, 5 Quebec Pr. Rep. 418.

170. 3. Coal for Fuel — Fire Insurance Policy. — The words "coal for fuel, with sufficient wood to kindle or start the fire," in a policy of fire insurance exempting fires caused by the use of threshing machine engines using al for fuel, etc., were held to mean that wood was permitted to be used only with coal and for the one purpose of igniting the coal by aid of the more combustible quality of the wood, and that when the coal was once sufficiently ignited the use of wood was no longer allowed. Thurston v. Burnett, etc., Farmers' Mut. F. Ins. Co., 98 Wis. 479.

171. 1. Coasting Trade — Pilotage. — See Bigley v. New York, etc., Steamship Co., 105 Fed. Rep. 74, construing Act April 12, 1900 (31 Stat. 79, c. 191), regarding Porto Rico.

172. 1. Coasting — Trolley Car. — In an action for damages for personal injuries, the motorman of the car which struck plaintiff testified that his car was "coasting down the grade from a block south to the point where the accident occurred." By coasting he meant that the current of electricity was turned off, and no power applied to the car other than the force of gravity on the down grade. Peterson v. Minneapolis St. R. Co., 90 Minn. 52.

1a. Not Synonymous with Waterstone. — The court refused to take judicial notice that the word "waterstone," in a covenant by a street railway to keep a street in repair, is a cobblestone. The court said: "I cannot find the word 'waterstone' in the Century Dictionary, while in the Standard Dictionary the following appears: 'Water-stones, n. Geol. A division of the Keuper in England.' The former authority defines cobblestone, 'a cobble or rounded stone; especially, such a stone used in paving,' and cobble, 'a stone rounded by the action of water, and of a size suitable for use in paving,' but there is nothing more to indicate that the words cobblestone and 'waterstone' are synonymous or interchangeable." Doyle v. New York, 58 N. Y. App. Div. 588.

Probate of Codicil to Nonexisting Will. — The substance of the draft of a will which is not proved to have been executed or to exist is not incorporated by the execution of a subsequent codicil referring in terms to a will supposed by the person who draws the codicil to have been validly executed in accordance with what is expressed in the draft will. Such a codicil, however, may be admitted to probate as a valid testamentary paper in itself, though its express dependence on the will which is not shown to have been executed, or to exist, may necessitate resort to a court for construction. *Eyre v. 3. Destruction of Codicil — Presumption as to Destruction. — Though the presumption is that a codicil not found after the testator's death was destroyed by him with the intention of revoking it, the court admitted the will to probate only to the extent that it was not revoked by the codicil, which was proved to have been properly executed. In Goods of Debac, 77 L. T. N. S. 374.

2. A Will Revoked by Marriage. — Francis v. Marsh, 54 W. Va. 545.

3. Matter of Trost, (Surrogate Ct.) 38 Misc. (N. Y.) 404.

A Reference in a Codicil by Date to a will, together with a revocation of the appointment of one executor, and the appointment of another in his stead, was held to sufficiently show the intention of the testator to revive the will in Francis v. Marsh, 54 W. Va. 545.

197. 1. Wills and Codicils Prepared by Different Solicitors. — In 1889 the testatrix duly executed a will to which in 1892 she caused a codicil to be drawn. This document was received by her but was never executed. Later in the year 1892 she caused a fresh will to be prepared by a different solicitor. This will, which contained a revocation clause, was duly executed by the testatrix. In the following year she instructed the first solicitor to prepare a codicil, which she duly executed. The solicitor, in ignorance of the will of 1892, and in the belief that the testatrix had duly executed the document which he had prepared for her in 1892 as a first codicil to the will of 1889, drew the last document as "a second codicil to the will, which bears date July 16, 1889," and made it confirm the "said will and the first codicil thereto." Upon motion by the executors of the deceased for probate of the will of 1892 and the codicil of 1893, it was held that the will of 1889 must also be included, and that probate must be granted of all three documents. In Goods of Chilcott, (1897) P. 223, 77 L. T. N. S. 372. But where the codicil, by mistake, referred to a will which had been not only revoked by a later will, but actually destroyed, the court admitted the codicil and the existing will to probate, as it was clear that the codicil was not intended to revoke such will. In Goods of Reade, (1902) P. 75.

200. 1. Devise of Homestead—Removal of Residence to After-acquired Property.—In the case of a specific devise, a republication of the will, by the execution of a codicil, will not operate so as to extend the gift to property which the gift did not originally embrace. Thus, where the testator in his will made a specific devise of the homestead farm on which he resided, and subsequently he acquired other property to which he removed his residence, it was held that a subsequent codicil, which made no reference to the devise in question, did not have the effect of passing to the devisee the property to which the testator removed after the execution of the will. Ayer v. Estabrooks, 2 N. Bruns. Eq. Rep. 392.

205. 2a. In Allen v. Somers, 73 Conn. 357, the court said: "The term cold storage, as used in the trade, means a storehouse or store-room ordinarily used for the preservation of butter and eggs, where the temperature is kept at a low degree but above the freezing point."

4. What Is Included. — A Washery is a coal mine or colliery within a Pennsylvania statute providing for the health and safety of miners. Com. v. Brookwood Coal Co., 25 Pa. Co. Ct. 56. In this case the court said: "The term collier is defined to be a 'digging of coal, one who works in a coal mine,' 'a coal merchant or dealer in coal.' Colliery is said to be 'the place where coal is dug;' 'the coal trade.' It is evident from these definitions that the term colliery is more comprehensive than the term 'mine.'"

214. 1. Color of Office. — Luther v. Banks, 111 Ga. 374.

215. 6. Come Up to Guaranteed Analysis. — In Spinks v. Rome Guano Co., 108 Ga. 616, the court said: "The statute relied upon as a defense in this case provides that the state chemist shall analyze the samples of fertilizer sent to him by the ordinary, and if such analysis shows the 'fertilizer does not come up to the guaranteed analysis, then the sale shall be illegal, null, and void.' * * * The words 'come up to the guaranteed analysis' do not necessarily require that the two analyses shall agree exactly in all particulars. If the two analyses show results substantially the same, the reason and spirit of the law is complied with."

216. 1. Wills. — See Emery v. Swasey, 97 Me. 136; Stocker v. Foster, 178 Mass. 591.

2. In Mast v. Stover Mfg. Co., 177 U. S. 488, the court said: "Comity is not a rule of law, but one of practice, convenience, and expediency. It is something more than mere courtesy, which implies only deference to the opinion of others, since it has a substantial value in securing uniformity of decision, and discouraging repeated litigation of the same question. But its obligation is not imperative. If it were, the indiscreet action of one court might become a precedent, increasing in weight with each successive adjudication, until the whole country was tied down to an unsound principle. Comity persuades; but it does not command. It declares not how a case shall be decided, but how it may with propriety be decided. It recognizes the fact that the primary duty of every court is to dispose of cases according to the law and the facts; in a word, to decide them right. In doing so, the judge is bound to determine them according to his own convictions. If he be clear in those convictions, he should follow them. It is only in cases where, in his own mind, there may be a doubt as to the soundness of his views that comity comes in play and suggests a uniformity of ruling to avoid confusion, until a higher court has settled the law. It demands of no one that he shall abdicate his individual judgment, but only that deference shall be paid to the judgments of other co-ordinate tribunals. Clearly it applies only to questions which have been actually decided, and which arose under the same facts." Quoted in Welsbach Light Co. v. Cosmopolitan Incandescent Light Co., (C. C. A.) 104 Fed. Rep. 83. See also The Paquete Habana, 175 U. S. 694; Mutual Aid, etc., Co. v. Logan, 55 S. Car. 295.

4. Commander in Chief. — Under Rev. Stat. U. S., § 1124, art. 38, providing that a court-martial must be convened by a commander in chief of a fleet or squadron, it was held that when an officer was designated as commander in chief in the proceedings of the court-martial and by the regulations of the naval department he must be presumed to have been in command of a fleet or squadron. In re Crain, 84 Fed. Rep. 788.

7. General Custom.—A custom by drummers of taking orders and transmitting them to their "house" for action—approval or rejection—is of such long standing, so extensive, and so important in the commercial world, that the courts will take judicial notice of it. John Matthews Apparatus Co. v. Renz, (Ky. 1901) 61 S. W. Rep. 9.

225. 4. A Commercial Agent Will Have

Power to Collect.—Fabian Mfg. Co. v. Newman, (Tenn. Ch. 1900) 62 S. W. Rep. 218.

5. Power of Drummer to Collect.—Lakeside Press, etc., Co. v. Campbell, 39 Fla. 523; Brown v. Lally, 79 Minn. 38; Fabian Mfg. Co. v. Newman, (Tenn. Ch. 1900) 62 S. W. Rep. 218; Crawford v. Whittaker, 42 W. Va. 430.

4. Indorsement of Checks.—See Kuhlman v. E. J. Hart Co., (Tenn. Ch. 1900) 59 S. W. Rep. 455.

5. Hotel Bills.—Grand Ave. Hotel Co. v. Friedman, 83 Mo. App. 491, holding that the rule applies particularly where the credit is primarily extended to the agent; but where the principal, having notice that the salesman's bill is unpaid, continues thereafter to furnish the salesman with money therefor, the principal becomes liable; further, that laundry expenses and telegrams of the salesman are not within the class of supplies for which the principal is liable in the absence of proof that they have relation to the salesman's business.

227. III. CONTRACT OF SALE — WHEN COMPLETE. — See note 6.

228. COMMISSION. — See note 6.

229. [COMMISSION OF A CRIME. — See note 1a.]

COMMITMENT. — See note 4.

230. COMMODITY. — See note 3.

233. See note 1.

227. 8. The Contract — When Complete. — Charles Brown Grocery Co. v. Beckett, (Ky. 1900) 57 S. W. Rep. 458, quoting 6 AM. AND ENG. ENCYC. OF LAW (2d ed.) 227; John Matthews Apparatus Co. v. Renz, (Ky. 1901) 61 S. W. Rep. 9; Kuhlman v. E. J. Hart Co., (Tenn. Ch. 1900) 59 S. W. Rep. 455; Smith v. Droubay, 20 Utah 443.

228. 6. Hall v. McNally, 23 Utah 613, quoting 6 AM. AND ENG. ENCYC. OF LAW (2d ed.) 228; Whitaker v. Old Dominion Guano Co., 123 N. Car. 368.

229. 1a. Commission of Crime. — Commission means the act of committing, doing, or performing; the act of perpetrating. Webster's Dict. Mere acts of preparation, not proximately leading to the consummation of the intended crime, will not suffice to establish an attempt to commit it. Groves v. State, 116 Ga. 516.

4. The word commitment, as used in the law, signifies the act of sending an accused or convicted person to prison. Guthmann v. People, 203 Ill. 260.

The phrase "legally committed" refers to the examination of the charge and holding the defendant to answer by the magistrate. People v. Beach, 122 Cal. 37.

Commitment — Sunday Laws. — The word commit, contained in Code Civ. Pro. N. Y., § 6, which provides that courts shall not transact business on Sunday, but that "this section does not prevent the exercise of the jurisdiction of a magistrate where it is necessary to preserve the peace or, in a criminal case, to arrest, commit, or discharge a person charged with an offense," covers a commitment after a conviction as well as a commitment to await trial, and authorizes a magistrate to try, convict, and sentence a prisoner on Sunday. People v. Warden, 73 N. Y. App. Div. 174.

230. 3. Canned oysters are a commodity within the Mississippi Code prohibiting combinations to limit, increase, or reduce the price of a commodity. Barataria Canning Co. v. Jouliau, 80 Miss. 555.

232. 1. "The Phrase, Common Lands of the Town, used in this proviso in reference to the taking of seaweed from the shore thereof, evidently was used to designate lands held in common by the proprietors, and not in any technical sense, as indicating that the shores or lands were public property. * * * It is quite clear, as disclosed by the case, that the terms 'undivided lands' and common lands were used interchangeably to refer to the uplands and to the beaches as well." Southampton v. Betts, 163 N. Y. 454.

233. 1. Common Tools of Trade in a statute exempting such from execution will not include a set of harness. Kirksey v. Rowe, 114 Ga. 893. Nor a dentist's chair. Burt v. Stocks Coal Co., 119 Ga. 629.

Common Usage. — See U. S. v. Fifty Boxes, etc., Lace, 92 Fed. Rep. 601.

Common Form. — See Sutton v. Hancock, 118 Ga. 436.

Common Lodging House. — In Logsdon v. Booth, (1900) 1 Q. B. 412, the court said: "We know of no better description of a common lodging house than that given many years ago by the law officers, Sir Alexander Cockburn and Sir W. Page Wood, to the effect that a common lodging house was that class of lodging house in which persons of the poorer class are received for short periods, and, although strangers to one another, are allowed to inhabit one common room."

3. When Rule May Be Declared Inapplicable. — The power of the courts to declare established doctrines of the common law inapplicable should be used sparingly, and its exercise is not to be justified unless the inapplicability of a rule is general, extending to the whole or the greater part of the state, or at least to an area capable of definite judicial ascertainment.

291. COMMUNITY.— See note 7.

291. 7. Distinguished from Neighborhood.— The term community, as used in an instruction as to the measure of damages occasioned to property by the change of grade of a street, while not a complete synonym for "neighborhood" or "vicinity" (the terms used in this character of instruction), certainly has no tendency to mislead the jury unfavorably to defendants. In common parlance, and as the jury probably understood the meaning of the word community, it has a broader significance than the words "neighborhood" or "locality," and for that reason would seem more favorable than otherwise to appellant. Berkson v. Kansas City Cable R. Co., 144 Mo. 220.

Reputation.— In Cunningham v. Underwood, (C. C. A.) 116 Fed. Rep. 811, the court said: "The witness's knowledge of reputation must for the most part be derived from what he has heard others say upon the subject. But it is a great mistake to suppose that unless the witness has talked to a majority, or any other large proportion, of a community, that he is not qualified to speak. Nashville is a city of about 100,000 people. In a community so populous it might well be that a very small number of persons would know anything whatever about a particular inhabitant, and that a still smaller number had been heard by a witness to say what was thought or said of the person inquired about. The community whose estimate of character is to be ascertained is, therefore, composed of those called by some jurists 'his neighbors,' by others 'his associates or acquaintances,' and by still others as those who are 'conversant' with him." Cunningham v. Underwood, (C. C. A.) 116 Fed. Rep. 803.

"Community of Profits means a proprietorship in them, as distinguished from a personal claim upon the other associates. In other words, a property right in them from the start in one associate as much as in the other. Bates on Part., § 30; Pars. on Part., § 54." Moore v. Williams, 26 Tex. Civ. App. 142. 296. 2. Remarriage After Agreement as to Separation of Property.— Two persons, who were Roman Catholics and relations in the fourth degree of consanguinity, contracted marriage without dispensation from the ecclesiastical authorities and without a marriage contract. Subsequently, for the reason that this marriage was void because of the ties of relationship existing between them, they contracted marriage anew after having executed a marriage contract providing for separation as to property. In a proceeding by the wife, asking that the first marriage be declared void, and that it be decreed that the property she held from the succession of her father could not be charged with liability for her husband's debts, it was held that the first marriage, not having been duly annulled and set aside by decree of the ecclesiastical authorities, confirmed by the judgment of a civil court, was the only marriage existing between the parties, and that the second marriage was a nullity and that therefore the parties were in community of property. Cross v. Prevost, 15 Quebec Super. Ct. 184.

314. 1. Onerous Condition May Convert Donation into Sale. — Under the Civil Code of Quebec, as under the former law, donations of immovables by ancestors to their heir, one of the consorts of a community, which only impose on the donee the obligations that would have followed the immovables if they had passed by succession, are acknowledged deeds in advance of inheritance, and the immovables remain the property of the consort to whom they were donated. The donation by an ancestor subject to a charge of a life rent payable to the donor makes no exception to this rule, if the rent does not exceed the value of the revenues of the immovable, because in such case the rent is equivalent to a retention of the usufruct, and it is none the less a real donation as to the estate. But the stipulation in a donation, with retention of usufruct, for payment by the donee to the donor of an annual sum equal to or exceeding the value of the property, renders the transaction a sale in reality and a donation in name only. The property thus given to one consort is an acquisition of the community that the husband may hypothecate. Boucher v. Thihaudeau, 13 Quebec Super. Ct. 394.

Donation by Husband to Child Not Fraudulent. — A donation by the husband of community property to one of the children does not constitute a fraud against the wife so as to authorize her demand that it be annulled, though it benefits such child to the prejudice of the other common children. Jodoin v. Birtz, 22 Quebec Super. Ct. 443.

3. The Wife Has No Right of Action to reclaim rights belonging to the community. Desrouard v. Fortier, 5 Quebec Pr. 250.

Husband Alone May Maintain Action. — Where there is community of property, the husband alone has the right to maintain an action to recover damages for an injury to the person or character of his wife. McFarran v. Montreal Park, etc., R. Co., 30 Can. Sup. Ct. 410; Tondreau v. Semple, 2 Quebec Pr. 296; Caron v. Larivé, 5 Quebec Pr. 332; Sauriol v. Clermont, 10 Quebec K. B. 294; Troude v. Mel-drum, 20 Quebec Super. Ct. 531. Compare Sullivan v. Magog, 18 Quebec Super. Ct. 107, holding that the wife may join with her husband in an action for personal injuries sustained by her.

Injury to Minor Son. — Where husband and wife are common as to property, an action of damages for injuries suffered by their minor son, or for injury to the feelings of the mother arising from the ill treatment of her child, pertains exclusively to the husband as head of the community, and he alone may maintain such an action. Carrières v. De La Court, 16 Quebec Super. Ct. 207.

Contract Signed by Wife. — An action cannot be maintained against a wife, common as to property with her husband, on a lease signed by her, where it is not alleged that she was a public trader at the time she signed the lease, or that the lease was signed in connection with any business or trade then carried on by her, or that she was authorized by her husband to sign it. The fact that the wife sublet to lodgers a portion of the leased premises was not an act of commerce, and in doing so she must be presumed to have acted as the agent of her husband and for the benefit of the community of property existing between them. Joseph v. McDonald, 11 Quebec Super. Ct. 406.

Action for Partition of Wife's Inheritance. — When a married woman, common as to property, has an interest in the succession of her deceased mother, she cannot maintain an action for an accounting and for partition unless her husband is joined with her in the action. Giroux v. Giroux, 19 Quebec Super. Ct. 372.

Husband Cannot Authorize Wife to Sue. — The right of action for damages for personal injuries sustained by a married woman, common as to property, belongs exclusively to her husband, and she cannot sue for the recovery of such damages in her own name, even with the authorization of her husband. McFarran v. Montreal Park, etc., R. Co., 30 Can. Sup. Ct. 410. Compare Laurin v. Desrochers, 17 Quebec Super. Ct. 351, holding that the wife may, with the assent of the husband, sue for damages for assault, and that a discharge by the wife, agreed to by the husband, will be valid.

When the Husband Is Insane, an action for damages arising from injuries to his wife can be brought only by his curator. Sauriol v. Clermont, 10 Quebec K. B. 294.

Wife May Maintain Action When Husband Refuses to Join. — A married woman, common as to property, assisted by her husband, or on his refusal by the judge, may maintain a personal action to guard her honor, and sue in her own name for defamation. Such an action does not pertain only to the husband as head of the community. Girard v. Tremblay, 6 Quebec Pr. 63.

so that according to French law their rights inter se as to property were subject to the law of community of goods. They subsequently went to England and were permanently domiciled there. The husband became a naturalized British subject, amassed a large fortune, and died in England, leaving his wife surviving, after having made an English will by which he disposed of all his property. Under an originating summons taken out by the widow to determine her rights in the property disposed of by the will, where it was agreed that the decision should be confined to the personal property, it was held that as to movable goods the rights of the wife under the French marriage law as to community of goods were not affected by the change of domicile, and that the widow was entitled to the share of her husband's personal estate to which she would have been entitled if they had remained domiciled in France. *De Nicols v. 366. a. Florida — In Cases Against Railroads. — In Florida it is provided by statute (originally derived from the Georgia Code) that "no person shall recover damages from a railroad company for injury to himself or his property when the same is done by his consent, or is caused by his own negligence. If the complainant and the agents of the company are both at fault, the former may recover, but the damages shall be diminished by the jury trying the case in proportion to the amount of default attributable to him." Laws Fla., c. 4071, approved May 4, 1891, repealing a substantially similar act (c. 3744, approved June 7, 1887). Florida

1. Georgia. — "At common law, if the negligence of the plaintiff contributed to the injury, he could not recover. This doctrine, referred to usually as that of 'contributory negligence,' is not the law of this state; but the doctrine referred to often as that of 'comparative negligence' is the rule of force here. This rule authorizes a recovery by the plaintiff, although he was at fault, provided he was injured under circumstances where, by the exercise of ordinary care on his part, he could not have avoided the consequences of the defendant's negligence. See Civ. Code, §§ 2322, 3830." Western, etc., R. Co. v. Ferguson, 113 Ga. 708.

If the plaintiff and the defendant were both negligent, the former can recover unless his negligence was equal to or greater than the negligence of the defendant, or unless he could by the exercise of ordinary care have avoided the consequences of the defendant's negligence. Christian v. Macon R., etc., Co., 120 Ga. 314. See also the following cases: Alabama G. S. R. Co. v. Coggins, 60 U. S. App. 140, 88 Fed. Rep. 455 (construing the Georgia statute); Bird v. In some states certain causes of action are provided for by statute in cases of what is called "gross negligence." Thus, for example, in Massachusetts "death caused by the personal negligence of a defendant, without fault of the deceased person, creates a liability. But for a death caused by the negligence of the defendant's servants there is no liability unless the negligence is gross." Brennan v. Standard Oil Co., 187 Mass. 376.

acceptation relates to the passenger compensation, compensation as a general term embraces both passengers and property. DeGrauw v. Long Island Electric R. Co., 43 N. Y. App. Div. 508.

Compensation Is a Term of Larger Scope than Cost and especially than "actual cost." Newton, Petitioner, 172 Mass. 5.

370. 2. Competent Evidence.—People v. Compton, 123 Cal. 403.

Competent Jurisdiction.—In re Norton, 64 Kan. 842.

Competent Commissioner.—The term competent, as used in an act requiring drainage commissioners to be competent, means a commissioner who is not only possessed of sufficient skill and intelligence to discharge properly the duties to be performed by a commissioner under the statute, but who is also disinterested and not near of kin to any party to the cause. King's Lake Drainage, etc., Dist. v. Jamison, 176 Mo. 557.

372. 1. In Southern Indiana R. Co. v. Davis, (Ind. App. 1903) 68 N. E. Rep. 194, the court said: "The generally understood meaning of the verb complain is to express regret or pain."

373. 1. Railroads.—In a statute providing "that the said railway must be completed and equipped and ready for transportation of passengers within two years, and if not so completed," etc., the forfeiture will attach, "the word completed has a well-defined meaning, and its use in this last quoted section seems significant. The legislature is presumed to have known the meaning of the language used and to have had a clear and definite idea to express in the use of the phrase 'said railway shall be completed,' etc. The word complete is defined as 'wanting no part or element; perfect, whole, entire.' Cent. Dict., vol. 2. Now, if a street railway is completed when a single track line is constructed it does not require the addition of another track to make it perfect, whole, entire, or complete." Honolulu Rapid Transit, etc., Co. v. Hawaiian Tramways Co., 13 Hawaii 369.

"The words 'substantially completed,' as used in article 230 of the constitution, apply to a railroad the roadbed of which was in such condition that the most that is now claimed for it is, that it lacked twenty per cent. of completion, as also, possibly, a total of 815 feet of bridge and trestle work, in a distance of some eighteen miles, when the constitution was adopted; and hence such road is not entitled to exemption from taxation under that article." Louisiana, etc., R. Co. v. State Board of Appraisers, 108 La. 14.

Same — Synonymous with Construction.—Stanly County v. Coler, (C. C. A.) 113 Fed. Rep. 705, affirmed 190 U. S. 437.

The Phrase, Completing the Conveyance, as used in the Solicitors' Remuneration Act, includes the registration of the conveyance. Grey v. Curtrice, (1899) 1 Ch. 121.

Withdraw Signatures. — It has been held that where the acceptance of a proposed composition by creditors of a bankrupt had not been procured by fraud or misrepresentation, the creditors will not be permitted to withdraw their signatures to the agreement. In re Levy, 110 Fed. Rep. 744.

383. 1. Not All Creditors Need Sign. — Schroeder v. Pissis, 128 Cal. 209; Hill v. Wertheimer-Swartz Shoe Co., 150 Mo. 483; Vogt v. Fasola, 41 N. Y. App. Div. 467; Crawford v. Krueger, 201 Pa. St. 348.

When Concurrence of All Creditors Required. — An agreement for a composition by the creditors of an insolvent bank, which on its face implies co-operation of all to whom it is indebted, will not authorize the person to whom it is delivered to effect such composition to consent to any settlement not concurred in by all the creditors of such bank. Abel v. Alemannia Bank, 79 Minn. 419.

Under Section 12 of the Bankruptcy Act of 1898, the terms of a composition must be offered to all the creditors of the bankrupt whether they have proved their debts or not. After the terms are thus made known to all the creditors they have a reasonable time to decide whether they will accept the offer or not, and in order to qualify themselves to vote on the proposition they are required to prove their claims. After a fair opportunity has been given to all, and the requisite majority of those whose claims have been allowed have accepted it in writing, an application to confirm the composition may be filed. In re Rider, 96 Fed. Rep. 808.

And in determining whether a majority of all creditors whose claims have been allowed have accepted the terms of a composition, the assignee of the claims of a large number of creditors should be counted as one creditor. In re Messengill, 113 Fed. Rep. 366.

The offer of composition under the said section must be presented to all of the creditors of the bankrupt, whether or not they have proved their claims. In re Frear, 120 Fed. Rep. 978.

384. 1. Construction. — Merritt v. Bucknam, 90 Me. 146.

"Other Creditors." — It has been held that the words "other creditors" used in a composition agreement mean all other creditors. M. A. Seed Dry-Plate Co. v. Wunderlich, 69 Minn. 288.

An Illegal Condition in a composition agreement precludes the debtor from setting up such composition as a defense to an action by one of the creditors. Allard v. Boyer, 12 Quebec Super Ct. 330.

387. 1. Consideration Must Be Tendered. — McMannomy v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., 167 Ill. 497; Kelly-Goodfellow Shoe Co. v. Fluker, 51 La. Ann. 193; Vogt v. Fasola, 41 N. Y. App. Div. 467.

A Note Given to Induce a Creditor to Sign the Composition Is Nullified by a subsequent default of the debtor in making payments according to the terms of the composition agreement. Budden v. Rochon, 13 Quebec Super. Ct. 322.

390. 1. Composition Extinguishes Claims. — In re J. C. Winship Co., (C. C. A.) 120 Fed. Rep. 93; Talcott v. Janasson, (Supm. Ct. App. T.) 85 N. Y. Supp. 833; Haijek v. Luck, 96 Tex. 517.

In Perkins v. Quint, 69 N. H. 428, it was held that a discharge of an insolvent under a composition agreement filed by him in court applied to all claims of which the court had jurisdiction, and that the assignee of a note who had no knowledge of the insolvency proceedings, but whose assignor had due notice of the proceedings, could not maintain an action on the note.

thereof did not actually prove the same, and consequently did not participate with the other creditors in taking action upon the composition when offered. Glover Grocery Co. v. Dorne, 116 Ga. 216.

Agreements — Debtor Must Tender Consideration According to Conditions. — The terms of a composition agreement may be such that the mere agreement of the debtor to pay the composition, as distinguished from the actual payment by him, is to be accepted in satisfaction of the debts, and in such a case the mere nonpayment at the agreed time does not remit the creditors to their original rights in respect to their debts, but merely gives them a right of action for the breach of the substituted agreement. Howland v. Grant, 2 N. W. Ter. 158.

An Adjudication of Bankruptcy Will Not Be Annulled as a matter of course where the court approves a composition. Such annulment is in the discretion of the court. In re Sullivan, 20 Times L. Rep. 393.

A Transfer of the Creditor's Estate is not fraudulent when made for the benefit of and with the knowledge of the creditors who attended a meeting to which all were summoned, and a creditor who did not attend the meeting, but who has accepted a benefit resulting from such sale, cannot have the transfer set aside unless it is shown that the creditors are prejudiced. Racine v. Singer, 15 Quebec Super. Ct. 153.

Where One Creditor Loans Money to Pay the Composition, and such loan is made with the knowledge of the other creditors, there is no fraud. Small v. Henderson, 27 Ont. App. 492.

Bucknam*, 90 Me. 146.

It was held in Gage v. De Courcey, 68 N. H. 579, that where all the creditors who entered into a composition agreement knew of certain payments in full made to several creditors prior to their entering into the agreement, such payments were not made in fraud of the agreement.

In Lobdell v. State Bank, 180 Ill. 56, it was held that the acceptance of a bond by a creditor to secure the payment to him of any deficiency which might be left on his claim after payments made in accordance with the terms of a composition agreement, which bond was given to him as an inducement to him to agree with the other creditors in the settlement proposition, was not in fraud of the other creditors.

Money Given the Arresting Officer to Be Applied in Part Payment of the Fine for the offense for which the prisoner is arrested is not money paid to compromise and settle such offense. Richards v. Taylor, 28 Nova Scotia 311.

4. Effect of Subsequent Prosecution of Criminal. — State v. Ash, 33 Oregon 86.

The Subsequent Prosecution of the Criminal does not relieve the agreement not to prosecute of its criminal character. Campbell v. State, 42 Tex. Crim. 27.

402. 4. Must a Crime Have Been Committed? — In State v. Carver, 69 N. H. 216, it was directly held that no offense punishable by a penalty need actually have been committed in order to make the person receiving the consideration guilty of compounding a crime.

In a civil case in Alabama, where it appeared that the grantee of a deed had procured its execution by falsely stating to the grantor that her husband had committed a crime, and that the deed was given to save him from criminal prosecution threatened by grantee, and that his threats were part of a fraudulent scheme to obtain the deed, it was held that there could be no compounding a crime which had not been committed, and a decree dismissing a bill to cancel the deed for want of equity was reversed. Treadwell v. Torbert, 122 Ala. 297. See also Manning v. Columbian Lodge, 57 N. J. Eq. 338.

408. 2. Discretionary with Trial Court. — An agreement between the commonwealth's attorney and the attorney for a railroad, against which a number of indictments were pending, that if, on appeal, two judgments against the railroad were affirmed, the railroad would consent to a fine on three of the pending indictments, the others to be dismissed, was held not to be binding on the court or the parties. Its enforcement was a matter discretionary with the trial court. Spaulding v. Hill, 115 Ky. 1.

Pennsylvania Statute — The Offense of Removing a Debtor's Goods from the county to avoid levy by the sheriff is of a private nature, not affecting public interests, and may legally be compounded under the statute. Brown v. McCreight, 187 Pa. St. 181.

In Powell v. Flanary, 109 Ky. 342, it was held that such a note was valid in the absence of an express agreement not to prosecute; and that, unless the contrary appeared, the misappropriation would be presumed to be a breach of trust rather than a felony.

But though the threat of prosecution will not be a good defense to security given by a third person, if, however, the security was given on the consideration and promise not to prosecute, the contract will be void. McCormick Harvesting Mach. Co. v. Miller, 54 Neb. 644.

Bond to Perform Duty Owed as Husband and Father. — An obligation given by a husband to pay a fixed amount to an abandoned wife and child, containing a clause that the prosecution of an indictment be suspended, is a bond to secure a duty owed, and is not a bond given to compound a criminal prosecution. Bea v. People, 101 Ill. App. 132.

Mortgage Partly Valid and Partly Invalid. — Where the consideration of a mortgage by a wife was partly for the payment of her husband's debts and partly for the compromise of a criminal charge against him, it was held valid as to the former but void as to the latter. *Pierson v. Not Even a Bona Fide Holder, for value and without notice, can enforce a note and mortgage given in consideration of compounding an offense; and this is true whether the offense be a felony or a misdemeanor. Jones v. Dannenberg Co., 112 Ga. 426.

Where a Valuable Consideration is given for part of a transfer of credit in addition to the illegal consideration, the agreement is nevertheless illegal and void. Frigon v. Cossette, 16 Quebec Super. Ct. 340. And see Folmar v. Siler, 132 Ala. 297. But see Pierson v. Green, 69 S. Car. 559.

Defendant Must Prove Commission of Crime. — Where in defense to a bill to foreclose a mortgage it is asserted that the mortgage was given in consideration of the mortgagee's promise not to prosecute for embezzlement, if no prosecution is pending, the defendant must show that there actually was an embezzlement. Manning v. Columbian Lodge, etc., 57 N. J. Eq. 338, affirmed 57 N. J. Eq. 342.

415. 1. Money Paid or Property Transferred Cannot Be Recovered. — Singer Mfg. Co. v. Ferrell, (Ky. 1899) 48 S. W. Rep. 1078. See also the title ILLEGAL CONTRACTS, 1001. 1.

But in Bishop v. Matney, 78 S. W. Rep. 856, 25 Ky. L. Rep. 1777, an attempted transfer of a note to the payor in consideration of the compounding of a felony was held to be void and no defense to an action on the note.

416. 2. Equity Will Not Correct Contracts. — Paige v. Hieronymus, 192 Ill. 546. See the title ILLEGAL CONTRACTS, 15 AM. AND ENG. ENCYC. OF LAW (2d ed.) 1002.

3. Equity Will Not Set Aside Deeds. — Treadwell v. Torbert, 119 Ala. 279, 72 Am. St. Rep. 918.

4. Johnson v. Owen, (Neb. 1904) 100 N. W. Rep. 945.

417. 1. Equity Will Set Aside Deed for Duress. — Paige v. Hieronymus, 192 Ill. 548, quoting 6 AM. AND ENG. ENCYC. OF LAW (2d ed.) 416, in which case, however, relief was refused on the ground that there was no duress. Koons v. Vauconsant, 129 Mich. 260, 95 Am. St. Rep. 438; Gorringe v. Reed, 23 Utah, 137, citing 6 AM. AND ENG. ENCYC. OF LAW (2d ed.) 416, 417.

Where No Crime Has Really Been Committed by a husband, a deed given by his wife to secure him against prosecution for an offense which he is represented to have committed may be canceled. Treadwell v. Torbert, 122 Ala. 297.

Equity Will Not Permit the Foreclosure of a Mortgage Given under Duress. — Where a mother, ill at the time, gave a mortgage to a bank on which her son had forged checks, upon the representations of one acting for the son that criminal proceedings would be taken against him which could not be avoided in any other way, it was held that this constituted duress and was a good defense to an action to foreclose the mortgage, although the bank had made no threats, knew nothing of the representations made to the mortgagor, and was not responsible for them. National Bank of Republic v. Cox, 47 N. Y. App. Div. 53.

Money Paid under Duress May Be Recovered. — Woodham v. Allen, 130 Cal. 194.

Money paid by a wife under duress to prevent the arrest of her husband in a civil suit may be recovered. Jaeger v. Koenig, (Supm. Ct. App. T.) 30 Misc. (N. Y.) 580.

420. 3. Computing Scales. — In an action to restrain the infringement of a trademark, the court said: "The primary meaning of computing is calculating, numbering, counting, or estimating. Complainants say that computing implies an intellectual operation, and that as a scale cannot think, calculate, or compute, the term, when applied to weighing scales or balances, has no such meaning, and is therefore wholly without any descriptive significance. On this assumption, it has been urged with much pertinacity that a word, though primarily descriptive, may be used in a nondescriptive sense, and, when so used, be a valid trademark. This is a misapprehension." Computing Scale Co. v. Standard Computing Scale Co., (C. C. A.) 118 Fed. Rep. 965.

Concerned in the Sense of Participants. — The word concerned in a statute providing that "in all cases where two or more persons are jointly or otherwise concerned in the commission of any crime or misdemeanor, either of such persons may be sworn as a witness in relation to such crime or misdemeanor; but the testimony given by such witness shall in no instance be used against him in any criminal prosecution for the same offense," is used in the sense of the word "participants;" for it is he who is implicated in the commission of an offense that is protected by the statute against his own testimony. 2. Concurrent Insurance is that which to any extent insures the same interest against the same casualty, at the same time as the primary insurance, on such terms that the insurers would bear proportionally the loss happening within the provisions of both policies. It is this last quality — of sharing proportionally in the loss — that distinguishes concurrent insurance from mere double insurance. New Jersey Rubber Co. v. Commercial Union Assur. Co., 64 N. J. L. 580.

In a policy permitting "concurrent insurance" the term includes policies running with that of defendant and sharing its risk, and includes those covering not only a part of defendant's risk, but all of it and more. 437. I. DEFINITION AND NATURE — Definition. — See note 2.

438. Character of Sale a Question of Intent. — See note 5.

439. See notes 1, 3.

A Sale Absolute in Its Inception May Be Changed into a Conditional Sale. — See note 6.

440. III. VALIDITY OF CONDITIONAL SALES — 1. Generally. — See note 5.

437. 2. Definition of Conditional Sales. — See Lance v. Butler, 135 N. Car. 419, citing 6 AM. AND ENG. ENCYC. OF LAW (2d ed.) 437.

Examples of Conditional Sales. — Perkins v. Mettler, 126 Cal. 100; Finlay v. Ludden, etc., Southern Music House, 105 Ga. 264; Tanner v. Mishawaka Woolen Mfg. Co., 28 Ind. App. 536; Bennett Bros. Co. v. Tam, 24 Mont. 457; Richardson Drug Co. v. Plummer, 56 Neb. 523; Thompson v. Armstrong, 11 N. Dak. 198; Keep v. Horner, (N. Y. City Ct. Gen. T.) 26 Misc. (N. Y.) 844.

438. 5. Distinction Between Absolute and Conditional Sales. — Plymouth Stove Foundry Co. v. Fee, 182 Mass. 31.

For Additional Examples of sales held conditional and not absolute, see The H. C. Grady, 87 Fed. Rep. 232; Van Allen v. Francis, 123 Cal. 474; In re Wilcox, etc., Co., 70 Conn. 220; American Harrow Co. v. Deyo, 134 Mich. 639; Bradley v. Benson, 93 Minn. 91; Bennett Bros. Co. v. Tam, 24 Mont. 457; Jacob v. Haefelien, 54 N. Y. App. Div. 570; Huffard v. Akers, 52 W. Va. 21.

439. 1. Whether Sale Is Conditional a Question of Intent. — Van Allen v. Francis, 123 Cal. 474; Perkins v. Mettler, 126 Cal. 100; Huffard v. Akers, 52 W. Va. 21.

3. Sale Held Absolute Notwithstanding Reservation of Title. — First Cong. Church v. Grand Rapids School Furniture Co., 15 Colo. App. 46; Clark v. Bright, 30 Colo. 199.

6. Change of Absolute to Conditional Sale. — If the sale is absolute, a subsequent agreement by which the title to the property is attempted to be reserved in the vendor until all the payments are made, without changing the possession of the property, will not protect the vendor against a purchaser for value at a tax sale. Houser, etc., Mfg. Co. v. Hargrove, 129 Cal. 90.

Where, however title has passed by sale and delivery, a receipt purporting to acknowledge title in the vendor, signed two months after the delivery, will not make the transaction such a conditional sale as will be valid against a purchaser without notice. Houser, etc., Mfg. Co. v. Hargrove, 129 Cal. 90, reversing (Cal. 1900) 59 Pac. Rep. 947.

An absolute sale will not be converted into a conditional sale because of an arrangement of lease given back by the vendee which is intended to secure the vendee on his indorsement of the notes of the vendors. McCullough v. Willey, 192 Pa. St. 176.

440. 5. Conditional Sales Held Valid — United States. — Braddock Brewing Co. v. Pfaudler Vacuum Fermentation Co., 45 C. C. A. 491, 106 Fed. Rep. 604. See also Wright v. Ellwood Ivins Tube Co., 128 Fed. Rep. 462.

3. Contracts Valid Where Made Held Valid in Another State. — A conditional sale valid under the laws of Massachusetts will be upheld in New Hampshire, in which state other requirements are necessary to validate the contract. Dorntel Casket Co. v. Gunnison, 69 N. H. 297. See also Ensley Lumber Co. v. Lewis, 121 Ala. 94, holding that where an unrecorded conditional sale was valid in Alabama as against innocent purchasers, a mortgage of the property, after it was removed to Georgia, where recording is required, to a citizen of Alabama, would not protect such mortgagee in an action in Alabama.

But see Parry Mfg. Co. v. Myton, 8 Kan. App. 533, where under a contract providing that title should remain in vendor to vehicles to be disposed of in the regular course of trade, the court held the transaction an absolute sale with a lien for the purchase price reserved in the vendor.

447. 1. See In re Galt, (C. C. A.) 120 Fed. Rep. 64, where the court said: "The test would seem to be, has the sender the right to compel a return of the thing sent, or has the receiver the option to pay for the thing in money?"

Sears v. ShROUT, 24 Ind. App. 313, which states that a stipulation that title be reserved in the vendor may be oral.

Condition as to Venue of Action for Breach of Contract. — Where a conditional sale agreement provided that "in case of any litigation arising in connection with this transaction * * * it is agreed that the trial will be held only in" the place where the vendors carried on business, it was held that the condition was binding, though it was burdensome to the purchaser, and that an action by the purchaser to recover damages for breach of the contract must be tried at the place named in the agreement. Dulmage v. White, 4 Ont. L. Rep. 121.

6. McManus v. Walters, 62 Kan. 128.

That the Vendor Shall Have No Right to Resume Possession of the property except for default in payment may be inferred from the terms of a contract providing for resumption of possession on occurrence of default. Hence a subsequent assignee of the vendor's rights cannot demand possession of the property before default. Bridgman v. Robinson, 7 Ont. L. Rep. 591.

the goods, it was held that the purchaser was not justified in retaining part of the purchase price until he could inspect the goods, as such a retention would be a material change of the conditions of the contract, entitling the seller to refuse delivery. Clement v. Durocher, 16 Quebec Super. Ct. 479.

Payment on Surrender of Documents. — Where payment is to be made on surrender to the buyer of the bill of lading, policy of insurance, and certificate of inspection, the buyer cannot withhold payment because of the alteration of some of the documents, if it appears that they are in fact correct and the alterations were made before the documents were executed. Re Salomon, 81 L. T. N. S. 325.

Contract for Delivery in Instalments — Refusal to Make Further Deliveries. — In a contract for the sale of goods to be delivered in instalments, payment for each instalment to be made within a specified time after each delivery, where it was provided that each payment should be made on the due date as a condition precedent to future deliveries, and the purchasers made default in payment on a due date, it was held that the seller was justified in refusing unconditionally to make any further deliveries. Ebbw Vale Steel, etc., Co. v. Blaina Iron Co., 6 Com. Cas. (Eng.) 33.

Destruction of Goods as Failure of Consideration. — In an action on a note of sale which provided that no property in the goods sold should pass to the purchaser until they were paid for, where it appeared that the goods had been destroyed by fire, it was held that the plaintiff was entitled to recover, as the defendant had had the possession and use of the goods and an interest in them, and therefore there was neither a total failure of consideration for the note nor an ascertained partial failure. Goldie, etc., Co. v. Harper, 31 Ont. 284.

Mortgage Covering Property Affixed to Realty. — Where machinery sold on condition that the title shall remain in the vendor until payment is made is affixed to the realty and mortgaged by the purchaser to a mortgagee who has no notice of the vendor's claim, it passes to the purchaser at the foreclosure of the sale free from the vendor's claim. And a statute providing that when goods are sold on the instalment plan, the rights of the vendor shall not be affected by the fact that they are affixed to realty does not apply to cases where the goods were affixed to the realty before the passage of the act. Goldie, etc., Co. v. Heney, 33 N. Bruns. 607.

Effect of Judgment on Right to Revendicate. — If a vendor obtains judgment in an action on notes given for goods sold on condition that title shall not pass until payment is made, he cannot, without first abandoning such judgment, take saisie-revendication of the same goods to procure a declaratory decree establishing his proprietary rights therein, and thus have a second condemnation against the defendant. *Plessisville v. The burden is on the vendor who has retaken the property to show compliance with the statute. Whitelaw Furniture Co. v. Boon, 102 Tenn. 719.

In Tennessee, by Act 1889, c. 81, where the vendor retakes the property he must sell the same at auction and account to the buyer for the proceeds, less the amount due on the contract. A failure to do this will make him liable to the buyer for the amount paid for the property. See Massillon Engine, etc., Co. v. Wilkes, (Tenn. 1904) 82 S. W. Rep. 316. But see Milburn Mfg. Co. v. Wayland, (Tenn. Ch. 1896) 43 S. W. Rep. 129, wherein it was held that the provision of the act did not apply to a case where, though it was conceded that the vendor had the right of possession, the property was allowed to remain in the possession of the vendee until he could attempt to raise the money.

A sale by the conditional vendee, with the consent of the vendor, of his interest renders the subvendee an "original vendee" within the terms of the act requiring sale by public auction by the vendor on retaking the property on default in payment. Tschopick v. Lippincott, (Tenn. Ch. 1898) 48 S. W. Rep. 128.

Agreement that Property Is Subject to Order of Vendor. — An agreement providing that the vendee shall be allowed to retain possession of the property subject to the order of the vendor is a conditional sale, and the vendor may recover the property upon failure of the vendee to pay the purchase price. Hydraulic Press Mfg. Co. v. Whetstone, 63 Kan. 704.

Return of Money Received. — Where an article is sold on condition that it shall remain the property of the vendor until fully paid for, the vendor cannot maintain an action of revindication for noncompliance with the condition, unless he tenders the money received on account of the price. Cousineau v. Williams Mfg. Co., 11 Quebec Super. Ct. 389; Waterous Engine Works Co. v. Hochelaga Bank, 5 Quebec Q. B. 125, 27 Can. Sup. Ct. 406; Tufts v. Giroux, 12 Quebec Super. Ct. 530; Waterous Engine Works Co. v. Cascapedia Pulp, etc., Co., 13 Quebec Super. Ct. 315. But if the article, through the fault of the purchaser, has deteriorated in value to an amount equal to or greater than that part of the price already paid, no return of such part price can be demanded or required before or when the revindication of such article is judicially made. Waterous Engine Works Co. v. Cascapedia Pulp, etc., Co., 13 Quebec Super. Ct. 315. Compare Tufts v. Giroux, 12 Quebec Super. Ct. 530. It may be stipulated that any payments on account of the price shall be forfeited as damages for the nonperformance of the contract. Waterous Engine Works Co. v. Hochelaga Bank, 5 Quebec Q. B. 125, affirmed 27 Can. Sup. Ct. 406.

Resale of Perishable Articles. — Where the agreement for the sale of perishable articles provides that payment is to be made "by cash * * * in exchange for" shipping documents, the buyer is bound to pay within a reasonable time after the shipping documents are tendered him, and if he fails to do so the seller may sell the goods for his account, and charge him with the loss resulting from his failure. Ryan v. Ridley, 8 Com. Cas. (Eng.) 105.

Imposition of Minimum Retail Price. — Conditions cannot be imposed on a sale of goods and be enforceable by the vendor against subsequent purchasers who are not parties to the original agreement, though such subsequent purchasers have notice of the conditions. Thus, a condition in a sale by a manufacturer to a wholesaler that the goods shall not be retailed at less than a specified minimum price is not enforceable by the manufacturer against a retailer who purchases from the wholesaler, though the condition is printed on the boxes containing the

App. Div. 179, where the court held that a conditional vendee may mortgage his interest and the mortgagee will acquire the right to immediate possession and to receive the title on payment of the purchase price. And see Reischmann v. Masker, 69 N. J. L. 353, where the court said that the interest of the vendor was merely a lien for securing the purchase price, and the conditional vendee may transfer his interest to a third person.

In Bishop v. Minderhout, 128 Ala. 162, 86 Am. St. Rep. 134, the court stated that "the buyer may sell his interest subject to the rights of the vendor."

Incumberancing by Vendee a Criminal Offense in Georgia. — See Miley v. State, 118 Ga. 274.

5. Amount of Recovery from Vendor for Conversion. — The conditional vendee can recover only the value of his interest in the property at the time it was converted by the vendor; "this sum is the value of the property at the time of the conversion diminished by the sum then remaining unpaid on the contract of sale." Clark v. Clement, 75 Vt. 417.

Purchaser's Title Perfected by Tender of Price. — Christenson v. Nelson, 38 Oregon 473.

Purchaser's Title Perfected by Offer of Price. — But see Lippincott v. Rich, 19 Utah 149, holding that after condition broken, tender would give no right to vendee. The court said: "The plaintiff could not be compelled under such circumstances to accept, against his will, a new creditor or a new paymaster, or to make a new contract of sale."

Goods Marked with Vendor's Name and Address. — Section 1 of the Ontario Conditional Sales Act, Rev. Stat. Ont. 1897, c. 149, providing that a conditional sale of manufactured goods shall be good as against subsequent bona fide purchasers only when the name of the vendor is plainly marked on the goods, does not apply to a hiring with an option to the hirer to buy. It has been held, however, that in a case to which the statute would apply it would be insufficient to mark with the words "Mason & Risch, Toronto," a piano sold by "the Mason & Risch Piano Company, Limited." Mason v. Lindsay, 4 Ont. L. Rep. 365.

489. 4. American Press Assoc. v. Daily Story Pub. Co., (C. C. A.) 120 Fed. Rep. 771, citing 6 AM. AND ENG. ENCYC. OF LAW (2d ed.) 489.

In England, by Statute, if the buyer, with the consent of the seller, obtains possession of the goods or of the documents of title thereto, a subsequent purchaser for value and without notice acquires a good title as against the original seller. This rule has been held to protect the transferee of a bill of lading which the original seller sent to the buyer together with a draft for acceptance, where the buyer transferred the bill of lading for value to a bona fide purchaser, but did not accept the draft. Cahn v. Pockett's Bristol Channel Steam Packet Co., (1899) 1 Q. B. 643, 80 L. T. N. S. 269, allowing appeal from (1898) 2 Q. B. 61, 79 L. T. N. S. 55.

In New Hampshire the interest of the conditional vendee may be attached and title perfected in him by a tender by the attaching creditor of the sum due. Hervey v. Dimond, 67 N. H. 342, 68 Am. St. Rep. 673.

493. 1. Alabama. — Under the Alabama statute a contract reserving title to property sold in another state in the vendor must be recorded within three months after it is brought into the state, to be valid against judgment creditors. See Brandon Printing Co. v. Bostick, 126 Ala. 247.

Illinois. — See John Matthews Apparatus Co. v. Neal, 89 Ill. App. 174.

Pennsylvania. — Ryle v. Knowles Loom Works, (C. C. A.) 87 Fed. Rep. 976.

2. Mortgages. — Compare Contracting, etc., Co. v. Continental Trust Co., 47 C. C. A. 143, 108 Fed. Rep. 1.

Right of Seller of Fixtures as Against Prior Mortgagee. — Where the owner of a mill mortgaged it, together with all its machinery, which was declared to be fixtures, and subsequently a second mortgage covering the same property was executed by the mortgagor, and both mortgages contained covenants to insure, and thereafter the mortgagor, with the consent of the second but without that of the first mortgagee, made a contract with the plaintiffs under which they placed new machinery in the mill, using, as the contract provided, such of the old machinery as was necessary to complete the equipment, and taking and removing such of the old as was not required, the mortgagor agreeing with the plaintiffs to insure the machinery and assign the insurance to them, it was held that on the destruction of the machinery by fire the plaintiffs could not claim, by reason of their betterment of the machinery which prior to its reconstruction was deemed of substantial value, that they were entitled to a claim on the insurance money prior to that of the first mortgagee, but it was further held that they were so entitled as against the second mortgagee. Goldie v. Hamilton Bank, 31 Ont. 142, affirmed 27 Ont. App. 619.

The words "continued possession" in the act refer to continued possession of the vendee, so that an agreement which contemplates possession of the articles by a third person does not come within the statute. J. L. Mott Iron Works v. Reilly, (Supm. Ct. App. T.) 39 Misc. (N. Y.) 833.

When a contract of conditional sale is not required by the lien laws to be filed, the fact that it was filed will not be constructive notice to purchasers. Baldinger v. Levine, 83 N. Y. App. Div. 130.

Illustrations. — A condition is void for uncertainty which provides that the devise shall be forfeited if the devisee "shall in any way associate, correspond, or visit with any of my present wife's nephews or nieces." Jeffreys v. Jeffreys, 84 L. T. N. S. 417.

Where the testator devised in fee, provided the devisee "comes to live and reside on the land devised during the term of his natural life" with gift over "provided devisee does not come to reside on the said land so devised to him within one year after my decease," it was held that the condition was void for uncertainty, and that the devisee should be relieved from its performance. In re Ross, 7 Ont. L. Rep. 493.

L. 313, citing 6 AM. AND ENG. ENCYC. OF LAW (2d ed.) 505; Union College v. New York, 65 N. Y. App. Div. 553, affirmed 173 N. Y. App. Div. 38; Pierce v. Brown University, 21 R. I. 392.

12. Person Accepting Estate Must Perform Condition. — Huber v. Hess, 191 Ill. 318, citing 6 AM. AND ENG. ENCYC. OF LAW (2d ed.) 505; Leach v. Raines, 149 Ind. 152; Bird v. Hawkins, 58 N. J. Eq. 229; McDade v. Spencer, 6 Lack. Leg. N. (Pa.) 84; Ledebuhr v. Wisconsin Trust Co., 112 Wis. 657.

A will directed the executor to pay from the testator's estate "the mortgage indebtedness of my half brother W., upon his house, whenever that indebtedness shall be reduced by him so that not more than fifteen hundred dollars is due thereon." This was held to be a bequest on condition, and W. having died without performing the condition of reducing the indebtedness to fifteen hundred dollars, his estate could not claim the legacy. Brown v. Ferren, (N. H. 1904) 58 Atl. Rep. 870.

Purchaser of Conditional Estate. — One who acquired a conditional estate by foreclosure proceedings against the grantee, was bound by the conditions. Kelly v. Nypano R. Co., 200 Pa. St. 229, 86 Am. St. Rep. 715.

8. See Harrison v. Harrison, 105 Ga. 517, 70 Am. St. Rep. 60.

11. Maintenance and Support. — Where one took a conveyance on the express condition that he support the grantor, he was obliged to do so either at home or elsewhere, and a court of equity would consider the granted estate held in trust for that purpose. Cornell v. Whitney, 132 Mich. 300, 9 Detroit Leg. N. 600; Woolcott v. Woolcott, 133 Mich. 643, 10 Detroit Leg. N. 333. See also Bacon v. Gibbs, 4 Ohio Dec. (Reprint) 23, Cleve. L. Rec. 25; Leduc v. Under a Name and Arms Proviso, directing a person entitled under the limitations created by the will to take on himself and use in all deeds or writings which he should sign, and on all occasions a particular surname "alone or together with his * * * family surname," it was held that a person so becoming entitled has the option of placing the assumed surname before or after his own surname. In re Eversley, (1900) 1 Ch. 96, 81 L. T. N. S. 600, distinguishing D'Eyncourt v. Gregory, 1 Ch. D. 441. In order to comply with a clause in a will requiring the devisee of an estate thereunder to "lawfully assume" a certain name and arms, on penalty of forfeiting the estate, such devisee must take some active steps to obtain a legal title to the arms, as the testator by the use of the word "lawfully" must be taken to have intended something more than merely "assume." In re Croxon, (1904) 1 Ch. 252. Where the condition of a devise in remainder to a person and his heirs was that the devisee should take and use the testator's name, it was held that it was a condition subsequent to be performed by the devisee when he became entitled to possession on the termination of the life estate, and that on the death of the devisee before the death of the life tenant the condition was, by the act of God, rendered impossible of performance, so that the devise took effect free from the condition. In re Greenwood, (1903) 1 Ch. 749, 88 L. T. N. S. 212, reversing (1902) 2 Ch. 198, 86 L. T. N. S. 500.

Canada. — Clark v. Vancouver, 10 British Columbia 31.

In Mississippi an Assignee May Take Advantage of a Right of Entry. — Wright v. Hardy, 76 Miss. 524.

Assignment by Grantor Before Revesting of Estate. — On the grant of a fee simple, defeasible on breach of a condition, no estate is left in the grantor but only a possibility of reverter, and therefore, before breach of the condition, there is nothing capable of assignment. After breach of the condition, where the deed does not provide for ipso facto forfeiture, the fee does not revest automatically, nor until the grantor has taken the proper step by suit or otherwise, and until it does revest there is nothing capable of assignment. Hence, where land was conveyed subject to certain conditions, the purchasers were to hold the land in trust for the grantor and reconvey to him, and the conditions were not performed, it was held, in an action by grantor's assignee for a declaration that the purchasers held the land in trust for him and for an order for the conveyance thereof to him, that no action lay. Clark v. Vancouver, 10 British Columbia 31.

508. 3. Election May Be Signified by Re-entry or an Equivalent Act. — Van Horn v. Mercer, 29 Ind. App. 277; Bonniwell v. Madison, 107 Iowa 85; Whittemore v. Woodlawn Cemetery, 71 N. Y. App. Div. 268, citing 6 AM. AND ENG. ENCYC. OF LAW (2d ed.) 508; Union College v. New York, 65 N. Y. App. Div. 553, affirmed 173 N. Y. 38; Matter of Woods, (Surrogate Ct.) 33 Misc. (N. Y.) 12, affirmed 61 N. Y. App. Div. 587; Meginnis v. Knickerbocker Ice Co., 112 Wis. 385.

"A breach of condition would not operate ipso facto to revest the estate in the grantor. The title conveyed would not thereby become void. It would become voidable only at the election of the grantor or his heirs, or such other person as by statute was empowered to make the election, and upon the doing of that which the law requires to effectuate such election." Lewis v. Lewis, 74 Conn. 630, 92 Am. St. Rep. 240.

5. Release or Waiver. — Van Horn v. Mercer, 29 Ind. App. 277; Bonniwell v. Madison, 107 Iowa 85; Johnson Co. v. Covats, 12 Ohio Cir. Dec. 166, 22 Ohio Cir. Ct. 206.

6. Release or Waiver May Be Express or Implied. — Smith v. American Crystal Monument Co., 29 Ind. App. 308; Huntingdon v. Titus, 50 N. Y. App. Div. 468, affirmed 169 N. Y. 579; *Union College v. 7. Silent Acquiescence or Parol Assent Is Not Effective. — Van Horn v. Mercer, 29 Ind. App. 277; Union College v. New York, 65 N. Y. App. Div. 553, affirmed 173 N. Y. 38; Meginnis v. Knickerbocker Ice Co., 112 Wis. 385.

509. 1. Unlimited Restraints on Alienation in Conveyances in Fee. — In re Hollis' Hospital, (1899) 2 Ch. 540, 81 L. T. N. S. 90; Freeman v. Phillips, 113 Ga. 589; Fowlkes v. Wagoner, (Tenn. Ch. 1898) 46 S. W. Rep. 586; Walker v. Shepard, 210 Ill. 100.

Specifications as to the use a beneficiary shall make of an estate left in trust for him are valid even if alienation of the estate is thereby prevented. Schoeneich v. Field, 73 Mo. App. 452.

4. Till Devisee Thirty-five Years Old. — A devise to an infant prohibiting alienation until the devisee should reach the age of thirty-five was held to be a valid restriction (following Stewart v. Brady, 3 Bush (Ky.) 623, cited in the original note). Wallace v. Smith, 113 Ky. 263. And see the title RESTRAINTS ON ALIENATION.

512. 1. Restraints of Alienation in Conveyances for Life. — Lewis v. Lewis, 76 Conn. 586; Simonton v. White, 93 Tex. 50, 77 Am. St. Rep. 824. See also In re Cotgrave, (1903) 2 Ch. 705, 72 L. J. 2. Unlimited Restraints of Marriage Generally. — Kennedy v. Alexander, 21 App. Cas. (D. C.) 424; Re Hamilton, 1 Ont. L. Rep. 10.

The case of Ransdell v. Boston, 172 Ill. 439, makes a distinction between conditions precedent and subsequent, holding that a precedent condition in restraint of marriage defeats the estate absolutely, as no estate vests until the condition is performed.

3. Restraint of Marriage of Husband or Wife. — Bennett v. Packer, 70 Conn. 357, 66 Am. St. Rep. 112; Bruch's Estate, 185 Pa. St. 194; Leonard v. Leonard, 1 N. Bruns. Eq. Rep. 576; Re Deller, 6 Ont. L. Rep. 711.

Where an estate was left in trust until the beneficiary should become unmarried the condition was not against public policy nor void, since a divorce suit was already pending. Ransdell v. Boston, 172 Ill. 439.

Where an estate was conditioned, with remainder over in fee to the deviser's daughter on the death of the husband or divorce from him, the condition was not void as promotive of domestic trouble. Ellis v. Birkhead, 30 Tex. Civ. App. 529.

6. Provisions Against Contesting Wills or Making Claims Against Estates. — Smithsonian Inst. v. Meech, 169 U. S. 398; Nevitt v. Woodburn, 190 Ill. 283; Scott v. Ives, (Supm. Ct. Spec. T.) 22 Misc. (N. Y.) 749.

Ct. 363; Anderson v. Rowland, 18 Tex. Civ. App. 460.

Limitations to the Use of Property — Court-house Purposes. — A provision in a deed to a municipality that no building other than a city hall shall ever be erected on the land conveyed merely declares the use and does not impose a condition where no words of re-entry or forfeiture are used. Ecroyd v. Coggeshall, 21 R. I. 1.

School House. — Where a deed made provision for a seminary of learning, and reversion on breach, failure of the grantor to object to a school of another sort that was established will act as a waiver of the condition and he may not object to the discontinuance of the school. Maddox v. Adair, (Tex. Civ. App. 1901) 66 S. W. Rep. 811; Union College v. New York, 65 N. Y. App. Div. 553, affirmed 173 N. Y. 38.

Market Purposes. — Where a lot was conveyed to a city for market purposes, it does not revert to the grantor for nonuser. Hand v. St. Louis, 158 Mo. 204.

Streets. — A deed conveying property "as and for a public street of said city" does not make the estate conveyed subject to a condition. Avery v. U. S., (C. C. A.) 104 Fed. Rep. 711.

Depot Purposes. — Tift v. Savannah, etc., R. Co., 103 Ga. 580.

A Conveyance to a Charitable Use, conditioned that the property should revert to the bargainor if used by the bargainee for any purposes other than those specified, was held to create a condition which was void as obnoxious to the rule against perpetuities. In re Hollis' Hospital, (1899) 2 Ch. 540, 81 L. T. N. S. 90.

2. Building Restrictions in the Form and Nature of Conditions. — Sutcliffe v. Eisele, 62 N. J. Eq. 222; Papst v. Hamilton, 133 Cal. 631.

Where the deed recited that the trustees of a school had decided that the land of the grantor had been selected "as a proper place for the building of said academy and as a permanent site for the same," there was no condition imposed that the site should always be used for school purposes. Fuquay v. Hopkins Academy, 58 S. W. Rep. 814, 22 Ky. L. Rep. 744.

A clause in a deed requiring that no building be erected within ten feet of the street is a restriction and not a condition. Cassidy v. Mason, 171 Mass. 507.

Restrictions Must Be in Accordance with General Plan of Improvement. — Haines v. Einwachter, (N. J. 1903) 55 Atl. Rep. 38; Hemsley v. Marlborough Hotel Co., 65 N. J. Eq. 167. See also *Summers v. Breach — Illustrations. — Where a deed contained a restriction that the grantee should put up no house for less than $1,200 on the lot conveyed, he was not allowed to move a shabby four-hundred-dollar house on the lot, and having done so was liable as provided in the deed. Quatman v. McCray, 128 Cal. 285.

A breach of restriction as to the building line was enjoined although the neighborhood had changed from a residential to a business section. Zipp v. Barker, (Supm. Ct. Spec. T.) 55 N. Y. Supp. 246, affirmed 166 N. Y. 621; Vetter v. Flaherty, 4 Lack. Leg. N. (Pa.) 175.

Where a deed restricted a lot by providing that only one house should be erected the grantee was enjoined from building two houses thereon. Gamm v. Renner, 59 N. J. Eq. 307.

Where a deed to a church restricted the lot to its use as a site for a dwelling house, the church could not build a parish house even though some of the clergy were to reside therein and though it was arranged with conveniences as a dwelling house. Crofton v. St. Clements' Church, 208 Pa. St. 209.

Where a restriction is created in favor of one lot the owner of the servient lot cannot rid it of the condition by granting it free from the condition. Hansell v. Downing, 17 Pa. Super. Ct. 235.

Stipulations. — American Unitarian Assoc. v. Minot, 185 Mass. 589; McCusker v. Goode, 185 Mass. 607; Frink v. Hughes, 133 Mich. 63, 10 Detroit Leg. N. 106; Levy v. Schreyer, 177 N. Y. 293; Barney v. Everard, (Supm. Ct. Spec. T.) 32 Misc. (N. Y.) 648.

Where a deed conveyed an acre of land in a farm stipulating that it must be kept fenced in, a subsequent grantee of the lot is liable to a subsequent grantee of the farm for the cost of erecting a fence. Patten v. Patten, 68 N. H. 603.

A stipulation that a railroad shall maintain a station is not complied with by the erection of an uncovered platform on a side track. Arkansas Cent. R. Co. v. Smith, 71 Ark. 189.

5. Exceptions and Reservations — Definitions — Exception. — Mannerback v. Pennsylvania R. Co., 16 Pa. Super. Ct. 622, citing 6 AM. AND ENG. ENCYC. OF LAW (2d ed.) 515.

"An exception in a deed is nothing more than a qualification, by which some part of the estate is not conveyed, which would have passed to the grantee but for the exception." Burchard v. Walther, 58 Neb. 542.

Clause Construed as Exception. — A clause in a deed "excepting and forever reserving the graveyard on the lands hereby conveyed at all times hereafter to enter thereon without hindrance or denial of the said Daniel Spang, his heirs and assigns," constitutes an exception saving to the grantor the fee of the land used as a graveyard, and does not as a reservation create merely an easement in the land. Mannerback v. Pennsylvania R. Co., 16 Pa. Super. Ct. 622.

6. Reservation. — Mannerback v. Pennsylvania R. Co., 16 Pa. Super. Ct. 622, citing 6 AM. AND ENG. ENCYC. OF LAW (2d ed.) 515.

8. Creation. — Hodges v. Buell, 134 Mich. 162, 10 Detroit Leg. N. 410.

516. 1. Created by and for the Benefit of the Grantor or His Heirs Only. — Burchard v. Walther, 58 Neb. 542, quoting 6 AM. AND ENG. ENCYC. OF LAW (2d ed.) 516.

517. 3. Limited Reservation of Right to Cut and Remove Timber. — Hodges v. Buell, 134 Mich. 162, 10 Detroit Leg. N. 410.

518. 1. In Wampol v. Kountz, 14 S. Dak. 334, the court said: "Conduct, when applied to a person in its relation to the modern doctrine of equitable estoppel, embraces not only ideas conveyed by words written or spoken and things actually done, but it includes the silence of such person and his omission to act, as well."

CONFESSIONS.

By J. E. BRADY.

521. I. DEFINITION AND GENERAL CONSIDERATIONS. — See note 1.

As Distinguished from Statements or Declarations. — See notes 2, 3.

As Distinguished from Admissions. — See note 4.

522. Statements as to Facts Tending to Establish Guilt. — See note 1.

523. Extra-judicial Confessions. — See note 3.

Instances of Confessions or Admissions Implied from Conduct. — See note 8.

524. See note 1.

Silence of Accused. — See note 5.

525. Reason of Inference. — See note 1.

II. ADMISSIBILITY — 1. Necessity of Voluntary Character — a. EXTRA-JUDICIAL CONFESSIONS — (1) Rule Stated. — See note 2.

521. 1. Confession Defined. — Travers v. U. S., 6 App. Cas. (D. C.) 450; Owens v. State, 120 Ga. 296; Johnson v. People, 197 Ill. 51, quoting 6 AM. AND ENG. ENCYC. OF LAW (2d ed.) 521; Michaels v. People, 208 Ill. 607, citing 6 AM. AND ENG. ENCYC. OF LAW (2d ed.) 520 [521]; State v. Novak, 109 Iowa 727, quoting 6 AM. AND ENG. ENCYC. OF LAW (2d ed.) 521; State v. Porter, 32 Oregon 135; State v. Nagle, 25 R. I. 105, 105 Am. St. Rep. 864.

2. Confession Distinguished from Declaration. — Michaels v. People, 208 Ill. 607, citing 6 AM. AND ENG. ENCYC. OF LAW (2d ed.) 520 [521].

3. Must Be Inculpatory. — People v. Ashmead, 118 Cal. 508; State v. Picton, 51 La. Ann. 624, quoting 6 AM. AND ENG. ENCYC. OF LAW (2d ed.) 521; State v. Novak, 109 Iowa 717, citing 6 AM. AND ENG. ENCYC. OF LAW (2d ed.) 521. Compare Rex v. Martin, 9 Ont. L. Rep. 218, holding that on a joint trial of husband and wife for the murder of their child, a statement made by the wife exculpating herself and inculcating her husband was admissible, on the ground that if such statement "connects or tends to connect the accused, either directly or indirectly, with the commission of the crime charged, it cannot be excluded on the ground that it is not a plenary confession."

Confession After Inculpatory Statement. — Where one of two prisoners, in custody on a charge against them jointly, has voluntarily made and signed a statement implicating the other, and such statement is read over to the prisoner implicated, and the latter, after being cautioned, makes a confession which is taken down in writing, and which he signs when it is so written, the inculpatory statement of the first prisoner and the confession of the other prisoner may be given in evidence on the trial of the latter. Reg. v. Hirst, 18 Cox C. C. 374.

4. Confessions as Distinguished from Admissions. — People v. Miller, 122 Cal. 84; Powell v. State, 101 Ga. 9, 65 Am. St. Rep. 277; Michaels v. People, 208 Ill. 607, citing 6 AM. AND ENG. ENCYC. OF LAW (2d ed.) 520 [521]; State v. Novak, 109 Iowa 727, citing 6 AM. AND ENG. ENCYC. OF LAW (2d ed.) 521; State v. Picton, 51 La. Ann. 624; State v. Porter, 32 Oregon 135.

522. 1. Statement as to Facts Tending to Establish Guilt. — People v. Miller, 122 Cal. 84; Michaels v. People, 208 Ill. 607; Johnson v. People, 197 Ill. 51; State v. Novak, 109 Iowa 727, citing 6 AM. AND ENG. ENCYC. OF LAW (2d ed.) 522; State v. Picton, 51 La. Ann. 624, quoting 6 AM. AND ENG. ENCYC. OF LAW (2d ed.) 522. See also State v. Force, (Neb. 1903) 95 N. W. Rep. 42.

8. Instances of Confessions or Admissions Implied from Conduct. — Com. v. Devaney, 182 Mass. 33.

Removing Shoe for Purposes of Experiment. — Where the accused at the command of the sheriff removed his shoe, which the sheriff then placed in a track found near the scene of a crime and found the shoe to fit the track exactly, this act was held not to be one "in the nature of a confession." Guerrero v. State, (Tex. Crim. 1904) 80 S. W. Rep. 1001. See generally the title EXPERIMENTS (IN EVIDENCE).

524. 1. Implication from Flight, Escape, or Concealment. — Funk v. U. S., 16 App. Cas. (D. C.) 478. See also Cleavinger v. State, 43 Tex. Crim. 273.

5. Implication from Silence. — See Bram v. U. S., 168 U. S. 532; Davis v. State, 131 Ala. 17, citing 6 AM. AND ENG. ENCYC. OF LAW (2d ed.) 524; Joiner v. State, 119 Ga. 315. See also Geiger v. State, 70 Ohio St. 400.

Admonition Not Vitiating Confession. — Admissions obtained from the accused after representations made to her by persons in authority, to the effect that the evidence was very strong against her, that another person, who was her lover, was suspected, and that she knew something about the murder, and would do well to speak, are not inadmissible as not being made voluntarily, or as being procured by threat or inducement. Reg. v. Viau, 7 Quebec Q. B. 362.

3. Admonition so Worded as to Be Understood to Recommend Confession. — Reg. v. Rose, 18 Cox C. C. 717; Reg. v. MacDonald, 2 Can. Crim. Cas. (N. W. Ter.) 221; Reg. v. Viau, 7 Quebec Q. The Statute Is Not Confined to Technical Confessions in its operation, but renders inadmissible statements of criminating facts made without a warning. Parks v. State, (Tex. Crim. 1904) 79 S. W. Rep. 301.

Where the Accused Is Not under Arrest warning is not necessary. Ross v. State, (Tex. Crim. 1900) 58 S. W. Rep. 105; Bailey v. State, 42 Tex. Crim. 289.

What Amounts to Arrest.—If the prisoner, at the time of making the confession, was in reality held in custody, it need not appear that he was formally arrested. Jones v. State, 44 Tex. Crim. 405. So where the prisoner was, at the time of making the confession, waiting in the company of a policeman for the sheriff to whom he preferred to surrender, he was held to be under arrest so as to render his confession inadmissible in the absence of a previous warning. Moore v. State, (Tex. Crim. 1904) 79 S. W. Rep. 565. But the accused was held not to be under arrest so as to render his confession inadmissible, in the absence of a warning, where at the time he was with three armed deputy sheriffs but had not been placed under formal arrest. Bargna v. State, (Tex. Crim. 1902) 68 S. W. Rep. 997.

Belief as to Arrest.—If the prisoner, at the time of making the confession, did not believe himself to be in restraint or under arrest, the confession may be used against him though he was not warned. Connell v. State, (Tex. Crim. 1903) 75 S. W. Rep. 512. But where the accused believes that he is under arrest at the time of making a confession, his statements are not admissible. Bain v. State, (Tex. Crim. 1903) 74 S. W. Rep. 542.

Time of Warning.—For a warning to be effective it must have been made within a period previous to the confession short enough so that it reasonably appears that the prisoner had it in mind at the time of the confession. Petty v. State, (Tex. Crim. 1901) 65 S. W. Rep. 917. So a confession, though made after conviction, is admissible if the accused had received warning and had the warning in mind at the time he made the confession. Yancy v. State, (Tex. Crim. 1903) 76 S. W. Rep. 571.

Sufficiency of Warning.—A warning to the prisoner that his statements could be used "for or against him" is insufficient to render a confession admissible. Glover v. State, (Tex. Crim. 1903) 76 S. W. Rep. 465. To the same effect see Perry v. State, 42 Tex. Crim. 540.

By Whom Warning Given.—If the accused had been warned that a confession would be used against him, a confession then made is admissible though the warning did not come from an officer. Black v. State, (Tex. Crim. 1904) 81 S. W. Rep. 302.

An Indian Agent Appointed by the Government is a person in authority over the Indians on the reserve within his charge. Reg. v. Pah-cah-pah-ne-capi, 4 Can. Crim. Cas. (N. W. Ter.) 93.

The Rector of a Cathedral Is a Person in Authority Over the Choir Boys with respect to the investigation of an alleged assault committed by them while on the way to a meeting of the choir, and answers of a choir boy elicited by the rector and the choirmaster upon such investigation and stated to be only for the purpose of that inquiry, are not admissible in evidence against the choir boy afterwards prosecuted for the assault, without proof that the statement was voluntarily made. Rex v. Roysds, 8 Can. Crim. Cas. (British Columbia) 209.

Confession Induced by Threat and Deception. — Where the accused was induced to confess by means of a false statement, made to him by a detective employed by the prosecution, that he had been seen to commit the offense, and by a threat that he "might as well own up as to have it brought out in a court of justice," the court, in holding the confession inadmissible, said: "Whatever justification there might be for a person in authority endeavoring to worm a confession out of a suspected person, there was certainly no justification for such a resort to falsehood." *Reg. v. 587. 2. Du Bois v. People, 200 Ill. 157.

Distinguished from Robbery. — In Van Eyck v. People, 178 Ill. 200, the court said: "As to whether the crime committed was robbery or the obtaining of money by means of the confidence game, is not a proposition that will induce us to engage in a protracted discussion of these crimes. Inducing men to bet on top and bottom of dice, and procuring money from a man for that purpose, and getting possession of his pocketbook for the purpose of betting, even though fear is aroused in him

2. Ratification and Confirmation. — De Hereu v. Hereu, (Ariz. 1899) 56 Pac. Rep. 876.

589. 3*a*. Conform Has the Sense of Comply With or Adopt in a statute requiring that "any quarantine line that may be fixed by the Live Stock Sanitary Commission against Texas, or splenic, fever shall be so fixed as to conform to the federal quarantine line established, or that may be established by the United States Department of Agriculture." Ft. Worth, etc., R. Co. v. Masterson, 95 Tex. 262.

590. 1. In construing a statute requiring an attachment writ to state the amount in conformity with the complaint, the court said: "The word conform is not the equivalent of 'identical,' or of 'the same.' Webster defines conformity thus: 'Correspondence in character or manner; resemblance; agreement; congruity with something else.' This word is usually followed by 'to,' or 'with,' and is frequently qualified by the word 'perfect,' without which qualification identity is not indicated. That the amount stated in the complaint, less all legal counterclaims or set-offs, being for the same indebtedness, and not exceeding the amount demanded, is in correspondence in character and in harmony or congruity with it, I think is apparent, and that the legislature intended this construction may be illustrated by an extreme case." De Leonis v. Etchepare, 120 Cal. 407.

592. 1. Term "Confusion of Goods" Distinguished. — In Stone v. Marshall Oil Co., 208 Pa. St. 85, 101 Am. St. Rep. 904, the court said: "Although such a term as 'confusion of goods' is generally used, there is in fact, properly, no such doctrine as 'confusion of goods.' There is a fact of confusion of goods, which if committed with a fraudulent motive subjects the transaction to an inflexible rule, rigorously enforced both at law and in equity, that the wrongdoer shall not profit by nor the innocent party suffer from the wrong."

Rights of Purchaser from Wrongdoer. — Where a wrongdoer has intentionally mixed the goods of another with his own, so as to be indistinguishable from his own, such other has the right to select the quantity due to him from those with which they are confused or intermingled, and the innocent purchaser from the wrongdoer gets no greater right. Blodgett v. Seals, 78 Miss. 522.

2. Owner May Peaceably Retake His Proportional Part. — Rust Land, etc., Co. v. Isom, 70 Ark. 99, 91 Am. St. Rep. 68; Pickering v. Moore, 67 N. H. 533, 68 Am. St. Rep. 695.

598. 1. If a Party Having Charge of the Property of Another — Wright v. Ellwood Ivins Tube Co., 128 Fed. Rep. 462, quoting 6 AM. AND ENG. ENCYC. OF LAW (2d ed.) 598, note.

2. Mixture by Mortgagor. — If the mortgagor of chattels, without the consent of the mortgagee, confuses them with other property of the same character belonging to a third person, and the latter, by consent of such mortgagor, converts the common property into money, knowing the facts, actually or constructively, such third person is liable to the mortgagee as for money had and received, but only to the extent of the sum due upon the mortgage indebtedness, he having a right to the benefit of all other mortgage security to save himself against loss. If in the event last mentioned the third person pays to the mortgagee a sum of money out of the proceeds of all or a part of the mortgaged property to apply upon the mortgage indebtedness, he is entitled to have the same applied thereon regardless of any agreement such mortgagee and the mortgagor may make to which he is not a party. Illinois Trust, etc., Bank v. Alexander Stewart Lumber Co., 119 Wis. 54.

A Lien of a Chattel Mortgage is not affected by the fact that the mortgagor, without the knowledge or consent of the mortgagee, mingles the goods covered by the mortgage with other property belonging to him. Edelhoff v. Horner-Miller Straw Goods Mfg. Co., 86 Md. 595.

Conversion. — Where mortgagors of a jewelry stock and fixtures and subsequent purchasers thereof added new goods to the stock, not covered by the mortgage, which was so commingled with the original stock that the mortgagee had no means of identifying the new goods and therefore sold the entire stock under the mortgage, he was held not to be liable for conversion of the stock not covered, in the absence of a demand for the goods before suit brought. Gibson v. McIntire, 110 Iowa 417.

Rights of Mortgagee. — When a mortgagor has so commingled the mortgaged property with goods of like quality and value belonging to a third person that identification and separation are impossible, the mortgagee may take under foreclosure proceedings his aliquot part from the entire quantity in the possession of a subsequent purchaser of both parcels. Horne v. Hanson, 68 N. H. 201.

Where one who is the agent for the sale of goods for another allows them to be mixed with his stock of goods, and then gives a mortgage on the entire stock, the mortgagee obtains no better title than the mortgagor had. Lance v. Butler, 135 N. Car. 419.

Third Person Negligently Allowing Mixture by Mortgagor. — Lance v. Butler, 135 N. Car. 419.

599. 6. In re Walker, 200 Ill. 574, the court said: "In the United States the word congregation means the members of a particular church who meet in one place to worship. (Bouvier's Law Dict., title 'Congregation.')"

600. 1. In Boston v. Doyle, 184 Mass. 373, the court said: "The leading American lexi-cographers make the primary meaning of the word congregational pertain to church government, although a secondary and popular meaning relates to doctrine. Doubtless many of the ministers and people of so-called 'Orthodox Congregational' churches entertain doctrinal opinions very different from those most prevalent in the same churches 100 years ago. We are of opinion that the testator, in using this word, did not have in mind any nice shades of distinction in regard to the doctrine of the Trinity, or other kindred doctrines, but that he meant to include churches of a kind well known in Boston and elsewhere in Massachusetts, which were not exactly alike in their doctrines, but which, chiefly by reason of their polity, were called Congregational."

1a. "The indictment goes further than to say that Guynes was acting for himself. It adds, 'and in conjunction with A. Effron and * * * W. J. Hume.' It is urged by counsel that it is difficult to determine just what is meant. But we must take it that the word conjunction was used with its ordinary meaning, — 'the state of being conjoined, united or associated; union, association, league.' Webst. Dict. Placing that meaning on the word, it seems clear that the grand jury charged that Guynes, in posting the letters, was acting for himself in union with the other defendants who concocted the scheme to defraud." Hume v. U. S., (C. C. A.) 118 Fed. Rep. 689.

3. Connected with the Subject of the Action. — As to when an answer stating a counterclaim is connected with the subject of the action within New York Code Civ. Pro., § 501, see Siebrecht v. Siegel-Cooper Co., 38 N. Y. App. Div. 549; Benton v. Moore, (County Ct.) 42 Misc. (N. Y.) 660.

3. The Georgia Statute. — Kerr v. Georgia R. Co., 105 Ga. 371.

Effect of Receipt for Goods "In Good Order." — If a railroad company receives from another railroad company goods to be transported, and receipts for them "as in good order," the company so receiving and receipting is, under the terms of the statute, concluded by the receipt from setting up, as against the consignee, that the goods were in fact not in good order when received. If such company receives the goods without receipting for them "as in good order," there is still a presumption that the goods were so received; but this presumption may be rebutted by showing that no receipt was given, and that the goods were in fact not in good order when received. The company may in such a case show, when sued by the consignee, either that the goods were delivered to him in exactly the condition in which they were received from the other railroad company, and that their damaged condition was not due to any act on the part of the defendant or its agents, or that they had become damaged after shipment, without fault on the part of any of the carriers. *Susong v. Delivery to Connecting Carrier Designated Prevented by Teamsters' Strike. — In Fisher v. Boston, etc., R. Co., 99 Me. 338, 105 Am. St. Rep. 283, delivery by the initial to the connecting carrier designated by the bill of lading was prevented by a teamsters' strike. Thereupon the initial carrier forwarded the goods to their destination by a more expensive route. It was held that the initial carrier was liable for the increased cost of transportation due to his diverting the consignment from the designated route, as he should have held the goods as a warehouseman and communicated with the shipper or consignee for directions as to their disposal.

Effect of Giving Receipt for Goods Marked to Place Beyond Terminus. — The acceptance by a common carrier, for transportation, of goods marked to a place beyond the terminus of its own line, and its giving a receipt therefor, will constitute prima facie a contract to carry and deliver at the point so marked. But in so far as it is a mere receipt by the initial carrier that the goods have been received in good order the rule is different. The connecting carrier is not bound by such an admission. Texas, etc., R. Co. v. Kelly, (Tex. Civ. App. 1903) 74 S. W. Rep. 343.

645. 1. Expressly Confined to First Carrier. — Robinson v. New York, etc., Steamship Co., 63 N. Y. App. Div. 211.

Judicial Statement of Rule. — In Texas, etc., R. Co. v. Reiss, 183 U. S. 626, the court said: "As between intermediate carriers, the duty of the one in possession at the end of his route is to deliver the goods to the succeeding carrier or notify him of their arrival, and the former is not relieved of responsibility by unloading the goods at the end of his route and storing them in his warehouse without delivery or notice to or any attempt to deliver to his successor. McDonald v. Western R. Corp., 34 N. Y. 497; Condon v. Marquette, etc., R. Co., 55 Mich. 218, 54 Am. Rep. 367. In the latter case it is held that the duty of the connecting carrier is not discharged until it has been imposed upon the succeeding carrier, and this is not done until there is delivery of the goods, or at least until there is such a notification to the succeeding carrier as according to the course of business is equivalent to a tender of delivery."

648. 2. Where No Shipping Directions Are Given to the Next Carrier there is no delivery of the freight to him, even though possession of the car containing such freight has been given. Bosworth v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., (C. C. A.) 87 Fed. Rep. 72, affirmed 179 U. S. 444.

661. 2. May Pay Back Charges and Recover Same of Owner. — Converse Bridge Co. v. Collins, 119 Ala. 534; Thomas v. Frankfort, etc., R. Co., 116 Ky. 879; Glover v. Cape Girardeau, etc., R. Co., 95 Mo. App. 369; Pearce v. Wabash R. Co., 89 Mo. App. 437, in which last case the court said: "A carrier may pay to a connecting carrier charges that the latter has paid and retain possession of the goods for its reimbursement, where the advance charges were such as were incident to the transportation of the goods and were necessary to be paid in order to continue them in transit; such as freight and warehouse charges and for the discharge of matured and valid liens on the goods, created by law or by the owner for the non-payment of which the transit of the goods has been stopped or their possession withheld from the carrier."

A Lien Exists for Back Charges which have been paid by the intermediate carrier. Southern Indiana Express Co. v. U. S. Express Co., 88 Fed. Rep. 659, affirmed (C. C. A.) 92 Fed. Rep. 1022.

as between son, father, grandfather, great-grandfather, and so upwards in the direct ascending line; or between son, grandson, great-grandson, and so downwards in the direct descending line. Collateral kindred agree with the lineal in this, that they are descended from the same stock or ancestor, but differ in this, that they do not descend one from the other. State v. De Hart, 109 La. 570.

663. 2a. In El Paso v. Ft. Dearborn Nat. Bank, (Tex. Civ. App. 1903) 71 S. W. Rep. 802, the court said: "While the term consecutive days primarily means * * * days directly following one another, it is also defined as meaning 'successive.' But in cases of contracts that significance should be given it which the parties evidently intended it should have."

3. Assent and Consent. — See People v. Studwell, 91 N. Y. App. Div. 469.

Consent of Abutting Owners. — "The 'consents' in writing of the owners of at least one-half in amount of property' fronting upon a street-railway route, required by 'An act to regulate the construction and maintenance of street railroads in this state,' approved May 16, 1894 (Pamph. L., p. 374), and by 'An act to regulate the construction, operation, and maintenance of street railroads in this state,' approved April 21, 1896 (Pamph. L., p. 329), are not licenses or concessions granting to the railway company some interest in land or right in the streets; they are in effect votes for the adoption of a legislative scheme by which a special jurisdiction over highways is conferred upon the governing body of the municipality." Currie v. Atlantic City, 66 N. J. L. 140.

Temporary Incapacity to Perform the Service does not of itself constitute total failure of consideration, where the employment is of such nature — as that of a jockey — that the employee is likely to meet with accidents temporarily disabling him. Loates v. Maple, 88 L. T. N. S. 288.

785. 1. Mutual and Independent Contracts — Nonperformance of One Not Failure of Consideration of the Other. — American Boiler Co. v. Foutham, (Supm. Ct. Tr. T.) 50 N. Y. Supp. 351, citing 6 AM. AND ENG. ENCYC. OF LAW (2d ed.) 785.

786. 3. Failure Occasioned by Promisor's Own Act. — See Smith v. Blandin, 133 Cal. 441; Fox v. Smith, 73 Conn. 144.

787. 4. Where a Room Was Let to View the Coronation Procession of Edward VII., and the procession subsequently became impossible, owing to the illness of the king, and by the terms of the contract the rental was payable before the time at which the procession became impossible, it was held that the lessor was entitled to payment of the entire amount of the rental. Chandler v. Webster, (1904) 1 K. B. 493. And the same rule was applied to the chartering of a vessel to view the coronation naval review, where the charter-party provided that the money should be paid in advance. Civil Service Co-operative Soc. v. General Steam Nav. Co., (1903) 2 K. B. 756, 89 L. T. N. S. 429. Compare Krell v. Henry, (1903) 2 K. B. 740, 89 L. T. N. S. 328, wherein it was held that the agreement was a license to use the rooms for a particular purpose and no other; that the taking place of the processions on the proclaimed days along the proclaimed route was regarded by both parties as the foundation of the contract; and that as they failed to take place, the lessee was not bound to carry out the contract.

788. 3. Partial Want Avoids Contract Pro Tanto. — Dennehy v. Smith, 83 Ill. App. 656; Andrews v. Schmidt, 10 N. Dak. 1; Johnson v.

792. 1. Partial Failure of Title.—American Nat. Bank v. Watkins, (C. C. A.) 119 Fed. Rep. 545; Williams v. Baker, 100 Mo. App. 288, citing 6 AM. AND ENG. ENCYC. OF LAW (2d ed.) 792; Merchants' Nat. Bank v. Snyder, 52 N. Y. App. Div. 606, affirmed 170 N. Y. 565.

793. 1. Partial Failure of Title to Land.—American Nat. Bank v. Watkins, (C. C. A.) 119 Fed. Rep. 545.

794. 1. Breach of Warranty.—Schreiber v. Andrews, (C. C. A.) 101 Fed. Rep. 763; Snyder v. Johnson, (Neb. 1903) 95 N. W. Rep. 692; Colorado Dry Goods Co. v. W. P. Dunn Co., 18 Colo. App. 409; Creamery Package Mfg. Co. v. Benton County Creamery Co., 120 Iowa 584; Wilson v. Belles, 22 Pa. Super. Ct. 477; Puget Sound Iron, etc., Works v. Clemmons, 32 Wash. 36.

796. 1. See Cosgrove v. Cummings, 195 Pa. St. 497, holding that in an action on a bond or note under seal, want of consideration is no defense.

2. An Assignment of a Mortgage to the Mortgagor is valid, although the consideration for which it was given totally fails. Sawyer v. Hirst, 7 Del. Co. Rep. (Pa.) 404.

798. 2. Rule Abrogated in Many States.—See Hubbard v. Mulligan, 13 Colo. App. 116; Sivell v. Hogan, 119 Ga. 169, citing 6 AM. AND ENG. ENCYC. OF LAW (2d ed.) 798; Saunders v. Dunn, 175 Mass. 164; Knorr v. Lloyd, (N. J. 1900) 47 Atl. Rep. 53; Williams v. Whittell, 69 N. Y. App. Div. 340; Kam v. Benjamin, 10 N. Y. App. Div. 419, affirmed 158 N. Y. 725; Gein v. Little, (Supm. Ct. Tr. T.) 43 Misc. (N. Y.) 421.

3. In Ryttenberg v. Schefer, 131 Fed. Rep. 321, the court said: "To consign means to deliver into the care and control of another; to intrust or commit. A man cannot consign a thing to another by merely saying that he consigns it, any more than he can deliver it by mere words."

Conditional Sale to Bankrupt—When Title Passes.—See In re Hinsdale, 111 Fed. Rep. 502, citing 6 AM. AND ENG. ENCYC. OF LAW (2d ed.) 708.

799. 2. "Consistent with" does not import exact conformity, but means substantial harmony. Kansas City v. Bacon, 147 Mo. 272.

In O'Flinn v. McInnis, 80 Miss. 125, the court said: "The word consistent as employed in said section 3039 of the Code, in the light of the history of the adoption of chapter 93 of the Code, can have no other meaning than that of 'harmonious, accordant with, congruous, compatible,'—definitions given by Webster."

799. 3a. Consociation—Fellow-servant Rule.—The doctrine which prevails in some states, sometimes called the doctrine of consociation, is that two persons in the service of the same master are not to be esteemed fellow servants unless their duties are such as to bring them into habitual association with each other, so that they will exercise a mutual influence upon each other, tending to inspire caution and insure each other's safety. St. Louis, etc., R. Co. v. Furry, (C. C. A.) 114 Fed. Rep. 902. And see Jenkins v. Mammoth Min. Co., 24 Utah 513; and the title FELLOW SERVANTS.

CONSOLIDATION OF CORPORATIONS.

BY BRISCOE B. CLARK.

801. I. DEFINITION. — See note 1.

Amalgamation.—See note 2.

802. Sale and Purchase. — See note 1.

II. REQUISITES OF CONSOLIDATION — 1. Legislative Authority — a. NECESSITY FOR. — See note 5.

803. b. SUFFICIENCY OF — (2) Construction — (a) In General. — See notes I, 2, 3.

801. 1. Consolidation Defined.—See People v. People's Gas Light, etc., Co., 205 Ill. 482, 98 Am. St. Rep. 244; Chicago, etc., R. Co. v. Ferguson, 106 Ill. App. 356; Shadford v. Detroit, etc., R. Co., 130 Mich. 300, 9 Detroit Leg. N. 37; Adams v. Yazoo, etc., R. Co., 77 Miss. 194, affirmed 180 U. S. 1; Palmer v. Bosley, (Tenn. Ch. 1900) 62 S. W. Rep. 195.

Exchange of Stock.—The issuance by one corporation of stock in exchange for the stock of another does not work a consolidation. Rafferty v. Buffalo City Gas Co., 37 N. Y. App. Div. 618.

The Purchase by Stockholders of One Corporation of the Stock of Another does not constitute a consolidation. Crane v. Fry, (C. C. A.) 126 Fed. Rep. 278.

Validity and Construction of Agreements for Consolidation.—See Wood v. Manchester F. Assur. Co., 54 N. Y. App. Div. 522; Jewell v. McIntyre, (Supm. Ct. Spec. T.) 33 Misc. (N. Y.) 26, affirmed 62 N. Y. App. Div. 396; Logan v. Simpson, 60 N. Y. App. Div. 617, appeal dismissed 169 N. Y. 599; Cleveland City R. Co. v. New York First Nat. Bank, 68 Ohio St. 582.

2. Amalgamation in English Law.—Wall v. London, etc., Corp., 67 L. J. Ch. 596, (1898) 2 Ch. 469, 79 L. T. N. S. 249. See also Adams v. Yazoo, etc., R. Co., 77 Miss. 194, affirmed 180 U. S. 1.

802. 1. Sale and Purchase.—Maple Leaf Rubber Co. v. Brodie, 18 Quebec Super. Ct. 352; Capital Traction Co. v. Offutt, 17 App. Cas. (D. C.) 292; Sartison v. Baltimore, etc., R. Co., 103 Ill. App. 507; Overstreet v. Citizens Bank, 12 Okla. 383. Compare Chicago, etc., R. Co. v. Ashling, 160 Ill. 373, affirming 56 Ill. App. 327; Camden Safe-Deposit, etc., Co. v. Burlington Carpet Co., (N. J. 1895) 33 Atl. Rep. 479.

5. Legislative Authority Necessary.—Kava- nagh v. Omaha L. Assoc., 84 Fed. Rep. 295; Jones v. Missouri-Edison Electric Co., 135 Fed. Rep. 153; Boor v. Tolman, 113 Ill. App. 322; Bankers' Union v. Crawford, 67 Kan. 449, 100 Am. St. Rep. 465; Adams v. Yazoo, etc., R. Co., 77 Miss. 194, affirmed 180 U. S. 1, citing 6 AM. AND ENG. ENCYC. OF LAW (2d ed.) 802; Chevra Bnai Israel, etc., v. Chevra Bikur Cholim, etc., (Supm. Ct. App. T.) 24 Misc. (N. Y.) 189, citing 6 AM. AND ENG. ENCYC. OF LAW (2d ed.) 802; Topeka Paper Co. v. Oklahoma Pub. Co., 7 Okla. 220, holding that consolidation without statutory authority does work a dissolution of the old corporations; Overstreet v. Citizens Bank, 12 Okla. 383. See also Southern R. Co. v. Mitchell, 139 Ala. 629.

803. 1. As to the Ohio Statute authorizing consolidation of railroad companies in "adjoining states," see Continental Trust Co. v. Toledo, etc., R. Co., 82 Fed. Rep. 642; Tanner v. Lindell R. Co., 180 Mo. 1.

Missouri Rev. Stat. 1889, § 1334, authorizing the consolidation of corporations whose objects and business are in general of the same nature, authorizes the consolidation of two corporations whose business is of the same nature, though one of such corporations was formed by the consolidation of other corporations. Jones v. Missouri-Edison Electric Co., 135 Fed. Rep. 153.

Effect of Statute Fixing Liability.—Rev. Stat. Ill. (1897), c. 32, § 65, fixing the liability of consolidated corporations for debts of constituent corporations, does not of itself authorize the consolidation of corporations. Kavanagh v. Omaha L. Assoc., 84 Fed. Rep. 295, following American L. & T. Co. v. Minnesota, etc., R. Co., 157 Ill. 641.

A Corporation de Facto may under general statutory authority conferred upon corporations consolidate with another corporation. In re Trenton St. R. Co., (N. J. 1900) 47 Atl. Rep. 819.

807. Estoppel. — See note 3.

b. IMPLIED ASSENT — (1) Power to Amend Charter — "Stock." — See note 6.

Fraternal Beneficiary Association. — The Kansas statutes do not authorize the consolidation of fraternal beneficiary associations. Bankers' Union v. Crawford, 67 Kan. 449, 100 Am. St. Rep. 465.

Sufficiency of Title of Consolidating Act. — See People v. People's Gas Light, etc., Co., 205 Ill. 482, 98 Am. St. Rep. 244; Bohmer v. Haffen, (Supm. Ct. Spec. T.) 22 Misc. (N. Y.) 565, affirmed 35 N. Y. App. Div. 381.

Consolidation of National Banks. — See Bonnet v. Eagle Pass First Nat. Bank, 24 Tex. Civ. App. 613.

Religious Corporations. — See Davis v. Beth Tephila Israel Congregation, 40 N. Y. App. Div. 424.

803. 2. Toledo, etc.. R. Co. v. Continental Trust Co., 95 Fed. Rep. 497, 36 C. C. A. 155 (construing 3 Starr & Curt. Annot. Stat. Ill., c. 114, par. 33).

Right of Merger Conferred in General Terms. — Under legislative authority "to consolidate or merge with any corporation or corporations heretofore or hereafter created," etc., "the right of merger being hereby conferred upon any company so wishing to consolidate that does not possess it," the company possessing such authority may merge with any other company or companies wishing so to merge. State v. Hancock, 2 Penn. (Del.) 252.

3. Corporations of Different States. — In the case of corporations of different states, in order to authorize consolidation each corporation must be empowered by the laws of its state to consolidate. Whaley v. Bankers' Union of World, (Tex. Civ. App. 1905) 88 S. W. Rep. 259.

5. See People v. People's Gas Light, etc., Co., 205 Ill. 482, 98 Am. St. Rep. 244, citing 6 AM. AND ENG. ENCYC. OF LAW (2d ed.) 803.

7. Statutes Authorizing Consolidation of Corporations of Same Nature. — The statutes of New York do not authorize the consolidation of a religious corporation with a membership corporation, the corporations not being of a similar nature. Chevra Bnai Israel, etc., v. Chevra Bikur Cholim, etc., (Supm. Ct. App. T.) 24 Misc. (N. Y.) 189. See also People v. People's Gas Light, etc., Co., 205 Ill. 482, 98 Am. St. Rep. 244, citing 6 AM. AND ENG. ENCYC. OF LAW (2d ed.) 803.

804. 1. The New Jersey Statutes (Acts 1888, 1891) authorize the consolidation of electric street-railway companies. In re Trenton St. R. Co., (N. J. 1900) 47 Atl. Rep. 819.

2. Railroads. — Dady v. Georgia, etc., R. Co., 112 Fed. Rep. 838 (construing 2 Code Ga. [1895], § 2179; Bohmer v. Haffen, 161 N. Y. 390.

805. 3. Compare Bohmer v. Haffen, (Supm. Ct. Spec. T.) 22 Misc. (N. Y.) 565, affirmed 35 N. Y. App. Div. 381.

In Delaware it has been held that where two corporations organized before the adoption of the constitutional provision prohibiting the creation of corporations by special act had power to consolidate, the creation of a new company after the adoption of the constitution by the merger of the two companies did not violate the constitutional prohibition. State v. Hancock, 2 Penn. (Del.) 252.

Provision Against Private or Local Laws. — The provision of the New York constitution prohibiting private or local bills granting the right to lay railroad tracks in streets does not prohibit the legislature from authorizing the consolidation of several street-railway corporations and the transfer to the consolidated corporation of the existing right of the constituent corporations to lay tracks. Bohmer v. Haffen, 161 N. Y. 390.

The Illinois statute authorizing gas companies located in the same cities to consolidate does not violate the constitutional prohibition against the enactment of any local or special law granting to any corporation special privileges or franchises. People v. People's Gas Light, etc., Co., 205 Ill. 482, 98 Am. St. Rep. 244.

4. Corporations Created by Different States. — Rio Grande Western R. Co. v. Telluride Power, etc., Co., 16 Utah 125, dismissed 175 U. S. 639 (consolidation between railroads of different states).

806. 1. Assent of Shareholders. — Mayfield v. Alton R., etc., Co., 198 Ill. 528, affirming 100 Ill. App. 614; Bonnet v. Eagle Pass First Nat. Bank, 24 Tex. Civ. App. 613.

CONSTITUTIONAL LAW.

By P. B. McKENZIE.

890. I. INTRODUCTORY — 2. Definition and Nature — a. OF CONSTITUTIONS — (2) Viewed as to Legal Character. — See note 1.

894. III. FORMATION AND AMENDMENT OF CONSTITUTIONS — 1. Adoption — b. THE OCCASION — (2) Admission of New States — Ratification of Irregularly Formed Constitution by Subsequent Admission of State. — See note 3.

896. c. THE FRAMING: THE CONSTITUTIONAL CONVENTION — (4) Powers — Powers of Convention Held to Be Sovereign. — See note 7.

898. d. RATIFICATION — (2) Necessity. — See note 2.

901. e. TAKING EFFECT. — See note 1.

903. 2. Development — b. AMENDMENT AND REVISION — (2) Submission — (b) Under Constitutional Authorization — aa. IN GENERAL. — See note 1.

904. See note 1.

bb. SUCH PROVISIONS MANDATORY. — See notes 2, 3.

(c) Formalities of Passage. — aa. GENERALLY. — See notes 5, 6.

905. See note 2.

906. Publication. — See note 1.

bb. NOT SUBJECT TO RULES OF ORDINARY LEGISLATION. — See notes 5, 6, 7, 8.

The Sanction of the Executive. — See note 10.

907. (d) Form of Submission — Amendment Containing Alternative Propositions. — See note 1.

890. 1. Constitution as Fundamental Law. — Rasmussen v. Baker, 7 Wyo. 117.

894. 3. McCormick v. Western Union Tel. Co., (C. C. A.) 79 Fed. Rep. 449.

896. 7. Convention Held Sovereign Body. — State v. Favre, 51 La. Ann. 434.

898. 2. Necessity of Submission. — State v. Favre, 51 La. Ann. 434. See also Taylor v. Com., 101 Va. 829.

901. 1. State v. Cain, 52 La. Ann. 2120.

903. 1. It Is Competent for the Legislature to Provide a General Law under which constitutional amendments may be submitted for ratification by the people. Martin v. Election Com'rs, 126 Cal. 404.

904. 1. Wisdom and Policy of Amendments Not Judicial Question. — People v. Mills, 30 Colo. 262.

2. Kadderly v. Portland, 44 Oregon 118, rehearing denied 44 Oregon 160.

3. Constitutional Provisions as to Amendments to Be Strictly Observed. — State v. Powell, 77 Miss. 543; Kadderly v. Portland, 44 Oregon 118, rehearing denied 44 Oregon 160.

5. Reading Once in Full and Twice by Title Only has been held to be a compliance with the constitutional requirement that a proposed amendment should be read three times in each house. Saunders v. Board of Liquidation, 110 La. 313.

6. Sufficiency of Entry on Journal. — See People v. Loomis, 135 Mich. 556, 10 Detroit Leg. N. 877; Durfee v. Harper, 22 Mont. 354; State v. Herried, 10 S. Dak. 109.

In State v. Brookhart, 113 Iowa 250, the court held to the strict-compliance rule.

A Discrepancy Between the Journals of the Senate and House will not render an amendment invalid where such discrepancy is traceable to a mere clerical error. People v. Sours, 31 Colo. 369, 102 Am. St. Rep. 34.

905. 2. Ratification by Succeeding Legislature. — Where the constitution provided that amendments proposed by the legislature should be voted on by the people and, receiving the prescribed vote, should be ratified by the succeeding legislature, and a proposed amendment erroneously referred to § 5, art. IV., instead of § 5, art. X., it was held that neither the ratifying legislature nor the courts had authority to correct the error, and the amendment was void. Bray v. Florence, 62 S. Car. 57.

906. 1. Publication. — Russell v. Croy, 164 Mo. 69; Requisites of Warrants for Meetings of Electors, 21 R. I. 578.

5. Need Not Be Limited to Single Subject. — People v. Sours, 31 Colo. 369, 102 Am. St. Rep. 34.

6. Title. — In Pennsylvania the subject must be expressed in the title. Com. v. Greist, 8 Pa. Dist. 468.

7. Saunders v. Board of Liquidation, 110 La. 313.

The title may be considered if necessary to the interpretation of the amendment. State v. O'Connor, 81 Minn. 79.

8. Submission to People. — It is not necessary for a resolution expressly to declare that it shall be submitted to the people. State v. Herried, 10 S. Dak. 109.

10. Com. v. Griest, 196 Pa. St. 396.

907. 1. Proposed Alternative Amendment. —

907. Several Amendments. — See note 3.

908. (3) Ratification — (b) Procedure — aa. IN GENERAL. — See notes 3, 4.
bb. VOTE NECESSARY TO ADOPT. — Provisions of Several State Constitutions Construed. — See notes 5, 6, 9.

909. (4) Taking Effect — The Time When an Amendment Becomes Operative. — See note 9.

910. Operative from Counting Votes or Proclamation of Result. — See note 1.

Provision Intended to Operate from Future Date. — See note 4.

912. IV. OPERATION AND EFFECT OF CONSTITUTIONS — 1. What Provisions Are Self-executing — a. IN GENERAL. — See notes 2, 3.

913. b. PROHIBITIONS — (1) Generally. — See note 4.

Absence of Provision for Penalty. — See note 8.

914. (3) Limitations on Municipal Indebtedness and Rate of Taxation. — See note 4.

915. 2. What Provisions Are Not Self-executing — a. IN GENERAL. — See note 3.

Where the constitution is silent as to the form of submission it is competent for the legislature to prescribe the form. People v. Loomis, 135 Mich. 556, 10 Detroit Leg. N. 877. See also May, etc., Hardware Co. v. Birmingham, 123 Ala. 306; Russell v. Croy, 164 Mo. 69.

Words Added to the Prescribed Statutory Form of submission which do not change its meaning will not render the submission invalid. Hopkins v. Duluth, 81 Minn. 189.

Submission under a Misleading Title cannot be made the basis of an attack on the amendment without proof of the deception of voters thereby. People v. Sours, 31 Colo. 369, 102 Am. St. Rep. 34.

907. 3. Separate Submission of Several Amendments. — People v. Sours, 31 Colo. 369, 102 Am. St. Rep. 34; State v. Powell, 77 Miss. 543; Gabbert v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., 171 Mo. 84; State v. Herried, 10 S. Dak. 109. See also Bott v. Wurts, 63 N. J. L. 289; State v. Laylin, 69 Ohio St. 1.

908. 3. Submission at General Election Without Special Directions. — People v. Curry, 130 Cal. 82.

4. Whether Amendment Properly Adopted Is a Question for the Court. — Knight v. Shelton, 134 Fed. Rep. 423, citing 6 AM. AND ENG. ENCYC. OF LAW (2d ed.) 908; State v. Powell, 77 Miss. 543, quoting 6 AM. AND ENG. ENCYC. OF LAW (2d ed.) 908; Gabbert v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., 171 Mo. 84, citing 6 AM. AND ENG. ENCYC. OF LAW (2d ed.) 908; Bott v. Wurts, 63 N. J. 8. Qualification. — Epping v. Columbus, 117 Ga. 263.

Resort to Debates for Interpretation of Constitution. — "The views expressed by members of the convention, as set forth in the debates of the constitutional convention and the report of the committee as to changes made by the new constitution, cannot be resorted to in order to arrive at a judicial interpretation of any part of the constitution, if a sensible interpretation of the part in question can be made under the usual rules of judicial construction. This is on the principle that the final draft of the constitution is what the people adopted, not the preliminary debates leading up to it, or the construction put upon it by members of the convention afterwards." Com. v. State Treasurer, 13 Pa. Dist. 231.

held not to violate the equal-protection clause of the Fourteenth Amendment are the following: Giving a preference to nonstockholding depositors of savings banks. Murphy v. Pacific Bank, 130 Cal. 542. Requiring barbers to close on Sunday. Petit v. Minnesota, 177 U. S. 164. Requiring barbers in cities of a certain class to obtain licenses. State v. Sharpless, 31 Wash. 191, 96 Am. St. Rep. 893. Discriminating between bicycle riders under and over twelve years of age as to the use of sidewalks. State v. Addrich, 70 N. H. 391, 85 Am. St. Rep. 631. Discriminating between individuals and corporations doing a building and loan association business. Brady v. Mattern, 125 Iowa 158. Providing for the extension of city limits on certain classes of suburban property. Clark v. Kansas City, 176 U. S. 114; Kansas City v. Union Pac. R. Co., 59 Kan. 427. Discriminating between veteran and other firemen in the matter of procedure for removal or dismissal. People v. Folks, 89 N. Y. App. Div. 171. Discriminating between gambling at race tracks and elsewhere. New York v. Bennett, 113 Fed. Rep. 515. Regulating the hours of labor for women in certain employments. Wenham v. State 65 Neb. 394. Discriminating between tracts of land of one thousand acres and those upward of that acreage in the matter of tax forfeitures. King v. Mullins, 171 U. S. 404. Making special provision for punishment of an act done by a tramp. State v. Hogan, 63 Ohio St. 202, 81 Am. St. Rep. 626. Requiring vaccination of school children. Viemeister v. White, 88 N. Y. App. Div. 44, affirmed 179 N. Y. 235.

Statutes Requiring the Payment of Attorney's Fees by classes of corporations or persons in certain suits have frequently been upheld. Thus, such legislation has been sustained when directed against the following classes:

Insurance Companies, in actions based on failure to pay losses. Farmer's, etc., Ins. Co. v. Dobney, 189 U. S. 301; Hartford F. Ins. Co. v. Redding, (Fla. 1904) 37 So. Rep. 62; British-America Assur. Co. v. Bradford, 60 Kan. 82; Lancashire Ins. Co. v. Bush, 60 Neb. 116; Farmers', etc., Ins. Co. v. Dobney, 62 Neb. 213, 97 Am. St. Rep. 624; Farmers' Mut. Ins. Co. v. Cole, (Neb. 1903) 93 N. W. Rep. 730; Laansing v. Commercial Union Assur. Co., (Neb. 1903) 93 N. W. Rep. 756.

So statutes imposing on insurance companies a penalty in addition to attorney's fees in actions to recover for losses have been declared to be valid. Iowa L. Ins. Co. v. Lewis, 187 U. S. 335; Fidelity Mut. L. Assoc. v. Mettler, 185 U. S. 308; Fidelity, etc., Co. v. Dorough, 107 Fed. Rep. 389, 46 C. C. A. 364; Merchant's L. Assoc. v. Yoakum, 98 Fed. Rep. 251, 39 C. C. Advancement of Jury Fees in Criminal Prosecutions. — Hurd's Stat. Ill., c. 79, § 48, provides that in a civil action brought before a justice of the peace either party may have a jury trial on demand made before commencement of the trial, provided he first pays the fees of the jurors. Section 167 of the same chapter provides that a person accused of a criminal offense cognizable by a justice may have a jury trial without being required to advance the jury fees. Where the defendant in a criminal prosecution demanded a jury trial, and the justice refused to summon the jury unless and until the jury fees were paid by the prosecuting witnesses, it was held that a mandamus would lie to compel the justice to summon the jury and proceed with the trial; that neither the state nor the prosecuting witness could be compelled to advance the jury fees, and that the logical result of the refusal of justices to summon juries until the fees therefor were paid would be that defendants could prevent their prosecution by the simple process of asserting their right of trial by jury. Condit v. Lee, 83 Ill. App. 537.
